HIGHER CROP PRICES WILL AID FARMERS

Fine Outlook Is Not Expected to Decrease Demand for Farm Relief

CORN, WHEAT SELL HIGH

SPECIAL DISPATCH

Copyright, 1927, By Post Pub. Co.

Washington — With the important crops valued at current prices above more than a billion dollars above those of a year ago, government economists point out an increase in buying power which will stimulate general business throughout the country to higher levels this fall.

Cotton has gained $15 a bale since Monday's government forecast of probable yield which proved surprisingly small. This has added more than $200,000,000 to the value of this season's crop. While subject to fluctuations, the tendency appears to be further upward. At the moment the prospective crop is worth half a billion dollars more than last season's at this time.

Corn with the shortest crop of 20 years indicated Tuesday touched a point 27 cents per bushel higher than a year ago. Wheat was quoted 7 cents per bushel higher than on the same date of 1926. Other grains are up and so are potatoes and commercial fruits.

HIGHER BUYING POWER

The continued uptrend in general agricultural prices including the sharp advance in cotton has carried the index figure of the purchasing power of the dollar in agricultural commodities to a point higher than in August last year, with indications that the 1925 comparison will be passed if the present tendency holds. That the prospective conditions in farm markets will have their effects upon agricultural relief legislation in congress appears to be a fixed opinion in Washington. The demands, it is believed, will be less extreme than if lower prices were prevailing this year than last.

But there is no thought here that conditions are so bleak that they will sweep into the limbo of things forgotten the movement for farm relief machinery. The issue has become too pronounced to be killed by a single season of good returns to the farmers, even if all farmers were able to share in the higher prices, which they are not owing to conditions.

FARM RELIEF PUZZLING

But unquestionably the situation as to the type of legislation to be pressed has become more nebulous in recent weeks. There has been a tendency to centralize comment on a proposed bill which has been placed before President Coolidge for his consideration and which would provide a revolving fund whereby organized farmers, through stabilizing corporations to be set up, could secure loans to hold surplus products off the market. It is noteworthy that while this measure is being considered the administration has not given it his public endorsement.

It is emphasized by students of agricultural conditions that while current prices for farm products are favorable, these ranges are subject to unexplained fluctuations before the harvests are gathered and the money pours into the pockets of the growers. Prices may be either higher or lower when marketing is in full swing. That they will be definitely higher than last year's returns however, appears certain.

Cotton, for instance, is subject to world conditions. The forthcoming report on world carry-over of American cotton will influence the market, not to mention weather in the producing belt with its effects upon maturity and upon pest damage. There is more wheat in Europe than last season, but this appears offset by a probable shorter crop in Canada.

DIES IN CRASH

Lieutenant George Covelle, one of the entrants in the Dole race to Hawaii, who was killed Wednesday when his plane crashed to the ground near San Diego, Cal. Lieut. R. W. Waggener, his partner, also was killed in the crash.

PICK FORT ATKINSON FOR NEXT EAGLE MEET

Parade and Drill Team Competition Feature of Thursday's Program

Milwaukee—(P)—Fort Atkinson was chosen as the 1925 convention city for the Wisconsin State Aerie of Eagles at the final session of the state gathering late Wednesday.

Discussion of the state age pension law occupied the greater part of the afternoon, with Charles Dittman, LaCrosse, past president of the state aerie and Judge Albert H. Schmidt, Manitowish, participating.

A report was submitted that the membership in the state had increased 11,000 during the year.

Spokane business, the state participated in prize competition in connection with a parade, a feature of the order's annual convention.

Uniformed drill teams and bands took a prominent part in the march. More than 30 drill teams from various aeries in the United States participated in prize competition in connection with parade.

Three thousand Milwaukee Eagles headed the procession most of them in uniform. Grand aerie sessions will be resumed Friday.

WHO TAKES CARE OF HORSE KEEPER'S NAG IN CASE LIKE THIS?

Washington—(P)—When Dobbin is seized for hauling contraband liquor and the evidence later does not justify his detention, who is to take care of him? The question must foot his board bill for the time he was in government custody.

In the remote mountains of Utah a team of horses was taken by prohibition agents and kept at a nearby ranch until lack of evidence made it necessary that they be returned to their owner. The proprietor of the ranch then sent the government a bill for the food they had consumed and when in due course it reached Comptroller General McCall, payment was refused.

McCall ruled that a horse properly seized could be sold for its board but that in this case settlement must be made between the rancher, the owner of the horses and the prohibition agents.

FIND TWO WOMEN SHOT TO DEATH IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Minn.—(P)—Two women were found shot to death Thursday under circumstances that prompted the police to declare they had been murdered. They were found in a bedroom of a home on Mount Curve-bled. They were thought to be Mrs. Ruth Barrett and her sister.

The women appeared to be about 25 and 20 years of age and first examination indicated they had been dead since Tuesday night or early Wednesday. The house in which they were found is in one of the better residential sections of the city. Both women were in night attire. Between the bodies a bull dog crouched as though guarding them.

ONE MINER KILLED, ONE INJURED, WHEN ATTACKED

Clearfield, Pa.—(P)—One non-union miner is dead and another is seriously injured as a result of being attacked at work at the Trojan mine in the Clearfield mining district. The dead man is John Rublensky.

Pittsburg, Pa.—(P)—Five men were under arrest Thursday in connection with a clash between union sympathizers and non-union miners on their way to the Morning No. 4 mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation near Curry. They are charged with being members of the attacking force.

DELAY HOP-OFF IN DOLE RACE ACROSS OCEAN

Charge Entries Are not Properly Equipped or Qualified to Make Flight

Paris—(P)—Leon Given pilot of the Farman, Blue Bird, announced Thursday afternoon that he would begin his trans-Atlantic attempt at 5 o'clock Friday morning.

Given later qualified his announcement by saying he would take off "if the weather is better than it is now." Mechanics began filling the "Blue Bird's" tanks late Thursday afternoon.

San Francisco—(P)—Postponement of Friday's $35,000 Dole flight from San Francisco bay to Honolulu, because the entries who have thus far presented themselves, "are not properly equipped or qualified," was ordered Thursday by the flight committee and the department of commerce, subject to the approval of the Honolulu chapter of the National Aeronautic association.

The postponement order closely followed the crash of one of the entries near San Diego Wednesday in which Lieutenants, George W. D. Covell and R. S. Waggener, of the navy, were killed when their monoplane plunged into a cliff in the fog, fell to the bottom and burned. Although the direct cause of the accident was not determined, defective equipment was suspected.

"This flight is something different from other trans-oceanic flights," Lieutenant B. H. Wyatt, a member of the flight committee declared.

This is a supreme test of aerial navigation. The planes are shooting at a target 300 miles wide in the middle of the Pacific ocean and an error of but a couple of degrees on the part of the navigator would send a plane at least 200 miles off the course and would spell disaster for the fliers.

COMPASSES OFF

The outcome of the test flights by the seven entries now here was reported to have shown compasses several degrees off in some instances, rendering them practically useless.

Some of the pilots arrived here in the announcement that they planned to depend on "dead reckoning" in their flight toward the islands. The success of this method was regarded as highly questionable considering the small target at which the fliers aimed.

Lieut. Wyatt complained early in the week that he experienced difficulty in getting the planes into the air and the navigators into the air.

Some of the members of the committee were urged to postpone the flight.

GERMANS READY TO FLY

Dessau, Germany—(P)—The European and German airmen hopes to fly across the Atlantic to America Thursday were announced ready for the hop off.

The pilots are preparing a series of Morse signals with which to communicate with each other.

During the night the rockets will be fired from the plane and will descend. Both the Europa and Bremen will carry illuminating munitions and also a preparation which will burn on contact with water so as to attract the attention of passing ships in case of accident.

The plane will fly the German mercantile flag and the American flag when they take off and as they reach their destination.

LEVINE READY

Paris—Maurice Drouhin and Charles A. Levine were on the move Thursday, studying maps in preparation for the projected return flight of the Columbia. Levine said that some people discouraged a hop-off tomorrow because it is Friday, and some the next day because it was the 12, but there was a certain twinkle in his eye when he added that therefore he and Drouhin might have to postpone the take off until Sunday.

FINANCE COMMITTEE PONDERES TAX APPEAL

Whether Outagamie co. will appeal from the decision of Judge R. S. Coville, La Crosse, declaring illegal the county's tax of $265,125.40 for general county purposes, levied by the county board at a special meeting on Dec. 10, 1926, still is undecided. The county finance committee at a special meeting Thursday morning considered the court ruling with the view of outlining a course of action, but did not reach a decision, according to members who were in session several hours. The meeting was adjourned and it is probable that another session of the committee will be called within a short time.

There was nothing to indicate whether an appeal will be taken, declared District Attorney John A. Londorf. "Committee members merely considered the decision, which was read. It was thought desirable to give individual members ample time to decide what course to adopt."

Late Summer Flowers Are Ready For Hospital Sick

Saturday morning the Post-Crescent's Flower Cars again will make their weekly trips about the city collecting flowers for bed-ridden patients in St. Elizabeth hospital and River-view sanatorium. Hundreds of Appleton gardens are filled with zinnias, asters, gladioli and other late summer plants and it is confidently hoped by patients in the two institutions that there will be as many givers next Saturday as there were last week when a new record was established.

The Flower Cars made 53 stops last Saturday morning collecting nearly 175 bouquets, thereby assuring flowers and happiness for all the patients in the hospital and sanatorium. The high coloring of the flowers made it one of the most beautiful collections of the year.

The giving of flowers for the bed-ridden apparently is growing more popular with each succeeding week. There are quite a number of people who are making special efforts to see that flowers are ready for the Flower Cars on Saturday mornings because they realize the happiness these flowers carry to the sick.

It is hoped that persons who were unable to give to the sick earlier in the season because their flowers are late bloomers will be able to cooperate in this work this week. If you can help out, give your name and address and the Flower Cars will stop at your home. Calls will be received from 7 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night.

SENATOR SAYS CAL WILL BE G. O. P. CHOICE

Fess Declares Deadlock at Convention Will End in Nomination of Coolidge

Rapid City, S. D.—(P)—Railroad consolation, farm relief and the Mississippi flood situation were problems opened to discussion by President Coolidge Thursday with Senator Fess of Ohio, and Representative W. E. Hull of Illinois who came into the Black Hills for summer conferences at the state game lodge.

Reaching the summer White House Wednesday in time to attend the Rushmore memorial exercises with Mr. Coolidge, the Ohio senator predicted that the president would be nominated by the Republican convention next year in spite of his determination to leave office.

He brought with him also the prediction that congress would insist on a naval program which would place the American navy upon an equality with that of Great Britain. In the event President Coolidge was successful at obtaining guarantees for limitation at another armament conference.

Senator Fess made these statements as he rode with a couple of newspaper correspondents in the saddle behind President Coolidge on his return to Keystone from Rushmore.

CAL WILL BE CHOSEN

"President Coolidge does not desire another term as his statement fully explained," he said. "But I think that he will be nominated as a result of deadlock in the next convention. To be sure he is sincere but I feel that the country will demand him and that the convention will nominate him or press him to make his position known more positively and in unequivocal terms."

The senator said, in reply to a question as to whether he thought Mr. Coolidge would accept a nomination if forced upon him, "I know of no man who could decline the duty of running for president if the nomination was tendered him by his party."

Mr. Fess spoke of the farm relief bill which Secretary Jardine is credited with sponsoring, as having "many good features." He added that a farm relief bill was bound to be passed in the next session, but that it would not contain an equalization fee provision.

FORD TAKES FIRST AIR RIDE WITH LINDY

Automobile King Given First Airplane Journey With Lindbergh at Controls

Detroit—(P)—Henry Ford took his first airplane ride Thursday when he climbed into the cockpit of the Spirit of St. Louis, with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh at Ford airport and was taken up by Lindbergh. Mr. Ford's guest at his Dearborn home.

The plane, after taking off shortly before 1 o'clock and cruising above the field, landed about ten minutes later. Edsel Ford was then taken for a ride by the colonel.

Although Mr. Ford is an enthusiastic hater of aviation and has invested millions in his own factory, he never before had consented to make a flight.

Attaches at the field considered Mr. Ford's acceptance of Lindbergh's invitation as indication of the manufacturer's confidence in the youthful flyer. Col. Lindbergh spent the night at the Ford home after arriving here late Wednesday on his nationwide air tour.

Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commandant at Selfridge field, was the first to greet Henry Ford and Col. Lindbergh when the young colonel brought the motor king safely to earth.

"How did you like it," he asked Mr. Ford.

"It was great," Mr. Ford replied. "There was nothing to it."

It also was the younger Ford's first flight. Each was taken on a tour over the airport, the Ford offices and the Ford estate at Dearborn. Throughout, the plane maintained a height of about 2,000 feet.

Edsel's reaction was similar to that of his father. "It was fine," he declared after landing. "There is nothing else like it."

Afterward Lindbergh climbed into one of the three motor Ford planes with both the Fords, Major Lanphier, William B. Stout and William B. Mayo, Ford engineers and Charles E. Sorenson, and again circled the airport at about 2,000 feet. Harry Brooks, chief pilot for the Ford air lines was at the controls.

MILLIONAIRE INVENTOR TO BE BURIED SATURDAY

GOVERNOR USES AXE ON 2 BILLS FOR $500,000

BULLETIN

Madison—(P)—The senate Thursday adopted a resolution by Senator John Schuman to adjourn, sine die, Friday afternoon. Both houses of the legislature will meet Friday morning at which time the assembly will act upon the resolution. Governor Zimmerman still has a number of bills awaiting disposal.

BULLETIN

Madison—(P)—Sources close to Governor Zimmerman Thursday asserted that the normal school appropriation bill which allows the state institutions $5,157,759 should be vetoed.

The normal school bill had been increased more than a million dollars at the recommendation of the joint finance committee according to C. G. Blough, secretary of the state board of public affairs.

Madison—(P)—Two major appropriation bills, the University of Wisconsin field house bill which would have cost the state $200,000 and the "Seven Pines Park" bill authorizing the payment of $200,000 for the purchase of the park of that name, were killed by Governor Fred R. Zimmerman late yesterday along with several other measures.

The field house bill which would have brought to the university a new building and appropriate equipment was vetoed because "of the excessive tax levy which would result from the appropriation."

The "Seven Pines Park" located in Polk county which would have been purchased from funds obtained by affixing a surtax on incomes of more than $3,000 was considered by the governor as "too great an expense to the state."

"It occurs to me that the investment of the state in parks at this time ought to have a double purpose," the governor said. "First, the idea of preparing a park and second, the promotion of reforestation in connection herewith. This project would not readily lend itself to the second policy, and would be a considerable expense purely as a park."

The fact that another state park is within 25 miles of this property also convinces me that it is hardly advisable to invest as much as $200,000 in this project."

The governor also vetoed a bill which would have exempted from taxation farm and dairy products.

The senate rejected the idea of overriding Governor Zimmerman's veto of the field house bill by a vote of 11 to 8.

The governor's veto was again sustained when the upper house voted 10-9 against passing the Seven Pines park bill over the head of the chief executive. Senator Casperson, author of the park bill, assailed the governor for saying the $200,000 appropriation would have purchased a "white elephant," contending that the park "at that price, was a gift."

The assembly also sustained the governor's veto of the bill to create a new county and then adjourned until Friday.

"SHOT IN ARM" POOR WAY TO TELL PARENTS ABOUT INOCULATION

Atlanta, A.—(P)—A private at Fort Benning, Ga., not knowing how to spell "inoculation" wrote his parents that he had been "shot" in the arm but failed to give further details.

The parents of the young private, William E. Williamson, of Shreveport, La., became worried and referred the matter to their congressman, John N. Sandlin, of Minden La., who in turn carried the matter to the war department, with the information that the boys' parents were anxious that he be discharged from the service.

FIND ANOTHER KNOT IN SUPERIOR SCHOOL ROW

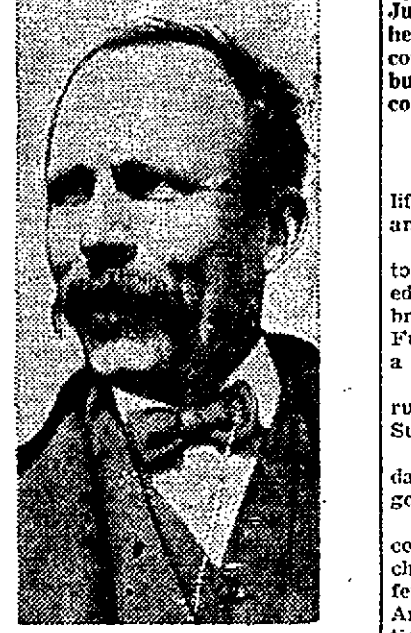

Superior—(P)—Another phase of the involved school situation here was revealed Thursday with receipt of a letter from Clarence E. Blume, Minneapolis man, hired by the "old" board to succeed C. G. Wade as principal here, in which Blume says he expects some settlement will be made because of the "new" board breaking his contract.

The "old" board hired him at $5,000 a year and the "new" board fired him. Blume in his letter to Superintendent Paul R. Spencer says: "They have broken the contract. I shall expect some settlement to be made. However, I will wait a reasonable time for them to make an offer."

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD SERIOUSLY ILL AT HOME

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(P)—The condition of James Oliver Curwood, author, seriously ill at his home here was announced Thursday morning by his physician Dr. J. J. Haviland as showing little change with the exception that he appeared slightly weaker.

REPRIEVED

DE VALERA AND MEN TAKE SEATS IN DAIL

Balance of Power of Government Will be Changed Through Radical's Action

Dublin, Ireland—(P)—Eamon De Valera and all the other members of the Fianna Fail Republican party who were elected to the Dail Eireann at the recent general election took the oath of allegiance Thursday qualifying them for participation in proceedings of the Dail.

LAUNCH POLITICAL CRISIS

London—(P)—The decision of Eamon De Valera and his entire following among the members of the Dail Eireann to take their seats in the assembly Friday after subscribing to the oath of allegiance, to which hitherto they have strenuously objected, threatens to produce an immediate political crisis in the Free state.

Exactly what will happen when the Dail meets Friday can only be conjectured, but the present assumption is that the government's defeat is inevitable because Fianna Fail deputies will add greatly to the opposition and that its resignation necessarily will follow.

After Wednesday night's conference in Dublin of the Fianna Fail party, a formal statement was issued announcing the intention of the deputies to comply with the article of the constitution which requires the oath of allegiance. The Daily Express version of this statement quotes it as saying with regard to the reservation:

"The Fianna Fail deputies propose to regard the declaration as a purely formality, and repeat that their only allegiance is to the Irish nation and that it will be given to no other power or authority."

WOMAN "DOCTOR" PAYS $100 FINE IN COURT

Waiving preliminary hearing and pleading guilty of practicing medicine without a license from the Wisconsin State Board of Medical Examiners, Wilhelmina Gerhardt, owner of a farm in the town of Bovina, paid a fine of $100 and costs Thursday morning in municipal court. She was arrested on complaint of William Krause, investigating officer for the state medical board.

Mr. Krause stated that Mrs. Gerhardt sold medicine and gave advice to a large clientele throughout the community, where she was widely known for her practice. She promised to discontinue her medical activities, Krause said.

PLAN TO DRAG LAKE IN SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

Ashland—(P)—Continuing their search for Nick Klein, 75, who has been lost more than 70 hours near Butternut, a posse of 75 men Thursday are planning to drag Bass lake, near where he was last seen.

Klein was lost Monday morning while picking berries with relatives. Bloodhounds trailed him to the edge of a swamp three times but each time lost the scent at the same place.

LAST MINUTE ORDER STOPS DEATH MARCH

Sentence Deferred Until Aug. 22 by Gov. Fuller to Permit Delayed Ruling

COURT TO ACT NEXT WEEK

Judge Sanderson Allows Appeal to Go Before Supreme Court

BULLETIN
Dedham, Mass.—(P)—Exceptions to three rulings and decisions of Judge Webster Thayer were filed here Thursday in Norfolk Superior court by Michael A. Musmanno, Pittsburgh attorney, in behalf of defendants Sacco and Vanzetti.

GRANTED STAY

Boston—(P)—Twelve more days of life have been assured Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

Fifteen minutes before their march to the death chair was to have started, the warden at Charlestown prison brought them word that Governor Fuller and his council had announced a respite until and including Aug. 22.

The delay was ordered to permit a ruling on a writ of error by State Supreme Court Justice Sanderson. Judge Sanderson announced Thursday he would allow the exceptions to go before the full bench.

The announcement came after a conference of more than two hours in chambers with Arthur D. Hill, defense counsel, and Attorney-General Arthur G. Reading.

It was said that the four justices of the supreme court who will hear the exceptions were all within 24 hours journey of the court house and had already been notified to "hold themselves in readiness" for the session which was probably to be on Tuesday morning.

CHIEF JUSTICE ILL

Chief Justice Arthur P. Ruggs, of Worcester, is ill in a hospital and Justice Henry K. Bailey, of Boston, will serve as acting chief justice. Justice Crosby of Pittsfield is in Europe and Justice Sanderson, following the custom of the court will also be absent.

The belief that "Aug. 22 will mark the close" of the case was expressed Thursday by Eugene E. Francis, a member of the governor's council. Explaining that the council had approved Governor Fuller's recommendation for a further respite because, "we felt there was a moral barrier, although no legal one, to the execution" because action was pending in the courts, he added: "I believe that the council would be inclined not to extend the respite again."

Dr. McLaughlin, the prison physician, after his daily visit to Sacco, Vanzetti and Maderios, said that each appeared in much better spirits Thursday.

Sacco, he said, expressed the hope that he would be strong enough to walk unassisted to the Cherry hill section of the prison if they transferred from the death house, as appeared probable later in the day.

"You ought to eat," the physician told him.

"No," Sacco replied. "That's my state of mind. I am not going to eat."

Mrs. Sacco was again a visitor at the prison Thursday, apparently recovered from her reported collapse of Wednesday. She only saw her husband and Vanzetti and spent a few minutes with Maderios.

MADERIOS ALSO GETS STAY

A third respite, slaved with the others less than an hour before the current would have been switched on for the first of a triple execution, stayed for the first time yesterday by the announcement of a stay granted by the U. S. supreme court and from Judge George W. Anderson.

The dramatic announcement came after Governor Allan T. Fuller, who once before had reprieved the condemned men and who only last Wednesday had turned down a plea for clemency after a long investigation has presented to his council new reasons for delay.

Those reasons, in brief, were the contention of Arthur D. Hill of defense counsel that the state had failed to prove its case against the men. He needed to prosecute his eleventh hour fight through the remaining legal channels, and the decision of Justice Sanderson to defer until Thursday announcement of his decision whether to permit the defense to appeal to the high court, excepted the men from earlier denial of a writ of error in favor of the condemned men.

Inference that the decision would be favorable was drawn from the announcement by Richard Murray, messenger for the state supreme court, that he was telegraphing members of the high tribunal that a session would be held either next Monday or Tuesday.

The reprieve came after the defense' hope of possible intervention by the federal courts had been defeated by announcements that the justices of the U. S. supreme court and from Judge George W. Anderson.

ATTACK OF WETS ON DRY'S PLACE GROWS STRONGER

Prohibitionists United in an Effort to Cause Defeat of Al Smith

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—The great "wet and dry" war has come to resemble the state of affairs which prevailed so long on the western front.

The Anti-Saloon League army, after pushing forward to brilliant victory, has dug itself in and is on the defensive, seeking and expecting to hold its advantage.

The attack is disorganized, but there is plenty of it. While the dries insist that their position is impregnable, the wets insist that the tide has begun to turn.

This picture of the situation, it might be well to point out, is given by an official of the league who does not contend that the organization is at this movement marching on to fresh victories.

What has happened is that the dries, although they pressed on after the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment and achieved the Volstead Act and other gains, have had to stop to prepare for counterattacks.

FIGHTING AL SMITH

Their great object right now is to prevent a possible stampede in the Democratic party for the nomination of Al Smith. They don't want a wet presidential candidate in either party and they are making a heroic stand against that possibility. They are raising a special campaign fund for the purpose.

Millions of copies of the pamphlet "Al Smith's record as Tammany legislator and governor" have been sent out over the country, according to the league's headquarters here and these will be followed by millions more. This pamphlet was compiled by the New York Anti-Saloon League, with comment.

"We don't believe the Democrats can win the election in any event," says the aforementioned official whose name cannot be used. "But both the league and most Democrats would rather see the party lose with a dry candidate than a wet one."

"We're trying to make the other Democrats see that they're 100 per cent certain to lose if they nominate Smith. The league is non-sectarian and only interested in law enforcement, but it realizes that the anti-Tammany feeling and the anti-Catholic feeling in some sections would lead against Smith."

LEAGUE HAS LUNATIC FRINGE

As for the league's defensive position, this man says:

"The defense position is always the hardest. The wets come at us like so many mosquitoes and it's difficult to swat them all at once. Even though they are no headway, dry fanatics are among our worst enemies. Our 'lunatic fringe,' outside the league is constantly making absurd statements which are good targets for the other side and which we can't go out of our way to disprove."

The league's informant continued, laughed at the rumor that Republican politicians had decided to let up on prohibition enforcement. On the contrary, it is sure the party will travel the "high and moral road" in 1928 because, frankly, it dares to do nothing else.

The dry leaders believe their only real peril lies in the possibility that the rank and file of the cause will go to sleep in confidence that the cause is safe. They claim to have warned their Montana people of this peril and, because this warning was successful, to have lost a referendum in that state.

LEAGUE'S WORST ENEMY

Against the league, the only organization of importance which has appeared is the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. The association, however, is not to be compared with the league as regards its influence or organized support. It is about where the league was 20 or 25 years ago and it remains to be seen whether it will make any important headway.

Congress is so thoroughly dry that the most optimistic wet doesn't expect it to be anything else for years. The dries say it is becoming drier and drier and the wets that it is becoming gradually wetter, but the point is that the national prohibition theme are firmly entrenched and not likely to be modified for a long time, if ever.

That being the case, prohibition remains the law and the whole question boils down to whether prohibition in this country will be enforced more effectively, less effectively or just about the same.

ST. PAUL WILL STOP

TROY CENTER SERVICE

Postal authorities have received word from Washington, D. C., that after Aug. 7, 1927 railroad service on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad between Elkhorn and Troy Center will stop. The distance is 143 miles and mail will be routed another way to these points.

RURAL MAIL BOXES

MUST BE REPAIRED

Another survey of condition of mail boxes on rural routes will be made soon according to Fred Felix Wetters, acting postmaster. Reports are to the effect that many rural subscribers are reluctant to keep their mail boxes in good order and in positions where they can easily be reached by the delivery men. If the delivery men are not remedied soon, delivery service at boxes of offenders will be stopped.

SCHOOL COMMITTEES

PREPARING REPORTS

Maintenance and education committees of the board of education Thursday to go over repair work and make reports preparatory to the meeting of the board Friday evening in the superintendent's office at the Lincoln school.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schultz and son Gilbert, Mrs. John Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schultz and daughter Bernice of Milwaukee are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Radatz at Freedom.

Post-Crescent Tells Boys And Girls How To Build Model Aeroplanes

Every boy and girl in Appleton can get in the aviation game. Of course, the flying of an airplane is a task for a trained pilot and the financing of an aviation program calls for millions of dollars.

But, nevertheless, every boy and girl can get into aviation. And they can do the very thing that learned scientists and aviation experts in all parts of the world are now doing.

They can build model airplanes. The Post-Crescent has arranged for a series of ten articles that will tell every boy and girl in Appleton how to build model airplanes. If the boys and girls follow the instructions carefully, the model airplanes will really fly.

NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

All the information contained in these articles has been worked out carefully by the miniature aircraft experts of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. This organization will hold a National Playground Miniature Aircraft Tournament at Memphis, Tenn., in October, in which models made by boys all over the country will compete for a prize.

The whole plan has been approved by the leading aviation experts in the country.

These include Orville Wright; Colonel Charles Lindbergh; Porter Alexander, president of the National Aeronautical Association; F. Trubee Davidson, assistant secretary for aeronautics, War Department; Harry Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics; Joseph Lee, president of the Playground and Recreation Association of America; William F. McCracken, Jr., assistant secretary for aeronautics, Department of Commerce; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt; Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary for aeronautics, Navy Department.

MODEL IS A NECESSITY

A model airplane is a scientific necessity. Every new airplane makes its first appearance as a model. It would be too expensive and too dangerous to try out new ideas with full size airplanes driven by pilots.

Accordingly, a small model is first built. This is studied very carefully by scientists who use all sorts of scientific measuring instruments in their study.

Frequently the model is placed in what is known as a wind-tunnel. This is a long tube, the sort of thing which might result if you knocked the heads out of a dozen barrels and then joined the barrels into a long pipe.

STUDY ACTION IN WIND

A propeller is used to drive a blast of wind through the tunnel at speeds reaching as high as 100 miles an hour. The behavior of the model is then studied in this gale.

Every boy and girl can get into the business of building model airplanes. In the soft coal districts, a good strong penknife and some sandpaper will prove sufficient. Better work can be done, however, with the aid of a small carpenter's plane, a small saw, a pair of pliers and wire-cutters and a small bench vice in which to hold the work.

MATERIALS ARE RUBBER

You will need some sticks for the frames of the airplane, some wire for bracing and struts and some silk for covering the wings. The propellers are carved out of wood and bearings for them are made out of hatpins or bicycle spokes.

The motors are made out of rubber bands or long strips of rubber known as rubber thread.

TOMORROW: How to Build a Model Glider

USE OF PARK AS AIR

FIELD IS ADVOCATED

Alderman Vogt Favors Using

Part of Erb Park as an Airport

Appleton has no money now to buy an air field to be used as an airport, or government mail planes but a temporary landing field could be arranged easily on the west half of Erb park in the Sixth ward, providing a route was established from Milwaukee to Green Bay, according to Philip Vogt, alderman from the Sixth ward. At the last meeting of the council Alderman Vogt suggested that plan. Mayor A. C. Rude advised him to take it up with the park board as such an arrangement was out of the hands of the council. C. D. Boyd, a member of the board expressed himself in favor of the proposition. Mr. Vogt said:

The west portion of the park, about five blocks long and one block wide is entirely clear of trees, the alderman explained. The only improvement necessary would be to level off the ground. On the east side are trees which would serve as a wind-break in storms. Mr. Vogt stated. Protection on the west and south sides is provided by rows of houses, leaving only the north end of the field unprotected.

People of the Sixth ward would like to have the park used for this purpose, Mr. Vogt believed. It would not be a charity proposition, for the government would pay for the use of the field, he continued. Whether the park would continue to be used for this purpose would depend on the people of Appleton.

Green Bay is making an effort to establish a mail route from Milwaukee, he said, adding that he understood it was fairly certain that the route would be started and maintained. If Green Bay feels it is a good policy to push such a proposition, Appleton should feel likewise, Mr. Vogt believed.

S. G. Ruegg, former pastor of Methodist churches at Menasha and Clintonville, visited friends here Wednesday. Mr. Ruegg is living at Milwaukee since his return from a trip abroad.

Mrs. Ray C. Onkles of New Westminster, British Columbia, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Maurice Freemanboom, 223 W. Eighth-st., for the past two months, left for her home Wednesday night.

Paul E. Garber, aircraft expert of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, who is helping boys and girls all over America build model airplanes for the tournament of the American Playground and Recreation Association, is shown here with a model of Colonel Lindbergh's world-famous Spirit of St. Louis.

APPLETON LABORITES

MAY HELP STRIKERS

Addresses Trades and Labor Council

Joseph Cubby, Terre Haute, Ind., a representative of the striking miners in the soft coal districts, addressed the meeting of the Appleton Trades and Labor council Wednesday evening, urging aid for the strikers. He was given credentials to visit locals in the city, and steps may be taken to give financial aid to the miners after his visit here are completed.

Mr. Cubby explained conditions which lead up to the strike, pointing out that the primary cause was the attempt of mine operators to reduce wages and the refusal of the miners to meet their demands. The miners, he said, are living in tents, and are relying to a large degree on the support of other labor organizations.

The council endorsed the activities of the civic council, particularly with reference to supervised playgrounds in the city, and appropriated $25 as a donation to the organization. Samuel Sigman and Adolph Guyer were elected delegates to represent the Appleton Trades and Labor council at the meetings of the civic council.

Fred Wieser was re-elected trustee of the trades and labor council, to hold office for 18 months. The report of Fred E. Bachman, delegate to the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor convention in July, was accepted by the council.

JERRY TARBOT MAY BECOME POLITICAL ISSUE IN CAPITOL

"Living Unknown Soldier"
Trying to Find Out His True Identity

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Jerry Tarbot, America's "living unknown soldier," has dedicated the rest of his life to finding his name and obtaining Uncle Sam's recognition of his service in the war, has become a political issue again.

It seems as if everyone in the country must have heard about Jerry's strange case and seen his photograph. But Jerry, the shell-shocked veteran who lost his health and his identity at the same time, knows there is someone, somewhere, who will recognize him eventually. An old pal, a brother, a sister—or perhaps a mother.

All of which explains why Jerry is trudging around the streets on what he promises will become a country-wide tour. His objectives are two.

1—To leave photographs of himself on display in the vestibule of "every Catholic church in the country."

SELLS BOOK FOR DOLLAR

Jerry's ambitious program of placarding the churches with his photographs in the hope that someone finally will identify him permanently and for all time has not yet begun. He is certain he is a Catholic and that he was trained in a Catholic school.

On the other hand, "Jerry Tarbot's Book" is an accomplished feat. Jerry wrote it himself and he expects to sell at least 25,000 copies. He peddles it at a dollar a copy. It consists of about 40 pages of large, closely mimeographed sheets and is cheaply bound in stiff cardboard paper.

To assume the book reviewer's role for a moment—it is considerably more interesting than any books which cost two or three times as much.

Jerry says his chief handicap is that he can't visit more than 15 or 20 prospective customers a day. Every once, he says, is interested, and he has to sit down and tell of his experiences. Unfortunately, the listener then sometimes refrains from buying the book.

HE'S AN ISSUE IN CONGRESS
Congressman Carter of California, Tarbot's legislative god-father, promises to take the strange case to the floor of Congress during the next session and demand justice for Tarbot such as the government has given to its other maimed and incapacitated heroes.

Carter is at sword's points with Congressman Johnson of Idaho, chairman of the House committee on world war veterans' legislation, over Tarbot. Johnson tried to brand Tarbot as a fake who remembered his past life very well. Two women were produced, one to say that she had known Tarbot in the past at Sharon, Pa., and the other that she had been married to him for a period of two weeks many years ago.

Jerry takes up all this in a lengthy appendix. Jerry had an idea he once lived in Sharon, and when letters and telegrams were sent there, the woman claimed to know him as an old friend. Then, says Jerry, he came to Sharon and stood outside the woman's house. Several times she passed him, noticing him, but obviously failing to recognize him. He says he offered to try the same stunt on the "wife" but wasn't allowed to do so. The fact seems to be that Jerry is tired of hundreds of identifications which don't seem to mean anything. The stories of the women haven't been disproved, but the "wife" told of tattoo marks on her husband that don't exist on Jerry.

MAKES FILM AGAINST WAR
Here in the wind-up of the 26th and last chapter of "Jerry Tarbot's Book" which follows an impassioned plea against the "hell and fury and agony" of war.

"If I last long enough, I may be able to accomplish my ambition to reveal to the world the meaning of which is holding the stream of life frozen and immobile. Perhaps some day I shall see again the waters flow free and serene toward the destiny of all human things. Still swaying uncertainly to the rhythm of the Creator's power, lives yet in the will to carry on and taste life anew. Perhaps I shall break through. If I don't—well: 'HERE'S TO OUR CORPS WHICH WE ARE PROUD TO SERVE'."

Through many a strife we have fought for life
"And never lost our nerve!"
"It is all relative in the end."

Miss Isabel Glanap and Miss Mae Bartman are spending a two week vacation in Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto, Canada.

MARSHALL GRAFF TAKES POSITION IN PITTSBURGH U.

Full Professorship and Responsible Position Given Appleton Man

Marshall C. Graff, district representative of the University of Wisconsin Extension division, has accepted a full professorship at the University of Pittsburgh and will leave for the east Saturday or Sunday to start his new work.

Mr. Graff was chosen by the university authorities to organize a university branch at Erie, Pa., and after its organization he will become its first director.

The new branch is expected to have an enrollment of about 2,000 students. Mr. Graff's salary will be approximately $6,000 a year. He came to Appleton early last fall from Wausau where he had been a district representative of the extension division. He also was commander of the Eighth district of the American legion.

E. M. Gorroo of the local office will be in charge temporarily here, Mr. Graff said.

Andrew S. Mellon, millionaire secretary of the treasury and a former Manitowish resident, is chairman of the board of trustees of the university.

Mr. Graff is the second Appleton man to receive a full professorship in an eastern university in the last two years. Dr. D. O. Kinsman, professor of economics at Lawrence college, accepted a professorship at the American university at Washington, D. C., over a year ago.

TALLEY IS SECURED

FOR CONCERT SERIES

Famous Young Kansas City

Soloist Will Sing in Appleton

Oct. 7

Marion Talley, 19 year old Kansas city girl who has been the most recent sensation of the musical world, will sing in Appleton as the first number of the Community Artists series Oct. 7. Miss Talley has been featured throughout the country since her astounding debut at the Metropolitan opera house in New York city when police reserves were called out to manage the crowd numbering thousands, who failed to gain admission to her first performance.

Following this first appearance she appeared in 34 performances at the Metropolitan in leading roles and made 60 concert appearances to capacity houses during her first year.

The simple choir girl stepped into fame in one night as a prima donna soprano in the world's greatest opera house. She had had little expert training but had a natural voice of freshness, brilliance and beauty and a touch of genius, critics have said.

Following Miss Talley through the winter will be other well known artists. Louis Graveure, internationally known baritone, will sing one of his noted, varied and interesting programs. This artist makes an annual trip to Europe visiting the leading musical centers in search of new material for his programs.

Pablo Casals is acknowledged by fellow musicians and the public on three continents as the greatest violinist alive. For the past two decades he has occupied a position unique in the musical world in that he has no challengers and all have agreed that with his chosen instrument he is supreme.

The English Singers of London, who were received with enthusiasm last year in Appleton will make a return engagement this season. More than half of the cities where they gave their unique ensemble programs have requested them for the coming season and another long tour will be made of the Pacific coast, the south and southwest as well as eastern and midwestern engagements.

Walter Gieseking, famous German pianist, will appear in concert here. He was comparatively obscure until a short time ago when his genius was acclaimed in his own and other continental countries. Last winter he made his first American tour and was received in music centers of the United States with acclaim granted to few musicians.

Season tickets for the five concerts will be sold through Lawrence conservatory of music which sponsors the series. All concerts will be given in the Lawrence Memorial chapel.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED

MRS ROTHLESBERGER

Mrs. Elizabeth Rothlesberger was granted a divorce decree from her husband, Alfred Rothlesberger, Wednesday afternoon by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. She alleged that her husband's "nagging" had impaired her health to such an extent that it was impossible to live with him. The couple was married Feb. 24, 1923, and has two children, Rothlesberger, who did not contend the suit, was ordered to pay alimony of $50 a month for support of his wife and their children, custody of whom was awarded to Mrs. Rothlesberger. The complainant was represented by Lonsdorf and Stahl.

In a special term of Land-co circuit court held here Thursday morning by Judge Edgar W. Werner, Mrs. Charlotte Emma Adraktas was granted a divorce from Chris George Adraktas, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. The decree provides for division of property and awards the custody of an adopted child to Mrs. Adraktas.

APPLETON EXPERTS

D, 127th Infantry, Wisconsin National guard.

The club team will be composed of eight men and Lieutenant Helm C. Hunsner, its coach, also will attend the contest. The men are John Miller, Henry Pliginsk, Hugo Dressly, Joseph Stoffel, Earl DeLong, Theodore Knappstein, Joseph Stachowski and F. A. W. Hammond. Earl McKenzie, Charles Weiland and Charles Ambrosius will be alternates.

NEW LONDON WOMAN

ARRESTED FOR ARSON

Margaret Hicks of New London, is being held in the Waukegan jail awaiting trial on a charge of setting fire to her home in that city. She was arrested Thursday morning by Undersheriff Otto Wickert and held in Waukegan jail, pending her return to Appleton by the officer. The warrant was issued on complaint of W. E. Finnegan, state fire marshal, and alleges that she "has good reason to believe that Margaret Hicks did on July 26 in the night-time set fire to a dwelling owned by her."

A second count alleges an attempt to collect insurance issued by the Orient Insurance Co., at Hartford, Conn. She was brought to Appleton Thursday and probably will be arraigned Friday in municipal court.

PREVENTION OF FIRE TERMED VITAL NEED

Chief McGilligan Says That Insurance Will Not Regain Lost Business

Value of fire prevention is stressed by George McGilligan, chief of the Appleton fire department, who says that although there may be "complete coverage" against loss by fire, there are other losses not so easily defined that always follow a fire, especially in a factory or place of business.

INCIDENTAL LOSSES

"Fire in factories and other large business concerns always entail incidental losses not always compensated by insurance," Chief McGilligan said. "It may take a long time before the factory is rebuilt, equipped and in operation. Meanwhile old and valued customers make other business connections and many will never return. The most valued and best business and sales organization must be built up at great expense. Valuable drawings, records and books are often lost in fires and many of them hard to replace. Unemployment and loss of wages following a fire often seriously affects the life and comforts of the workmen and their families. So also in homes many things are particularly valuable because of sentiment connected therewith, and insurance does not pay for sentiment or sentimental values."

"It is a significant fact that large business concerns carry the most complete insurance coverage, and at the same time lead in efficient, adequate and dependable fire protection. Smaller firms also could well afford at least first aid fire protection, such as proper chemical fire extinguishers, water barrels and pails, sand, and fire blankets. Larger concerns find the automatic sprinkler system a good investment rather than an expense, as the saving on insurance in a few years pays for the entire installation."

CANNOT BE CARELESS

"No one can afford to be careless with fire and fire starting and spreading conditions just because he thinks he is fully insured."

"Recently a large fire insurance company made an analysis of 100 business fires and announced the result as follows: '43 per cent of the firms effected did not resume business after the fire. '14 per cent suffered a reduction in credit rating of from 30 to 60 per cent. '11 per cent refused to publish financial statements after the fire although they published such statements before. '26 per cent were unaffected as to credit rating."

"As much of the business of the country is done on credit, anything which affects credit and credit rating seriously affects business."

"Moreover, no one is immune from fire because he is 'fully insured.' An life insurance is paid after death, so fire insurance is paid after a

GREATEST AERIAL RACE WILL START AFTER AUGUST 12

Contestants Waiting for Starter's Gun to Set Them Off on Race Across Pacific

San Francisco — (P) — Only the starting gun is awaited for what has prospects of being America's greatest aerial derby.

Any hour after August 12 will be zero hour for the hopping off of the fifteen or more entries in the Dole and other special prize air races to Hawaii, and possibly on to Japan. One award of $25,000 awaits the first two to land on the islands. Another money prize will go to the fliers who succeed in reaching Japan, provided certain conditions have been met.

The types of planes are almost as varied as the number of entries. Some of them probably will be flown "solo," across the great expanse of water; navigators and passengers will accompany others.

AFTER BOTH PRIZES
Among the entrants are: Captain William P. Erwin of Dallas, Texas, a world war flier, accompanied by his wife, who also has qualified as a pilot. They will fly a Travelair monoplane christened, "The Spirit of St. Louis." It has a Wright radial type motor and carries a gasoline capacity of 460 gallons. They will compete for both the James D. Dole prize and the W. B. Easterwood award.

Bennett H. Griffin and his navigator, Al Henley, hopped from Dallas to San Francisco to participate in the Derby. Griffin also is using a Travelair monoplane with a Wright radial motor. Griffin, 32 years old, is a world war flier. He trained students in aviation and flew bombers over the enemy lines in France and Italy. For a few weeks he was stationed in England. Henley also was in the army air service and it was because of his knowledge of radio and navigation that caused him to be chosen to accompany Griffin. Henley, 32 years old, likewise is a pilot. After army service he entered commercial flying.

WILL FLY ALONE
One of the California entrants is Arthur C. Gobel of Santa Monica, who also will use a Travelair monoplane. He expects to fly alone. His plane has the Wright radial type motor and a gasoline capacity of 325 gallons, carried in the wings and fuselage.

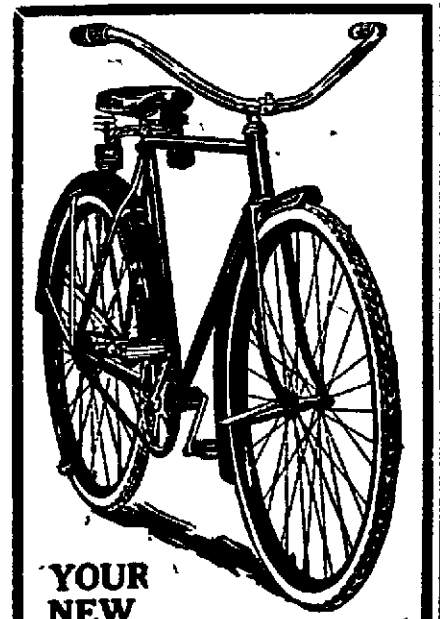

Another California competitor is Major Livingston Irving of Berkeley, who plans to fly alone in a specially built monoplane. His plane will have a gasoline capacity of 333 gallons.

Lieutenant Norman A. Goddard, member of the United States Naval Reserve at San Diego, accompanied by Lieutenant K. C. Hawkins of San Diego naval air station, were granted special leave to make the flight. They will use a monoplane designed by Goddard specially for the flight.

Captain Arthur V. Rogers of Los Angeles, formerly of the British navy, and service, will take Leland A. Bryant, Los Angeles architect, as navigator. They will use a full cantilever monoplane.

Dr. Dole is chiefly responsible for the Derby to the Hawaiian Islands. He is a wealthy pineapple dealer.

NEW RULES OF ROAD DEFINE "ETIQUETTE"

All Automobiles Must Be Equipped With Windshield Wipers Before March 1

Madison — (P) — The new "rules of the road" law not only demands that peace and quiet shall prevail on Wisconsin highways by ordering the discontinuance of muffler cutouts, but it also has something to say about "road etiquette."

Nor more than three adults shall occupy the driver's seat of any automobile and no person shall ride on the fender, hood, running board, or any outside portion of any automobile while the same is being operated, according to the new rules.

It is unlawful for any person to operate a vehicle on a highway with any sign, poster, or other non-transparent material upon the front windshield, side wings, side or rear windows of such motor vehicles other than a certificate or other such paper required to be so placed by law. This is not effective until after March 1, 1928. Another section provides a penalty for violation of this section of not less than $5 nor more than $100.

Every windshield shall be equipped with a windshield wiper, such windshield wiper to be controlled or operated by the driver.

Every motor vehicle other than a road roller, road machinery or farm tractor having a width greater than 30 inches is required to carry two clearance lamps on the left side of it. These clearance lamps shall display a yellow light in the front and a red light in the rear.

College boys no longer will be able to speed down the avenue, through the campus and up behind Main hall and get to classes just as roll is being called. And all because one of the changes on the campus this summer has done away with the old drive way in front of Ormsby and behind Main hall and made of it a grass covered plot with a walk to connect the rear of the recitation hall and the gymnasium. The new driveway, which will be used only for hauling supplies to science hall and coal to the heating plant, has been routed behind Ormsby and science hall.

Not only has the park been planked for the dock, but the shore in the rear of the Kimberly, Sensesbrenner and S. F. Shattuck homes has been planked likewise. A number of floating buoys have been placed and the heavy equipment of derricks, slides and hoists have been placed along the shore for the loading and unloading and placing the yachts in the water. Fifty-two yachts of classes A, E and C types have been entered in the races up to date with a dozen more entries expected before the time of starting the regatta next Monday afternoon. Most of the yachts are expected to arrive here in time to take part Saturday in the invitation race over the Oshkosh course which will precede the opening of the new yacht club house there. Officers of the association will arrive Saturday. The Class E races will be sailed during the mornings and the Class A races will be held in the afternoon. Two separate courses have been laid out for the different classes of races.

Commercial-st and the bridges, be installed, are meeting with hearty approval. The petitions will contain the names of nearly every merchant and property owner within those two blocks when they are presented to the city council for action at its next meeting.

The plan was started by the city planning commission which prepared all plans and secured all data on the project, following much comment as to lighting one of the streets of the city and leaving the main business street in the dark. Should the project meet with the approval of the council, immediate action will be asked so that the lights will be ready for the holiday season.

DOXTATOR BATTLE MAY CAUSE AIRING OF INDIAN TAXATION

Status of Numerous Oneidas Affected by Proposed Court Case

Eviction of Henry Doxtator and his family from their home on the Oneida reservation by the sheriff of Brown-co because Doxtator had refused to pay taxes for about sixteen years might result in a test case to determine the status of a number of other Indians now refusing to pay taxes, it was learned here Wednesday. Doxtator and his family were ejected from their home after a spirited battle with the Brown-co sheriff and deputies and Doxtator was lodged in the Brown-co jail charged with resisting an officer. He is scheduled to face trial in the Brown-co municipal court on Friday. Sheriff Francis Brown-co used tear gas in their effort to dislodge the family and when that method of attack failed the door to the home was broken down and the family arrested.

Doxtator's spokesman in his difficulties is William Skenandore, an educator, Oneida Indian, and the latter is advising Doxtator. It is probable the whole matter of whether Doxtator is obliged to pay taxes will be aired in the courts.

Mr. Skenandore intimated that the United States criminal code might be invoked against certain Brown-co officials for alleged forging of Doxtator's name on papers in the register of deeds office and for recording lands held in trust by the federal government for the benefit of the Indians.

"The whole story concerning these people is a story of persecution from start to finish," Mr. Skenandore said. He pointed out that these people had had a group of 40 families who had petitioned the United States government protesting against land allotments made to them. These people did not want any other sovereignty to be their guardian, but the United States, but to no avail. At the expiration of a 25 year trust period in 1917, a competency commission was sent here from the interior department and when Henry Doxtator and other Oneidas refused to apply for a fee patent to their lands it was not issued then. It was over a year afterward that the fee patent to the land of Henry Doxtator was issued without his application and when the fee patent was tendered him he refused to accept it. In the meantime a copy of the fee patent to Henry Doxtator's land had been made at the Indian office and recorded with the register of deeds in Brown county without Doxtator's knowledge. He discovered the registration when he learned his land had been assessed and taxes had been levied. Doxtator refused to pay the taxes; a tax deed and a tax sale followed and a lien was placed on his property. Doxtator refused to recognize these instruments and the election proceedings of last week was the outcome. For some time past representations were made to the department of justice for the eastern district of Wisconsin, concerning the harassings of Doxtator by Brown-co authorities and to determine the status of Doxtator's property and of himself. The Doxtator people say the United States attorney had advised them to move out and that they would have to be ejected first before restitution proceedings could be commenced.

It is maintained by the department of justice that the rights of Henry Doxtator cannot be taken away from him by force and that he must consent to it voluntarily and he has been assured that his case will be taken up and investigated. I myself know to be a fact that Doxtator's case is under investigation at the present time for the reason that some time ago an inspector bearing credentials from United States Attorney General Sargent had called on me on facts concerning his case. At that time it was agreed that the criminal penal code could be invoked but the violent means applied in ejecting Henry Doxtator and his family out of their home have prompted us to ask the department of justice to apply the criminal penal code for recording lands held in trust by the United States for the Indians, for forging Doxtator's name in the county registry of deeds and against all parties connected with this election proceedings."

CANADA'S SIXTIETH BIRTHDAY ON AUG. 27

Two Weeks Celebration Will Be Held at Toronto Ending Sept. 10

Canada's sixtieth birthday will be given gala celebration during the two weeks of Aug. 27 to Sept. 10, 1927, when the Canadian National Exhibition will be held in Toronto, according to John J. Dixon, president of the jubilee.

The large celebration will be held at Exhibition park, bordering a mile and a half of shoreline on Lake Ontario, where it has been staged for millions of Canadian and United States visitors during the past 48 years.

One of the features of the exhibition will be the second Wrigley marathon for the championship of the world, consisting of a $50,000 swim and George Young of Toronto, youthful conqueror of the Catalina, will endeavor to retain his laurels in the distance swim.

Other famous swimmers who will complete in the seven mile marathon are Ernest Werhoffer of Germany, G. Michel of France, Lee Fourrier of Long Beach, Calif., Omer Pericault of Montreal, Madame Jane Sion of Brussels, Byron Summers of San Francisco, Ethel Herlie of New York, Mrs. Dorothy Hepworth of England, Olaf Tarstad of Norway, and Nawaiki of Hawaii, all swimmers of known and tried reputation.

Riches of the mine, forest, sea, prairie, farm, factory, wonders of the laboratory and studio will be on display to visitors at the exhibition, say those who back the jubilee. In celebration of Canada's sixtieth birthday, a pageant will be the "reynote" of the exposition, and it is planned to make each of the thirteen days a national carnival.

NEW CHAPEL SOUGHT AT ROBINSONVILLE

Tiny Building Where Sister Once Saw Vision Too Small for Crowds

With the annual pilgrimage to the little chapel at Robinsonville, near New Franken, next Monday, where the pious Sister Adele once saw the vision of the Blessed Virgin, comes hopes of replacing the quaint old church in the village with a new edifice which will be large enough to accommodate thousands of visitors from Wisconsin and neighboring states.

The Rev. Louis Van Oeffel of Holmden, has pointed out that the tiny chapel at Robinsonville has become much too small to handle the huge crowds that pass annually through its doors. It is the desire of the citizens of Robinsonville to build a larger church.

"The good sisters would like to build this new church," said Father Van Oeffel, "but they cannot do it

SEWER IS LOWERED TO SMOOTH PAVEMENT

Because the sewer running parallel with S. Mason-st at the intersection with W. Fourth-st was too high to afford a smooth approach to S. Mason-st, paving of which recently was completed, city street department employees cut out a section of the sewer at the junction of the two streets. A new concrete sewer is being laid in its place, the top of which is about a foot lower than the rest of the sewer. The change will assure a smooth approach to S. Mason-st.

All approaches to S. Mason-st have been completed, according to Robert Blackworthy, city street commissioner. The street employees now are following without funds. One way has been suggested. If those who come on Aug. 15 would, instead of dropping one dollar into the collection box, deposit five dollars or more the new chapel-dream would soon be a reality. Even one dollar will buy a few bricks."

Contributions may be sent to the sisters of the chapel, rural route 1, New Franken.

CONSERVATORY DRAWS MANY NEW STUDENTS

Reservations for classes at Lawrence Conservatory of Music have already equalled those of last year and give every indication of going over previous marks according to Carl J. Waterman, dean. Special interest in being shown by boys in the new course for band and orchestra leaders. Eight young men have made reservations in the contractors on N. Meade, E. Johnson and W. Washington-sts and are completing approaches as rapidly as possible.

The S. Mason-st ravine near the Northwestern Railroad tracks was filled sufficiently to permit the building of a concrete sidewalk over the unfinished stretch. Filling was taken from S. Mason-st while the street was being prepared for paving.

this class which will be conducted by Ernest C. Moore, who will also direct the city school bands.

A trend toward music supervisors who have had band instrument training has been noted in the past year, Mr. Waterman said. Many schools are asking for two instructors, one capable of giving vocal training and the other to direct band and orchestra, or are asking for instructors capable of doing both.

Chicago—Spread of the co-operative movement in the United States promises to regain for the American farmer his old position of independence and respect.

This is the confident hope of delegates from practically every state in the union and a number of foreign countries who attended the four-week summer session of the American Institute of Cooperation here.

Charles W. Holman of Washington, secretary of the organization and an authority on the cooperative movement, says that competitive bargaining as practiced by more than 12,000 cooperatives now successfully functioning in this country is developing a national consciousness among farmers.

LEARNS FROM INDUSTRY

"But he is growing less suspicious. He is losing his feeling of tutelage. The tremendous business of the outside world which once swamped his outlook now only serves to stimulate him. For he, too, has become part of an organization and is learning rapidly from the lesson taught by co-operation."

"Growth of the movement is being accomplished by education."

At the convention just ended, sessions were conducted at Northwestern University in regular class room style by lecture and forum method to provide an interchange of thought and spread of the best cooperative practices developed during the previous year.

SAVE BY MIXED SHIPMENTS

By this means western fruit growers informed other cooperatives that they had been saving freight charges by mixing carload lots of different produce.

Mixed shipments, say of two different kinds of fruit, utilized the carload to great advantage and made shipment to greater distances possible at less cost than shipments of single commodities, they said.

The sessions were composed of a unique sprinkling of farmers, executives and college professors. Many of the latter came to get material which they will teach next year. But professors besides helping to help to develop the farmers were their teachers.

One of the biggest problems which the gathering had to confront was the net loss of $50,000 farmers to the country yearly.

HOW TO STOP MIGRATION

It is estimated that 2,000,000 farmers drift between farm and city each year. Of this number, 500,000 stay away for good, constituting an irreparable loss to the industry.

"Stabilization of agriculture through cooperative practices is the only means of checking loss," Holman says. "When the farmer is able to get a fair return for his product and labor he will find it profitable to farm and remain where he is."

"At the present time the dairy industry is probably the best organized, cooperatively. Wheat is a bit backward, cotton and tobacco are moving fast and wool is now in process of organization."

During 1925 the cooperatives in this country did a two and one-half billion dollar business, as compared with a one and one-half billion turnover in 1915.

The movement got its first foothold in the United States in 1909 and today is made up principally of two types—the federated type operating about a cooperative group and the centralized type in which the sales contract goes to the individual on a pooling basis share and share alike.

More than 2,000,000 farmers now belong to cooperatives, which number is practically double what it was two years ago.

MAPLE CREEK FARMER HAS GOOD CORN FIELD

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

New London—A. Klug, route 1, town of Maple Creek, has an eight acre field of the best corn to be seen in Outagamie-co this season. The corn stalks and ears are apparently full grown and the sand is perfect. The seed, Wisconsin No. 12 was raised on the farm. A good seed bed was made before planting and a 16-4 fertilizer was given in the rows with an attachment on the planter when the corn was planted, at the rate of 125 pounds to the acre. The cost of the fertilizer for field was $20. As it was the first time Mr. Klug had tried commercial fertilizer on his corn, he skipped a part of the field to check up on the effect of the fertilizer. The corn in the rows skipped is two feet shorter than that in the rows fertilized and does not show an equal degree of development. The corn has been cultivated several times with the cultivator set quite deep. Last season fodder corn grew on the field. Two years ago, in the fall, alfalfa and clover seed in the field was given a coat of barnyard manure and fall plowed. This was in preparation for the fodder corn.

STOCKBRIDGE FARMERS SELL CARLOAD OF WHEAT

BY W. F. WINSEY

Hubert—a carload of this year's wheat, grown by Stockbridge farmers, was recently shipped from this station. A car of this year's barley was shipped for shipment Sunday. A large number of grain growers in this vicinity are selling on their farms, this year, direct from the threshing machines. The quality and yield of small grain is very good. Winter wheat spotted some in the fields by winter-killing is going 30 bushels to the acre, as to 45 bushels and barley about the same. Hail last week near Stockbridge did considerable damage to

FERDINAND KNAPP HAS GOOD OAT CROP

Large Harvest Is Result of Using Good Commercial Fertilizer

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

New London—Ferdinand Knapp, route 1, town of Maple Creek, cut a field of oats Monday that was peculiar in several respects. The chief feature of the field was that the crop of oats was heavy, another that the field was self-seeded with an excellent stand of root clover and the third that the lines of rows of corn in the field last year could be seen in ridges of overgrown ripe oats the length of the field.

The ridges of tall oats was caused by the commercial fertilizer used on the rows of corn last summer. Any clover seed came as the waste of a crop, and the seed that was raised on the field two years ago. After the clover seed was removed from the field, the field was plowed and the waste clover seed was turned under. When the field was afterward plowed for corn, the buried seed was returned to the surface and from that seed the stand of clover in the oats grew.

For the past eight years, Mr. Knapp has been fertilizing his cornfields at planting time with 4-16-4 commercial fertilizer and skipping rows each season to check up on the effect of the fertilizer.

The rows fertilized invariably get a much better start in the spring than the other rows, show a much more rapid growth, produce a bigger yield and ripen earlier.

This season Mr. Knapp fertilized his cornfield and skipped some rows as before. The corn fertilizer has outstripped the unfertilized rows very noticeably.

BUDWORM CURE

The tobacco budworm, a serious pest of tobacco in Georgia and Florida, can be effectively controlled by application of a mixture of cornmeal and arsenate of lead. A very satisfactory mixture consists of 1 pound of lead arsenate and 75 pounds of cornmeal, or 6 heaping teaspoonfuls of the arsenate to one bushel of cornmeal. The poison evenly distributed throughout.

TREES ON FARM

Correct handling of forest trees on the farm will add to its comforts as a home and enhance its value as an investment. In many sections of the country the farm forest will supply all timber the farm needs for buildings, fences, fuel, repairs of all kinds, and many other uses.

There are some very good stands of corn but the average is not up to the usual. Alsike clover is running from four to five bushels to the acre. Some growers have been offered $14 a bushel for their alsike seed.

PLAN INSPECTION TRIP FOR PARTY OF FARMERS

Special Farm Writer

Green Bay—According to J. N. Kavanaugh, county agent, plans are under way for a tour of Clark, Marathon, Wood and Barron-co by farmers of Green Lake, Winnebago, Outagamie and Brown-co.

This tour is being planned to offer farmers of the central counties of the state an opportunity to see results of cooperative marketing, cost testing associations and the area testing for tuberculosis.

It is planned to hire two or more large buses for the four day's trip. Arrangements are being made in the counties to be visited to serve meals to the visitors free of charge. Special rates for lodging at hotels are also being arranged.

The cost of the entire trip will be about $25. The trip will be made the second week in September. Any one interested in taking the trip should get in touch with J. N. Kavanaugh, Brown-co agricultural agent, Green Bay, as reservations will have to be made early.

BABY BEEF EXHIBIT INTERESTS YOUTHS

Club Members Are Fattening Livestock for Seymour Fair Competition

These are busy days for the boys and girls who will compete in baby beef club work at the Seymour Fair, Seymour August 22 to 25, says Secretary George F. Fiedler.

These youngsters, whose aim it is to cop the big prize money at the fair, are leaving no stones unturned in getting their animals ready for the fair. Those who will be in charge of the club activities at the fair, and the assistants who have been training the youngsters in baby beef club work for several months, have been trying to teach the youngsters not only how to select good baby beefs and get them ready for the show ring, but how to feed them cheaply so a profit can be made from them.

Saturday, Aug. 20 special inspection trips into any producing section of Wisconsin will be made. Seed centers are located in Price and Taylor counties. Special opportunity will be offered to tour members at Eagle River to visit fishing streams or take part in other recreational features.

One reason for the popularity of baby beef club work is the increasing demand for light-weight, high-grade cuts of beef. These cuts are obtained from animals between 14 and 38 months old, and weighing from 900 to 1200 pounds. These are the animals which are known as "baby beefs." They bring the top price.

Other club projects to be featured at the fair are poultry, canning, sheep, pig, dairy, garden, corn, potato, livestock judging, and baking club work.

Here And There Among The Farmers--

John C. Schumacher, route 1, Little Chute, cut ten acres of oats Tuesday that neighbors say will yield 50 bushels to the acre. From ten acres of red clover that is almost ready to cut again, Mr. Schumacher got 25 to 30 tons. His barley is a very good crop also but below the average of other years.

Henry Wegenberg, route 6, Appleton, has eight acres of Sudan grass that he is trying this year as an emergency hay crop for the first time after his field of 25 acres of alfalfa winter-killed. Owing to dry weather, after the Sudan grass seed was sowed, the grass is not as tall and thrifty looking as it should be at this time of the year.

John Vandervelden, route 6, Appleton, threshed his crop of mixed oats, wheat and barley on Tuesday and got 330 bushels from ten acres. He has ten acres of very good Golden Glow corn.

Walter Thyssen, route 6, Appleton, threshed 1,095 bushels of grain Monday, consisting of 512 bushels of oats and the balance wheat and barley. The quality of his grain and the yield were very satisfactory.

Harvey Kegel, who has been employed on the Will Beyers farm, near Shiocton, has returned to his home at Dale, where he will assist his father on a threshing machine for the rest of the summer.

Gravel is being hauled over route 5 from Henry Glasnap's quarry, one mile west and one mile north of Appleton, for grading of the Greenville-Grand Chute road.

A hail storm in a narrow swath, near New London, damaged the growing crops to a considerable extent in the towns of Liberty and Maple Creek last Friday afternoon. Stones passed through the heads of early cabbage in the field of H. C. Stichtman and riddled and shredded the leaves. The hail was just as severe on the cornfields in the path of the storm.

Edward Gosse, Cicero, is building a sun parlor on the west side of his house.

Victor Mueller, Cicero, is building a new frame hen house.

William Jeske, Cicero, has reported a good yield of barley. From eight acres he received 11 large loads.

Emil Niemuth, of Briarton, sold 1,900 pounds of new potatoes last week, at Green Bay.

George Peters, Cicero, is building a concrete silo, 12 by 36 feet. He thinks this is a good investment as last year, his corn stalks froze, and he figured that it lost at least half its feeding value.

SURVEY SHOWS GOOD BEAN AND PEA CROP

Many Farmers Harvest Bumper Crops of Vegetables to Sell to Canning Companies

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Appleton—John Baum, route 4, delivered 3,204 pounds of wax beans, lately to the Fox Valley Canning company, Hortonville, as the result of one day's picking. Mr. Baum has 20 acres of canning beans which make him one of the largest growers of beans in the territory of the canning company. Beans are a good crop this season but the fields are in need of rain.

New London—Forty-four people were picking canning beans on a farm in the town of Maple Creek Monday, a part of the Belonger estate, for the Hamilton Canning company of this city. The beans are picked three times a week and are a very good crop.

Dale—This season, Frank Prentice harvested 15 tons and 900 pounds of canning peas from 10 acres that brought $50 a ton. He figures that the pea crop netted him $900. Last year, Mr. Prentice cleared $425 on 10 acres of peas and considered that record a first class standard but he raised the record $275 this season. He gave his present pea field a heavy coating of manure last season and raised a good crop of potatoes. This season he notices the effect of potato cultivation and the manure in his large crop of peas. The only other fertilization of the peas was what came from the inoculation of the seed. Mr. Prentice's small grain is coming along in good form and he intends to begin harvesting it Thursday. His corn is also doing well considering the late planting.

Medina—Lyle Ray raised 13 tons of canning peas this season from six and one-half acres which netted him about $90 to the acre.

Hortonville—James Sexton raised ten tons of canning peas this season as the product of five acres.

As he has been calling off for dances since 16 years of age he knew old time dances in their infancy, prime, decadence, and present revival and is better qualified than most men on account of his experience to re-establish the popularity of the dances. ## SEVEN STAGES OF MOTHERHOOD

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

AIN we read of a trial in which the defense is "too much mother-in-law."

Woman, on this mortal coil, has many sorrows to bear but perhaps the greatest martyrdom she suffers is the role she must play as mother-in-law. It is a stigma. It should be a crown. It is a hard part to play and gets little credit even when played well.

The seven ages of man are epic. The seven ages of motherhood are tragic.

First the baby, whose thread of life depends on the mother every instant for sustenance.

Next the little child old enough to play and to whom the mother is not so necessary, at least for several hours a day, when toys and playmates call for attention.

School days follow. Still less is mother needed. A teacher shares her responsibility.

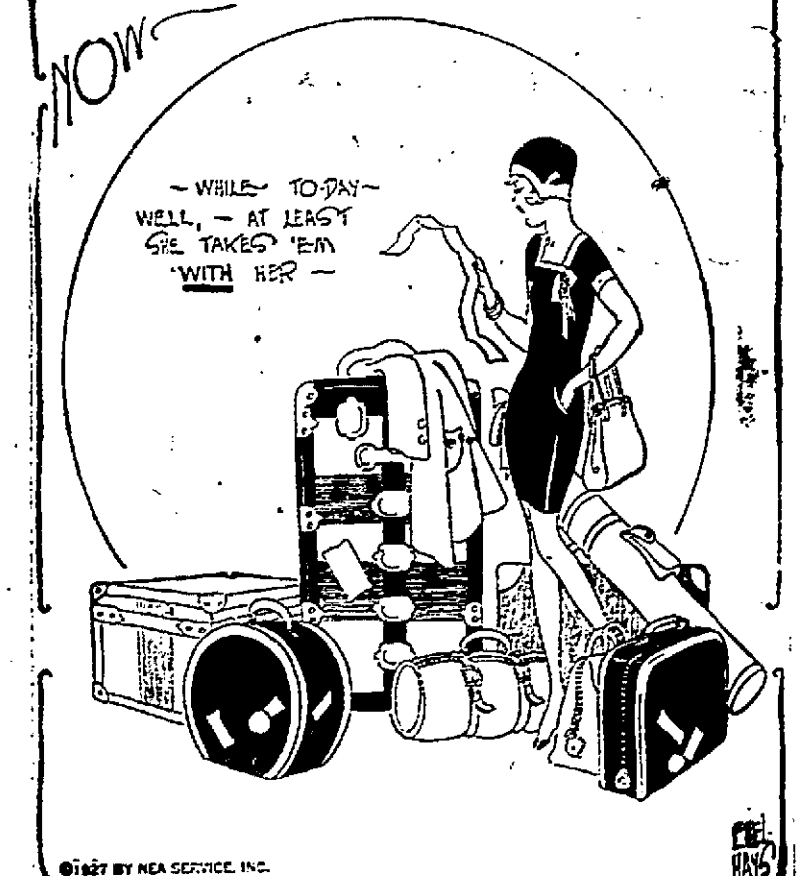

Still later the boy and girl attraction is inevitable. Years of adolescence do not greatly include the mother in their program.

Then comes college. Man's estate is around the corner and man's responsibility. The mother feels that life is gradually elbowing her aside. Her child is facing it directly—no longer with her between.

The sixth period is one of comfort and companionship. The boy or girl grown and educated and ready for a career comes home. At least for part of the time. The mother has her child at last. She finds this new companionship sweeter than all the dependent days of babyhood. Life is fulfilling its promise. She is proud and content.

Who can blame her when the seventh stage, marriage, throws up an insurmountable barrier between her and her child, and she cannot learn at once to let go. It takes a brave woman to accept the last stage of motherhood with dignity and without protest.

DINNER—Boiled fresh salmon, draw butter and lemon sauce, steamed potatoes, boiled chard, cucumber jelly, gooseberry fool, milk, coffee.

Gooseberry fool is a popular English dessert but one that is met quite infrequently in this country. Gooseberries are stewed until tender but not broken in water to cover. When removed from the fire they are sweetened generously and very thick, sweet cream is poured over the hot fruit. The woman who lives in the country and has this thick cream at her command will find this dessert something her city guests will relish and "rave" over.

ONIONS ON TOAST

Four Bermuda onions, four rounds hot buttered toast, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons minced parsley.

Peel onions. Boil, uncovered, for one hour. Drain and cover with fresh boiling water and 1 teaspoon salt. Cook gently until tender. It will take about an hour. Arrange toast on a hot platter and on each round of toast place an onion. Pour over the sauce made by stirring flour into melted butter and slowly adding milk, stirring constantly until boiling point is reached. Season sauce with salt and pepper. Sprinkle top of each onion with minced parsley and serve at once.

SIMPLICITY AND ROOMINESS OF DRESS IS AMERICAN WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO SPORTS

BY HENRI BENDEL

NEW YORK—The English girl may have started the modern feminine love of athletics by her tramps along country lanes, her bicycling and her devotion to the hunt.

But it remained for the American girl to dress up while indulging in athletics and finally to use canoeing, tennis, golf, tramping and other exercises as new and emphatic arguments in favor of lovely clothes.

The smart, becoming type of clothes known as "sports frocks" is really the American's contribution both to frock style and to sports.

This summer's sports frocks justify the American girl's interpretation of sports. There is a simplicity and lack of sophisticated detail about them that is singularly pleasing.

Two-piece sports frocks are the most popular, with the little, three-piece frock the last word in smartness. Most of them are plain colored, or if they have trimming they use dots, checks, or geometric designs—never flowers.

I show today a little three-piece import in popular white radium silk that is as smart a golf costume as I have seen this year.

Its skirt is strictly tailored, with boyish round vest front and a turned down collar close to the throat, becoming to young but apt to be trying to older faces. It is sleeveless and has over it one of the smart and very useful hip-length jackets that make of the dress a costume and can be removed if its wearer seriously wants to play on a hot day.

But smart as are the lines of this frock, I think the polka dotted blue and white tie and kerchief are its dashing points. The Windsor tie and the kerchief, banding the hips to form a yoke above the flare, give a style all their own. Only the simplest of sports hats, such as the white, bally-bunti, should be worn with such a frock.

Fatou designed the other frock, a beige kasha cloth for cooler days. Tucked pockets, hand embroidered dots in brown and a brown leather belt and silk embroidered handkerchief put the stamp of chic on it.

Its soft material lends itself kindly to the pleats that give fullness to the skirt and to the tucks that decorate its pockets. The neckline is unusually becoming, traced as it is in dots, and the longer jumper length corresponds to the longer length the skirt takes.

THIS IS A PATOU BEIGE KASHA FOR COOL WEATHER. ITS TUCKED POCKETS, HAND EMBROIDERED DOTS AND PLEATED SKIRT PUT CHIC'S STAMP UPON IT. OBSESSIVE THE UNUSUALLY BECOMING NECKLINE AND THE LENGTH OF THE JUMPER.

A THREE-PIECE STRICTLY TAILORED IMPORT OF WHITE RADIUM SILK. THE HEIGHT OF SPORTIVE SMARTNESS. POLKA DOT BLUE-AND-WHITE TIE AND A KERCHIEF BANDING THE HIPS GIVE IT STYLE AND DASH ALL OF ITS OWN.

I designed a hat for this soft frock, one with the caressing touch of velvet beige velvet to fashion it, and the new in its crown. Beige felt combines with flaring turban gives it its design.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Goofy Goo the Tinkies found, just slightly hurt upon the ground, began to get real friendly, as they carried him along. "I like you all," they heard him say. "The reason that we ran away was 'cause we thought you'd hurt us. Now I know that we were wrong."

"Why, we're as friendly as can be," said Clowzy. "We won't hurt you, Gee, we merely wished to play with you and have some dandy fun. To be real kind is always best, for when we hope we find the rest, for when we do we'll all join in and sing, and play and run."

The little Goofy Goo then said, "Our camp, I'm sure, is just ahead. Just trail along on through the trees and we will soon be there." That's what they did, and found him right. The little camp soon came in sight. They saw a lot of Goofy Gooes out in the open air. As soon as they were on the ground, the Goofy Goo the Tinkies found, told all the others, "These are friends. They kindly brought me here." And then, their real respect to show, the Tinkies all bowed very low. The Goofy Gooes then did the same, and broke out in a cheer.

Then one grabbed Clowzy by the hand, and said, "I think it would be grand if we would show our gratitude by making him our king." "Hurrah!" the others shouted loud. And this made Clowzy feel real proud. He stood and looked dumbfounded as he heard their voices ring.

"The right to rule us you shall own," said one. "We've got a dandy throne, and you shall sit upon it with a crown upon your head." "We Clowzy, thus was made their king. He thought it quite a wondrous thing. The other Tinkies clapped as to the throne he soon was led.

(Clowzy has fun being king in the next story.)

FINGER NAILS should round gently to conform to the natural arching contour of your fingertips. The too-pointed nail, and the over polished fingernail, denote poor taste.

To give yourself a manicure, soak your hands in tepid soaps suds for 15 minutes to loosen the cuticle. Push the cuticle back gently with orange stick wrapped in cotton, until the half moon shows at the base of your nails.

Never cut the cuticle. If you will remember to push this cuticle back with the towel every time you dry your hands, it will soon loosen and take form.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Whether it was the drawn pallor of Bob's face or the irritable boredom in his eyes that decided her Faith did not consciously know, but at Sunday breakfast she made an announcement.

"Bob and I are going picknicking today—just the two of us. Tires in good condition, darling." She was awarded with a brightening of Bob's dull blue eyes—eyes that had once been as brilliant as blue diamonds.

"The car's in splendid shape. When can you be ready?"

"Oh, Faith, can't I go?" Cherry wailed, her face puckering to tears like an aggrieved child's. "Let's all go."

"No," Faith laughed, but her voice was firm. "We couldn't take the baby. And Dad hates picnics. He'd rather stay at home and read his paper. But he shan't have a lonely dinner. This is going to be a picnic for two, honey. Don't sulk, Cherry."

Bob looked five years younger even before they had started. He had insisted on supervising the packing of the luncheon hamper, instructing his wife and Mrs. Lundy in the preparation of the sandwiches and salads that he liked best.

"You got enough grub here to feed a Sunday school picnic crowd," Mrs. Lundy grumbled, but she was excited and pleased. She said to Faith, "Honey, him up a little today, Miss Hatheway. You forget all about this house and the family and the baby and act like you was his sweetheart again."

And so Faith was thinking of herself as Bob's sweetheart when the dark blue sedan rolled out of the gravel driveway into Serenity Boulevard. She would not let herself feel even a little sorry for Cherry, wistfully waving goodbye from the front porch, the baby held awkwardly in the crook of her right arm.

Bob, minus hat and coat, drove with the wind rushing through the crisp chestnut waves of his thick hair. His brown arms, bare to the elbow, and the bronzed column of his throat, released by the turning in of the collar of his white madras shirt, made him look like a carefree college boy, off on a joy ride with his girl. And the smile which he flashed at her from time to time, when his attention could be diverted from his driving, was the smile of a happy youth. His eyes were bluer and brighter than the cloudless skies. Faith's heart sang with joy. She threw back her head and let him see the soft shining of her brown eyes, the flush on her ivory-white cheeks, the little half-smile that twitched at the corners of her beautiful, broad mouth. She looked like a girl in love, shyly expecting her beloved's first kiss. She was almost afraid to talk, lest her words should remind him that they were married—five months married—and burdened with the responsibilities of a home and a family.

Bob seemed to read her thoughts, and to be intent upon matching her mood—her sweetheart mood. "Do you know that you're beautiful, darling?" he asked in a low, caressing voice, when he had brought the car to a stop before a traffic signal.

And Faith, blushing brightly, touched his hand upon the wheel with just the tips of her fingers, withdrawing them, with a shy murmur of laughter, before he could seize them. Oh, he was to be hers—her lover—for a day, before Cherry, working for him daily as his secretary, had a chance to win him away from her!

TOMORROW: Faith learns, bitterly, what every wife knows.

SERVING FOUR PERSONS MORE EASILY THAN TWO

BY SISTER MARY

LOOKING for two is really nothing more nor less than a mathematical problem.

Most recipes in current cook books are planned to serve six persons. I calculate mine to serve four. So if a recipe large enough for four is used and a dish for two is wanted it's the simplest thing in the world to "take" half of each ingredient and use a sauce pan or baking dish or spider just half as large as the one provided for the serving of four.

The rule for serving six must be divided by three if a dish for two is wanted.

Of course chops present the least problem in the meat line since if individual appetites are known one or two chops can be supplied for each person.

Baked pork chops are particularly good prepared in the following fashion when there are but two in the family:

BAKED PORK CHOPS

Two pork chops cut one inch thick, 1 small onion, 1 dessert spoon minced parsley, 1 tart apple, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1 dessert spoon flour.

Sear chops quickly first on one side and then on the other in a hot lightly oiled frying pan. Put into a casserole, add boiling water to cover, cover casserole and bake in a hot oven for one-half hour. In the meantime peel and chop onion pare and chop apple and mince parsley. Mix well and season with salt and pepper. Cover chops with this mixture and return to the oven for thirty minutes longer. Remove to hot platter and thicken the liquid left in the casserole with the flour stirred to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Pour the gravy over the meat and serve.

This meat dish is most satisfactory if accompanied with stuffed baked tomatoes. No potatoes need be served and a fruit salad will answer for dessert as well as salad. The combination makes a delicious, well planned dinner for two.

HALVES, NOT SIXTHS

Instead of using a large pie pan and cutting the pie in sixths, invest in a small pie pan and cut the pie in half, serving half a pie to each person. Three-fourths cup flour and 1-4 cup shortening will make enough pastry for a small two-egg pie. If a one crust filled pie is wanted, a little more than 1-2 cup flour and 2 tablespoons shortening should be used. The little pie pan will probably hold 2 cups of filling while an eighth inch pie pan holds 4 cups.

One-half pound green beans will serve two persons.

One-pound well dried green peas in the pod will serve two persons. Vegetables like beets and carrots

Fashion Plaques

Use Powder That Blends With Skin

NOBODY should use white powder. Match your skin exactly in choosing your powder. Blend your own powder's shade if necessary, by adding ruchal to flesh, or mixing white ruchal and several flesh tones.

Apply powder equally and lightly all over face and neck. Then go over the face again, easing the powder into the skin so it will stay on. Never leave the nose lighter than cheeks.

Use meticulously clean powder puffs, or preferably use large wads of cotton and throw them away afterwards. Never borrow a powder puff any more than you would a toothbrush.

Never powder your eyelids. Rub off powder just under the eye. For it is more fluttering to the eye to have the natural oil left uncovered.

Household Hints

STENCILED RUGS

Plain grass rugs can be stenciled to match the pattern on walls or furniture with the new washable paints on the market.

ICE SAVINGS

If you will wrap ice in several thicknesses of newspaper before putting in the box, you will find it last much longer.

SERVICEABLE BEAN-POT

The old brown earthen bean-pot, if it has the usual spout, makes an ideal beverage pitcher because, once cooled, it stays that way.

EGG DISH

Diced hard-boiled eggs, surrounded by noodles and covered with white sauce, topped by ground peanuts, make an ideal baked dish for supper.

There's no place like HOME

WHEN your children hear some one sing "Home, Sweet Home," what will their memories picture to them? A flat or a boarding house—or a nice, comfortable house, with a stretch of lawn and some trees and flowers, and mother and you!

This is the home-building year. Here is what Herbert Hoover says, in a survey of the home-owning situation: "A family that owns its home takes a pride in it, maintains it better, gets more pleasure out of it and has a more wholesome, healthful and happy atmosphere in which to bring up children." ## DEMPSEY-SHARKEY FIGHT PICTURES SHOWN HERE

The Dempsey-Sharkey fight pictures, detailing the heavyweight battle round by round and blow by blow will be shown at the Elite Theater Thursday and Friday. These are the official Tex Rickard pictures. They narrate the fight from the entrance of Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey into the ring until the much-disputed finish, fading-out on Dempsey saluting his wife in distant Los Angeles via the radio while Jack Sharkey nurses his below-the-belt region in his corner.

The seventh round is repeated, after being run off at normal speed, in slow-motion photography in order that it may be studied closely by those who hold opinions on the moot question of Mr. Dempsey's fouling of Mr. Sharkey. This slower method of presenting film enables an excellent view of Dempsey's knockout punch to be had.

Members of Co. D, 127th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, are working this month on preliminary pistol practice in preparation for the annual pistol competition of Wisconsin guard units. The competition this year will be held late in September or early in October.

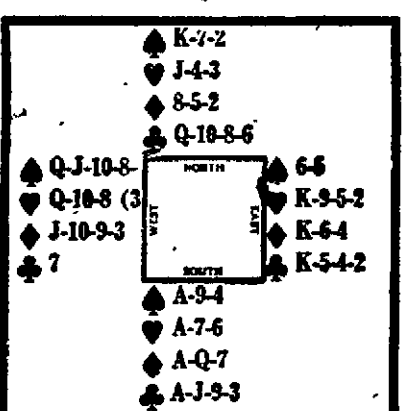

The guardsmen also will work on the rifle range Saturday afternoon in an attempt to choose a strong team for the Rox river valley rifle contests at Neenah Sunday. The guard unit works mostly on machine guns and pistols so that it is hard to get much enthusiasm in the forming a rifle team for the Neenah event, according to Captain E. F. Gunderson, commanding officer.

Mayor and Mrs. A. C. Rule and family and Mrs. Rule's father, John Hackworthy, will leave Appleton Friday afternoon to spend a week at the Rule cottage on Pine lake, near Clinchville. The mayor will return next Wednesday evening for the meeting of the common council.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: IT OFTEN IS ADVISABLE TO KEEP THE LEAD IN ONE HAND BY PLAYING AN UNNECESSARILY HIGH CARD FROM THE OTHER.

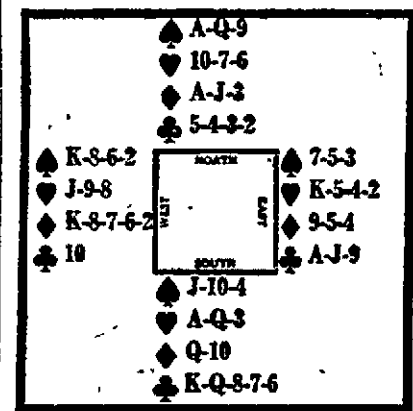

South Declarer, contract No Trump. The first two tricks should be played as follows:

To trick 1, West should lead the Queen of Spades. Dummy play the King of Spades. East the Five of Spades. South the Four of Spades.

To trick 2, North should lead the Queen of Clubs. East play the Deuce of Clubs. South the Jack of Clubs. West the Seven of Clubs.

West leads the top of a Q-J-10 sequence from his long suit. As a lead from Dummy is desired. Declarer wins the first Spade trick in Dummy and leads a Club from that hand; he selects the Queen hoping to tempt the King from East if we have it. East has it, but having three small Clubs with it, plays small, hoping that South may not have four Clubs. Declarer, to keep the lead as much as possible in North where he wants it, plays the Jack of Clubs under North's Queen. Played in this way Declarer will make two Spades, one Heart,

SCIENTIFIC FLY-TOX

Science Again Contributes To The Joy Of Living

Among the great benefactions that science has bestowed upon mankind is Fly-Tox. Touch any fly, mosquito, roach — any bug or insect — with its cleanly, fragrant spray. They cannot breathe. They are caught, held, doomed to sure death. Fly-Tox is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Fellowship.

And yet Fly-Tox is harmless to humans. A child may use without danger. But Fly-Tox is certain death to all kinds of household bugs and insects.

TRIP AROUND WORLD DESCRIBED IN BOOK

Kaukauna Library Receives "The Royal Road to Romance" by Halliburton

Kaukauna — "The Royal Road to Romance," a novel by Richard Halliburton, is one of the best of the new books received at the public library within the last few weeks. The novel is a story of the author's thrilling adventures in a trip around the world in search of the exciting and the unusual. Halliburton is a Princeton graduate who tired of the dull routine of business life and decided that youth is for seeking adventure and romance. Together with another schoolmate he traveled around the world, working his way from place to place, although his family is wealthy and could well afford to pay his expenses. He delights in doing the unusual such as climbing the Matterhorn out of season and passing over the forbidden Afghan pass.

Another popular book is "Edge of the Jungle," by Bebe, the pilot of the famous "Arcturus" and director of the Tropical Research station of the New York Zoological society. He tells of jungle animals and expeditions into British Honduras.

Harold Bell Wright's latest novel, "God and the Grocery Man," has been received at the library. This book shows Wright's belief in the need of religion in American life.

An interesting story with a happy ending is Parrish's "Tomorrow Morning." The plot revolves about a mother and a son and a happy family looking forward to tomorrow.

Dixon wrote a gripping historical novel of the Civil war with General Lee as hero when he completed the "Man in Gray." There has been an unusual demand for this book at the library.

Most popular of the new books received that treat on science is Farrell's "What Price Progress?" An attempt is made in this book to show the new discoveries made in science and to tell what is being done to hold our country's place in economic organizations of the world, especially in the application of science to industry.

TWO WOLVES SEEN BY ISAAR FARMERS

Large Bird Attacks Herman Graf Who May Lose Sight of One Eye

Special to Post-Crescent
Isaar — While cutting oats, Frank Snell saw what he believed was a dog killing and eating a turkey. Upon closer inspection it proved to be a wolf. He called to his brother, John, who lives nearby, and the latter appeared quickly upon the scene with his gun. He took several shots but the wolf got away, going off into the woods. Another wolf, probably frightened by the report of the gun, dashed off with his companion. John Snell has a reputation of being a skillful hunter and vows he will get the wolves within a short time.

Herman Graf may lose the sight of one eye as the result of an encounter with a crane. His sons Harvey and Elmer had caught the bird and put it into a box. It flew up and began to peck at Mr. Graf's eyes. The bird then flew away.

DAWES IN FAVOR AS POLITICIANS SURVEY "FIELD"

Hoover Ranked Second Best With Hughes as Possible Compromise Candidate

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Probably Dawes. Perhaps Hoover. Possibly Hughes.

That's a tabloid lineup representing a consensus of the best political well-wishers as they consider the strange situation in the Republican party which has developed since President Coolidge threw the little red apple out on the lawn and left the boys in a quandry whether to scramble for it or to hold off lest it be coated with paris green.

Without definitely eliminating Mr. Coolidge, it may be said that Mr. Coolidge may have eliminated himself whether he meant to or not. Most of the Republican politicians are well pleased with what the president said and few tears are being shed among them over the likelihood that he will check out of the White House. Coolidge became president through accident, was re-elected by force of circumstances and has since built up no personal political following.

The kind of a job a man does in the presidency is not a primary concern to politicians. They want the sort of a man who will play ball with them.

But the politicians may not have the final say as to who is to be nominated. Their candidate must have the support of the men behind the party—business men, manufacturers, bankers—and of farmers and workers if possible.

That's where Dawes, Hoover and Hughes come in.

HUGHES STRONG
Hughes would have the backing of powerful interests—banking and oil, for instance. But he does not hold the imagination of the people as do Hoover and Dawes. He would be vulnerable because of his recent law connections, even more so than was John W. Davis in 1924. In the last three years, he has represented many of the very biggest corporations in cases where his arguments, if held up to analysis in a campaign, would not appeal to the average voter.

Just now, Hughes is in the background, easy to be pictured as a compromise candidate in case the convention develops into a cat-and-dog fight, as some observers expect. If the Democrats held their convention first and nominated Governor Smith, the Hughes stock would soar. He has a better chance of holding the great New York electoral vote than any other Republican. But the Democrats always follow the Republicans in convention and no one knows what they will do next year. Still, if the Smith bogey grows, the party may pick Hughes as the safest candidate.

HOOVER IN GOOD
Hoover is sitting prettier than he ever sat before. He has the best organized personal machine in the country. Chambers of Commerce, manufacturers' associations, Rotarians and Kiwanians, as well as the trade journals, are rooting for him. He is often regarded as a "Morgan man" by those who pretend to know the inside of things but he certainly is not offensive as such to the ordinary citizen. The financial groups behind the public utilities like Hoover. Early in the game, Hoover made some pronouncements for government operation of Boulder Dam, but lately he has soft-pedaled on that issue.

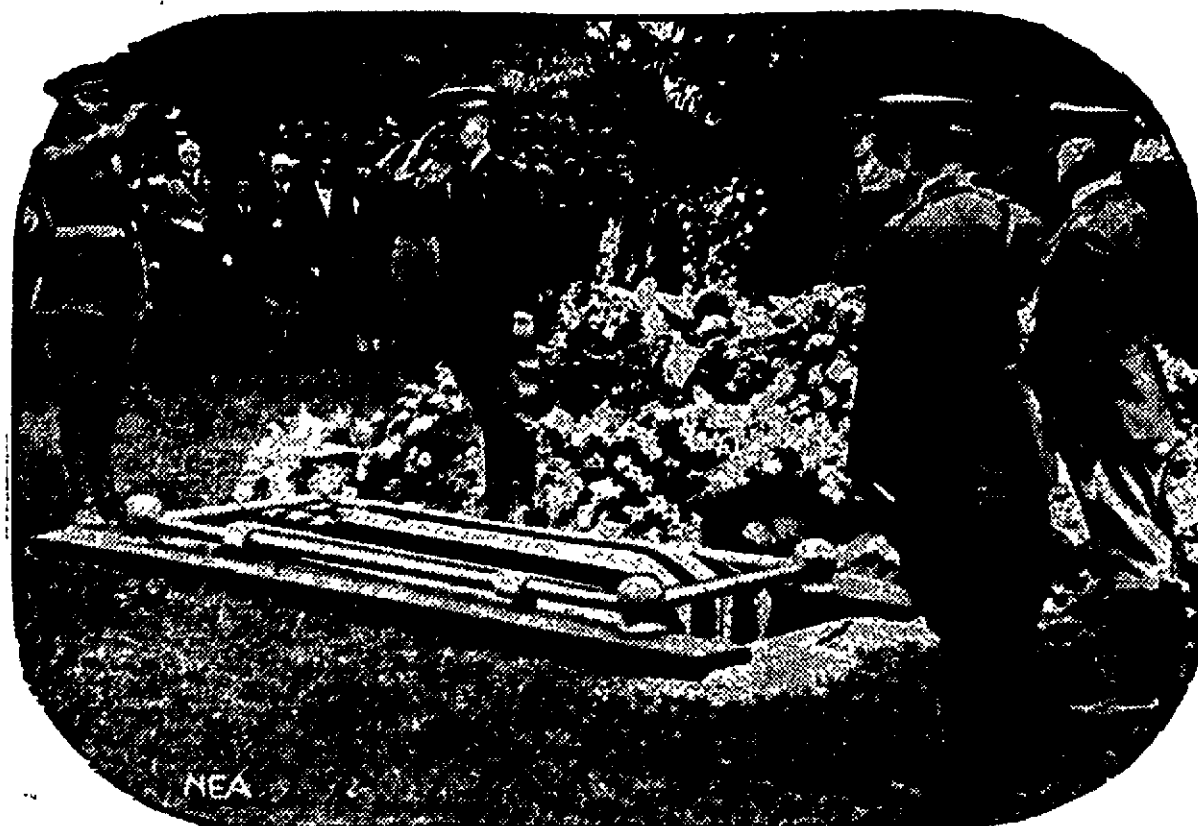

The Republican party is still the party of the interests behind Hoover. It is the party of business enterprise and business privilege.

DAWES HAS EDGE
But it is operated by the politicians and the politicians don't like Hoover. They wouldn't have him when Coolidge wanted him as a vice-presidential candidate in 1924 and they won't have him as a nominee if they can help it in 1928. There's where Dawes has an edge on Hoover.

It is true that Hoover stands out more than ever after his flood relief work, but as a political factor that one seems overestimated. Who expects him to capture Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi or Tennessee for the Republicans?

The farmers haven't any love for Hoover. He opposed the McNary-Haugen bill and the farmers accuse him of fixing grain prices during the war while others were allowed to profiteer.

While high officials of the army looked on, the flag-draped casket containing the body of General Leonard Wood was lowered into a grave in Arlington cemetery, Washington, close to the graves of the famous Rough Riders, whom he commanded in the Spanish-American war. ## STORY AUTHOR DREAMED NOW TO BE SEEN IN FILMS

Inspiration that came as a dream to one of England's foremost men of letters has been transferred to the motion picture screen through the artistry of Pola Negri and a small company of carefully chosen players.

One night in 1922 Hall Caine dreamed the plot of a story. He at once arose, donned a dressing gown and started to write. On through the night he labored at his desk; dawn, morning, the lunch hour found him still at work. Late in the afternoon of the same day found the first draft of "The Woman of Khocloe" completed.

It is the story of a girl's bitter hatred for the enemy of her country in time of war, turning to all-sacrificing love when she meets a certain man, a soldier of the hated nation. It is a story of the back currents of the great war; the bloodless struggle of the non-combatants. It has been pronounced the greatest novel ever written of the war.

In adapting the book for the screen Paramount has titled it "Barbed Wire." Erich Pommer and Rowland V. Lee produced the picture, with Lee directing.

Clive Brooks plays opposite Miss Negri, the central figure of the play "Barbed Wire" starts today at Fischers Appleton theatre.

FEW JOBS AVAILABLE IN APPLETON PLANTS

The labor situation in Appleton is "dead" at the present time, according to a report of Forrest Muck, acting employment secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Only a few jobs are open at a time and only a few applications for work have been made at the association bureau. Most of the work open is construction work or jobs in woodenware or toy and furniture factories. Quite frequently there are jobs open and men desiring work, but the workers cannot fill that particular type of job, though they are qualified for a line where they are not needed at present.

SATURDAY GAME

Green Bay at Kimberly.
APPLETON AT NEENAH.
Menasha at Kaukauna.
Green Bay at Oshkosh.
Kimberly, bye.

Two tough battles with a 200-mile trip between faces Appleton ballmen of the Fox River Valley league this weekend. The local crew hits the stellar Wausau Lumberjacks in a non-league struggle at Wausau Saturday afternoon and then returns home for their second battle this season with the Neenah league squad Sunday at Neenah. Neenah stopped Appleton here a few weeks ago when Nixon made the local batters look bad and since coming out of his slump he expects to repeat. He far outbatted after a several-weeks' illness and fans thought that Neenah was about done, but last week he showed his old-time form to beat the strong Green Bay team and remove that squad temporarily from the heels of the leading Kimberley crew.

The important loop games of the weekend are a pair for Green Bay, second-place squad. Saturday the Bays hit their only leaders, Kimberly at Kimberly in a postponed game. This year and all to the Bays. However, the K-C men have yet to lose a Saturday game at home. After Kimberly the Bays face Oshkosh. Kimberly drew a bye Sunday. Two wins, coupled with the Kimberly loss, will pull the Bays to a halfgame from the top with the leaders having a postponed game yet to play. Kimberly would have a mark of 12-4 and Green Bay, 12-5.

Appleton has no chance to jump a notch by a win Sunday, but should Green Bay lose twice and the locals cop, Braury's boys will be .071 behind the Baymen, in third place. Appleton must win to stay in third, however, in case Oshkosh pulls a surprise and halts the Bays. Menasha plays at Kaukauna and neither team plays at chance to better its position, though the Falls by a win can pull to a game from Oshkosh, provided that team loses. Neenah, by beating Appleton, can shove by its Twin City rival to fifth place.

NEW BADGER MENTOR FIXES BIG PROGRAM

Madison — Wisconsin's new head football coach, Glenn Thistlethwaite, has outlined a far-reaching grid campaign for the fall, stressing his idea of building for the future. Glenn is aiming at a record turn-out for intramural football, under the new system which recognizes intramurals for credit in physical education.

Lively Ball Makes Golf Game Of Strength-Jones

BY JIMMY POWERS
New York — It seems there is a young fellow named Jones let's see now—Robert. To be sure—after living at Atlanta, Ga., who is advancing a very radical change in his favorite sport that if carried out, will affect the peace of mind both afield and at home of many American millions.

Lend an ear, you duffers who occasionally close your eyes and lash out a 250-yarder to send you singing down the brook faraway.

This Jones fellow hopped off a boat at New York, jumped a few autographs, pulled in one bronze band and proceeded to set plenty in a chat with this writer about jazz-crazed modern golf.

Inasmuch as this Jones fellow knows his Bermuda, what he has to say is worth a little space and attention, he being well and favorably known.

"Modern golf is running every golf course in America. There has been a constant stretching of courses to cope with increased distances. That makes up a vicious circle. Churn, churn, churn links, once there are 600 yards, then 550 yards, now they are close to 7,000 yards and if it keeps up may have to go to 7,500.

"The premium is now on strength. It should be on skill."
"Golf has deteriorated to a degree such proportion. And it can be bettered. It is not dependent on hitting the ball well either. The ball is so lively that when I tee my ball high, as usual, I can't top it or skip it and still get the

MANY ENTRIES IN STATE TENNIS MEET

One of Largest Fields in History of Event Assured; Neenah Men in Milwaukee —(P)—Entries for the Wisconsin open tennis tournament next week are coming in rapidly, according to J. W. Davis, Milwaukee, chairman of the committee in charge of the meet, and one of the largest fields in the history of the competition is assured.

Although stars of the clay courts from all parts of Wisconsin will be on hand for the event, a troupe of Chicago men are expected to furnish the greatest threat.

Emmett Pare, Chicago, champion of last year's Wisconsin open, is expected to defend his title, while George Jennings, round-up in the Michigan state tournament, has already sent in his name.

Oshkosh, Neenah, Green Bay and Benton Harbor, Mich., are represented in the list of entries so far, according to Mr. Davis, while Milwaukee will have the largest representation with scores of local players.

Starting Aug. 15, the tournament will progress through Sunday Aug. 21 when the first 12 men's singles will be played. Aside from the men's singles and doubles, there will be competition for girls and boys under the ages of 15 and 18, and for women.

This year will mark the first time that the tournament has been held under the auspices of the Wisconsin State Tennis association, organized last winter with 20 state clubs represented.

As a result of the organization, according to Mr. Davis, the interest in the meet has become greater and more state players have entered.

APPLETON IS A MEMBER CLUB

Entries will close at midnight August 11. The entries should be mailed to Mr. Davis at the A. G. Spaulding Brothers before that time in order to make the player eligible for competition he pointed out.

George O'Connell, Chicago, who holds two legs on the open trophy, has not yet responded to the applications mailed out by Mr. Davis, but is thought probable that he will enter.

The event for the boys and girls marks an inauguration in the program for the state open. Mr. Davis pointed out, and is expected to further increase the popularity of the tournament.

JUNIORS EVEN SERIES WITH OFFICE BALLMEN

Kimberly—The K. C. Juniors tied the Office squad in a three-game series, which is being played between the two teams with a 6-5 win, in a hard battle, Wednesday evening. The Office crew trimmed the Juniors 16-15, in the first struggle.

The Office led by a one-run margin up to the sixth inning when it changed pitchers. Cooke, who was hurling stellar ball for that crew, and had allowed only one hit, took over the first base guardianship and Godfrey went to the mound. The Office had scored three in the second frame to two for the Juniors in the third. Then in the sixth the Juniors brought in three runs to take the lead. The Office scored one in the seventh and tied the score in the ninth, but the Juniors took the game in their half of the same session by bringing in their sixth run.

Ritten got the Juniors only hit and brought in one run and Schwanke and Coosens had two runs apiece. Juddins had three singles and scored twice. Cooke had a double and a single and scored the same number of times; and Briggs had two singles and a double for the Office.

The batteries: Juniors, Vander Zanden, Gossens and Verbeten; Office, Cooke, Godfrey and Thelen.

appearance of a fair drive when down in my heart I know it's a badly hit shot.

"The most skillful clubs in the bag are rusty with the too lively ball. My two favored shots are a long iron to the green and a spoon. How many times do I get a chance to use either in the course of a round? Not many. And what a kick there is in playing a long iron or a spoon up to within a few feet of the hole.

"What we lose in distance with 'lively' ball we will make up in control. There are some greens on which it is impossible to control the lively ball. That ninth at St. Andrews for instance.

"I agree with President William C. Fowkes of the U. S. G. A. who surmises the present 162-163 ball is demoralizing the game and robbing it of its skill. I played it with Bob Harris, former British amateur champion, and Harry Gilkes, a well-known surgeon and golf expert over there, and we used the old-fashioned gutty balls. What real pleasure we got out of the game! It required more than driving, putting and putting.

Understand, I don't want to appear as an amateur. Let the majority of golfers keep their fun and their electric balls. I merely suggest that a saner brand be selected for the small handicap players and state in championship.

"And after all, what difference does it make whether you go around a hole in 50 strokes with the present ball or 55 strokes with something better? The balance between strength

DOING WELL

ANDY REESE

George Kelly used to be the handy-andy man for the New York Giants, before he was traded away by McGraw. His job is now being handled by Andy Reese, rookie from Memphis, who came up as an outfielder, but has played in the infield also this year. His versatility makes him quite a valuable man to have around.

DELANEY, UZCUDUN, BOTH NEED VICTORY

Basque Must Win to Regain Prestige; Jack Wants Crack at Mike

New York—(P)—While Jack Delaney remained a slight favorite for his scheduled 15-round bout at the Yankee stadium Thursday night against Paolino Uzcudun, the bounding Basque, there was some skepticism among the French Canadian's followers over the possibility of him injuring his hands on the admittedly rough and tough senior from the Pyrenees.

Paolino is expected to enter the ring with a weight advantage of 15 pounds or more but boxing critics saw this offset by the former light heavyweight champion's superior ring generalship and speed.

Delaney is the cleverest fighter the Spaniard has met and Paolino should be a fairly easy target for him. Delaney is facing a man who has never been knocked out or knocked off his feet in a prize ring, a rugged, well-developed athlete with a stout punch if he can get in close to let it go.

The winner of Thursday night's contests has been promised a match with Jack Sharkey in New York next winter. Paolino is eager for a victory over Delaney to regain a position in the heavyweight ranks that was denied him when Tex Rickard left him out of consideration in his elimination program this summer. Delaney has turned over his light heavyweight crown to Mike McTigue, and unless he can dispose of the Spanish woodchopper he will be out of consideration in both ranks.

NEXT SUNDAY GAMES

Wrightstown at Little Chute.

Kaukauna at Oak Grove.

Crippled by the absence of three regulars, the Wrightstown team, leader of the Valley Junior Baseball league, lost its second game of the season last Sunday, dropping a slugfest to the cellar Oak Grove team, 19-16, at Wrightstown. The cellar squad showed just enough strength to whip the crippled leaders, who have been defeated in only two of the 13 loop games this season. Beside being a slugfest, many errors on both sides allowed the scores to mount high. The Kaukauna-Little Chute game was postponed.

Next Sunday Wrightstown plays its closest rival, Little Chute, which it defeated a few weeks ago, at the Chute diamond. A Chute win will tighten the race, with the leaders but a game and a half ahead in first.

Kaukauna and Oak Grove meet at the Grove and a win from the home team will place it a half game from the Kaws, now in third place.

SIXTH WARD GIANTS BEAT FIRST WARDERS

The Sixth Ward Giants whipped the First Ward Cubs in the playoff game of a three-game series for the championship of the two squads, Wednesday morning at Roosevelt Junior high school field. The final score was 10-8, with the Giants taking the long end after a hard-fought struggle. The Giant's led throughout the game. Each team had won a game before the Wednesday tilt.

The batteries for the Giants were Norman Pope, catcher and Robert Kotke, pitcher. Robert Kotke will captain the team this season and Edward Kotke will be the manager.

EXHIBIT DOGS AT GREEN BAY SHOWS

Appleton Fanciers Urged to Enter Animals in National Prize Contests

Appleton dog fanciers who believe that they own animals which might win prizes will have a chance to exhibit them at Green Bay on Aug. 27 and 28 when the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club holds an American Kennel club show, the first ever held in the valley.

The Green Bay organization recently applied for a place among the larger dog clubs and a date for an A. K. C. show. There still is one more day before entries close, according to Glenn Nashold, who is in charge of Appleton entries. Mr. Nashold can be reached at Rainbow Gardens, telephone 15, by persons desiring to enter dogs.

Rob Roy, the most frequently photographed dog in America, and the white collie pet of President and Mrs. Coolidge, has received a special invitation to the summer white house at Rapid City, S. D., to come to Wisconsin and be a guest of the club at the show. Walter Heinemann, Wausau, Coolidge friend and a political leader in Wisconsin, has been requested to urge the president to permit Rob Roy to come back to his native state and witness the first national dog show of the valley. The collie was born in Oshkosh.

While many famous specimens are expected at Green Bay to compete for the coveted ratings and ribbons as well as special prizes, there has not been the anticipated enthusiasm among nearby owners, though De Pere has entered a large number.

GREEN BAY FAVORS MUNICIPAL COURSE

More than 250 names have been signed to three petitions for a municipal golf course in Green Bay since they were sent out a few weeks ago, according to reports from that city.

More names are being added daily and golfers and sportsmen of the city are enthusiastic over the proposition. At least 1,000 names will be required before the petition will be presented to the city council.

BADGER COACH SCHOOL CLOSURES WITH PICNICS

Madison—The six weeks summer session in physical education and athletic coaching came to a close here last Friday. Director George Little expressed great satisfaction with this year's school, and feels that rapid strides are being made by Wisconsin in the instructional field. About 100 of those coaches in attendance wound up their stay in Madison with a boat ride and picnic supper on Lake Mendota, as guests of the athletic department.

KILLILEA BECOMES NEW BREWER OWNER

Man Who Helped Organize American League Purchases Borchert Interests

Milwaukee —(P)—Henry Killilea, who helped organize the American League and who for many years served as its counsel, is to become sole owner of the Milwaukee club of the American Association within a few weeks.

Mrs. Ruby Borchert, who inherited the club upon the death last April of her husband, Otto Borchert, is reported to have completed negotiations for transfer of ownership as soon as the probating of the estate of Mr. Borchert is completed.

Since Borchert's death, Killilea has looked after Mrs. Borchert's interests in the baseball property. He is a former owner of the Boston Red Sox.

DUNDEE SET TO RISK CROWN WITH MITCHELL

Milwaukee —(P)—Joe Dundee, Baltimore, welterweight champion of the world, was ready to meet Pinkey Mitchell, Milwaukee, late today in a ten round bout in which the title is not at stake.

The two fighters completed training Wednesday and were to weigh in for the fight at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Both men predict a knockout.

The fight will be the second time the two have met in the last two years, a previous battle having gone to Dundee in a Philadelphia ring. Mitchell will depend upon a powerful right to keep him in the running while Dundee, one of the colorful boxers of the ring, is effective with both mitts. Mitchell will be attempting more or less of a comeback in the bout, since he has been inactive for some time.

Under the auspices of the Eagles, who are holding their national convention, the fight is expected to attract a $10,000 gate. A number of preliminary fights have been arranged. The main fight will start about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

BRUINS REGAIN OLD LEAD AS BUGS LOSE

Giants End Road Trip by Beating Pirates as Cubs Rest; Yanks Gain

Closing their road trip with an 8-3 victory over the Pirates, the Giants were in New York Thursday for their final home stand, during which Manager McGraw hopes the team can whittle down the eight and one half game margin that separates the Giants from the first place Cubs.

Giants hopes are rather faint, however, for the players have failed to play consistently good baseball. Wednesday they waited until two were down in the eighth before they tied into Ray Krocmer, batted him off the mound, and continued the attack on Dawson, Hill and Cengros for six runs. Travis Jackson and Leslie Mann singled in runs in that eventful stanza.

The Cubs profited by idleness. The Pittsburgh defeat boosted McCarthy's Bruins back into a three and one-half game margin for the leadership position.

Philadelphia and the Braves divided a doubleheader. The Phils took the opener 6-0, with Pruett southpawing the Braves into ineptness. Smith let the Phils down with six hits in the aftermath, Boston winning, 5-1. The Braves pounded Ferguson for 13 hits in this contest.

The Yanks gained a full game on the Senators when they nosed out Bucky Harris' outfit, 4-3. Babe Ruth supplied the winning punch, a first-inning single that scored Combs and a homer in the third that sent two runners over the plate ahead of him.

It was the Bambino's thirty-sixth circuit clout and it enabled him to get within two homers of Lou Gehrig. Unpinned Clarence Rowland had to be given police protection after the game. He had banished Manager Harris from the game in the third inning for disrupting a called third strike. Pop bottles were hurled from the stands.

Toledo—Tommy Freeman, Erie, Pa., knocked out Billy Plitz, Tulsa (9).

Boston—Monte Munn, Nebraska, knocked out Dick Ferguson, Boston (1).

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl who owns and manages considerable property near the little town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, but so far she has escaped harm, due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, a curious mixture of American and Oriental blood and a student of criminology.

Vilak has been trying to persuade Elise to leave Porto Verde, letting him stay behind with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an elderly American chemist, to solve the mystery. She finally agrees, but her departure is prevented by threat of floods. Messengers ride through the countryside, warning the natives. Vilak suggests they go to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a recluse and a forbidding man and an enemy of Elise's whom she suspects of a knowledge of the conspiracy against her. She agrees it is her duty.

Vilak learns the flood warning is a ruse to get Prentiss out of his house and so informs him. The party is besieged by an armed force in a stone tower next to Prentiss' house. Vilak disperses the enemy by dynamiting a dam and causing a real flood. When the water recedes they discover Prentiss is gone.

The next day, TINKY, Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew, is kidnapped for the second time. A native reports Prentiss has been seen with a baby. The trail leads into the jungle and, with native trackers, they pursue. Calamity overtakes them. Some of their reliable natives are hurt and two of their white friends are fever victims. Treachery exists in their ranks.

Nunally, Elise and Vilak finally emerge from the jungle and presently come to the outskirts of a strange settlement, looking from a distance like the ruins of an Inca city. As they approached the town they are overcome by gas, evidently released on them by hidden watchers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIX

When Vilak recovered consciousness he was lying on the floor of a narrow stone-walled room, bare of furniture. As his brain quickly cleared, he attempted to rise. The effort was futile; he was bound hand and foot with heavy leather thongs. But the movement had caused him to turn his head and he saw that he was not alone in the stony chamber. Nunally, also trussed up in a similar fashion, lay on his back a few feet away. Elise, however, was not to be seen.

After a glance at the old man, which showed that he was still unconscious, Vilak rolled to one of the narrow slits built in the wall to serve as windows and looked out. From the rows of abode and straw huts which he could see stretching out below, he concluded that he was on a corner of the artificial mound he had noticed from the mountain. A stone path ran by his windows. On it he could see no one. But at the base of the mound, fifty or sixty feet below him, ran a broad highway, and this was swarming with life.

It was a life little different in essentials from that of which he had been a part at Porto Verde. He reflected, as he saw oxen dragging creaking howling dogs, and two women arguing passionately over a broken water-jar.

Most of the inhabitants were dressed in the same fashion as the wilder Indians near Porto Verde, the men with breeched cloths at their waists, and a rounded stick or stone in their hands, the women naked or with a short cloth apron.

Though at the distance it was rather difficult even for Vilak's keen eyes to make out the exact color of their skins, they seemed to range in shade from the red-brown of the American aborigines to the shining black of the negro laborers on Elise's fazenda. On his head stood off by the brilliancy and picturesqueness of his costume. He was obviously a priest, for the swarming women and children made haste to clear a way for him when they passed. Round his otherwise unclad body he wore a girdle of brightly dyed cloth on his head was a circle of green parrot feathers.

A slight murmur from the direction where the old man was lying caused Vilak to turn his head quickly. Nunally had awakened.

"Well, they've caught us all right," Vilak grunted, when the other's bewilderment at his new surroundings had ceased. "One of your nice sulphur compounds did it. Considerate of them not to let us lie there until we strangled to death at least. Wonder how long they're going to keep us waiting here? And what the devil have they done with Elise?"

The bone-tipped end of a spear was momentarily framed in the window aperture, then disappeared. Vilak looked outside again. "That's our sentry," he muttered. "Kinky-haired and almost pitch-black. Match him anywhere in the Sudan or Congo, or Alabama or Mississippi for that matter. These are Inca ruins that we're in, all right, but the people occupying them are as far from Incas as anything I've encountered. Probably found these old buildings and began living in them, that's all."

Judging by those I've seen so far, they're as much of a mixture as the natives around Porto Verde, varying degrees of negro and Indian and possibly a little Spanish or Portuguese thrown in. I'm generally strongly in favor of racial mixtures, but this looks like a bad one. Many bad, rather degenerate faces."

The spear-end was framed in the window again. The old man crawled forward to look. "He is . . . er . . . black . . . quite black, isn't he?" he stammered. "How do negroes come so far out here? The black race isn't . . . er . . . native of South America."

"Of course it isn't native. But that hasn't prevented it from spreading all over the continent, just as it has in the southern states. The ancestors of these chaps were undoubtedly African slaves Pizarro brought over to work the Inca gold mines and who ran away to the mountains to escape his terrible cruelty. Judging by the ornaments I've seen a few of them wearing, they probably think they're the pure and direct descendants of the original Incas. Easy to get that idea when they're living in Inca ruins all the time. Many far brighter races do it. The Slavs, who form such a large portion of the present population of Greece, will swear to you that they're the undelivered progeny of the great Athenians."

He ceased speaking as a step sounded outside the door of grotesquely carved wood at the other end of the narrow room. A wooden bar creaked, the door opened and a man strode inside. Small, well-built, he was clad in immaculate white linens and brown puttees. His skin was dark, but it was the darkness that comes to a white skin after long exposure to the tropical sun; his nose was long and thin, his mouth sensitive and small. On his upper lip was a small, carefully trimmed mustache. He gazed at the prisoners smilingly.

Nunally, whose glasses had been shattered when he fell on the road to the mountain, screwed up his gentle eyes to peer blinkingly at the newcomer. Then he gave a gasp of astonishment. It was D'Albentara, the suave, courtly engineer who had been in charge of the railroad gang at Porto Verde.

He strode toward the prisoners. "Ah, amigos," he murmured in his soft, perfect Portuguese. "It is indeed different now than when I have seen you before. Yes, is it not so? I am sad when I see you like this, tied with ropes up on the ground. It is not good to lie tied with ropes upon the ground. But this way, heias, must it be."

"I wish, whatever happens, that you will not think too ill of Carlos D'Albentara. Though you will die, very soon, I wish you will not think too ill of him. What he does, this Carlos D'Albentara—myself, is it not so, cavalheiros?—he does because it is business. All business, business, business. A word which you as citizens of that great United States should well understand, cavalheiros. I do not dislike you, No, rather, I like you much. Much. But you have interfered with my plans. And so, like a stone which lies on the tracks of a great railroad, you must be rid of. Business, amigos, always business."

He adjusted the flowered cravat in his linen collar. "And in this same way of business, Senhor Davis, I would ask you most graciously, what have you done with my ring which you have taken? I have searched most carefully your clothes, and looked at the two rings on your finger, but I find it nowhere."

Vilak gave a slight shrug of his plumed shoulders. D'Albentara stroked his dapper mustache. "You will not tell me? No? Very well. It makes little difference. It is but an ornament. Of little importance. I shall not die, nor will the sun cease from setting if I do not obtain it. Yet, if you had restored it to me, I might have made your . . . death, perhaps easier, perhaps quicker. But enough of talk. It is now time to go to see the ruler."

He smiled wryly as he spoke the word. "The ruler of this fair city which you honor with your presence. The ruler of whom I am but a humble servant and lowly advisor."

He clapped his hands. Two negro-like, kinky-haired Indians, such as might be encountered any evening strutting out of the shabby moving picture theater at Porto Verde, stalked inside. Each carried a bone-tipped spear and a copper dagger. They untied the cords about the legs of the captives, permitted them to rise, then followed D'Albentara along a ruined stone corridor.

Soon they turned and halted before a great wooden door on which were carved hundreds of suns in the form of stiff, conventionalized human faces. The door swung open from the inside. D'Albentara disappeared beyond it. The guards roughly seized the two captives, stripped off their puttees, shoes and socks, and thrust them barefooted after the Portuguese.

Vilak glanced swiftly about him.

They were in a great stone chamber, a chamber which hundreds of years before must have thrilled the beholder with the massiveness of its long, angular lines, and the beauty of its exquisitely wrought detail, but which now gave Vilak only a sense of wreck and desolation. For half of the lofty stone columns which had once stretched in a double colonnade from one end of the great edifice to the other had entirely disappeared, while those which remained were blackened with dirt or obscured with thick growths of vines; great holes were in the huge, crumbling walls and the gray thatch of the roof which showed signs of recent renewal.

In one corner a whole section of the crumbling walls and the gray thatch pavement, seemed to be gradually sinking into the ground. Nor was there remain any of that profuse gold ornamentation which so characterized the Inca civilization and had so aroused the cupidity of the invading Spaniards.

There was lavish gold work, however, on the raised stone seat or throne at the end of the room where the building was still roofed and walled, and on this was sitting a figure so ludicrous that Vilak's pronounced sense of humor would have caused him to laugh aloud had life not realized that the act would be instantly fatal.

Elise, this strange ruler thinks, would make him a good wife—but the others must die.

Pastor Collects Many Specimens On Trip West

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Recently returned from a month's trip to the National Yellowstone park, the Rev. F. S. Dayton is now busily engaged in classifying the large collection of botanical specimens made during the weeks he has been exploring points of interest in the west. Among the places he visited, the Rev. Dayton states that the South Dakota Bad Lands interested him more than any other and he is firm in his intention of returning there for study and observation.

In speaking of the collection of fossils, rock formations and flora the Rev. Dayton states that research for the correct classification of the new plants found in the Bad Lands is one of the most difficult undertakings he ever encountered. This is due, he said, because many of the plants growing there are so rare. One of these is the glycerhria lepidota, or wild licorice plant. This plant, found growing among the amazing formation of the Bad Land hills is the only one of the genus to be found in the western hemisphere.

Rock formations, include calcite, the sand crystallizations and bivalvulites, the fossil bones of ancient ordesons, upon which are interesting traceries which appear like delicate steel etchings. Bones and teeth of prehistoric animals, gold ore, lignite and many other specimens not yet classified are waiting to some day be added to the splendid collection which is the pride of New London.

In referring to the museum and the display of the new additions, the Rev. Dayton expressed a wish for ample room for exhibition purposes. At present the museum is housed in the public library building, and despite the fact that it is counted among the finest in the state the exhibits have never been properly displayed because of lack of room.

By the recent death of Mrs. Helen Niven, who possessed one of the finest Indian artifact collections in this vicinity, a further addition was made to the museum which is valued highly. The collection, however, has never been on display because there has been no place available which would do justice to or insure safety to the many valuable pieces. The Indian collection is under lock and key at a local bank.

The Rev. and Mrs. Dayton with their two sons covered about three thousand miles while on their tour. They visited Yellowstone and Custer battle fields, gold mines, oil fields and national forests.

NEW LONDON MAYOR WON'T ALLOW TAG DAY

Executive Doubts Substantiality of "Volunteer Rescue Army"

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Representatives of the "so-called" Volunteer Rescue army, with headquarters at Chicago, were in this city this week for the purpose of securing a committee to conduct a tag day under the auspices of that organization. Mayor E. W. Wendlandt refused to allow the movement because of doubt as to the substantiality of the organization. Upon investigation Mr. Wendlandt found that the "Berlin" Chamber of Commerce had reported that as the result of investigation they found that money collected from a tag day held in that city in 1925 was used for other purposes than that specified by the army, viz: for poor and unfortunate children.

The organization held a tag day in this city three years ago, Mrs. J. W. Monsted taking charge at that time, she however, refused to take any part in the movement this year. Names of workers in the previous drive were used by the representative in an effort to secure a new chairman. Further development of the representative plans were checked by the mayor's decision.

Piles Go Quick

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom banish Piles.
The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leanhart, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID and he tried it on hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schlitz Bros., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

After holding a seven run lead until the fifth inning the Badger Printers blew up sky high and error after error allowed the Interlakes to win the final game of the 1927 Appleton City Twilight League schedule 15 to 10 Wednesday afternoon at Jones park. With it went the league banner for the year. Had the Badgers won the Legion would have tied the Interlakes for the pennant and a playoff would have been necessary. Three hits and a number of Interlakes errors gave the Badgers six runs in the first frame and the Papermill came back with two runs from three hits, including a double and a triple. In the fourth three hits netted the losers three more runs for a 2-2 lead. Then came the fatal fifth bringing with it five Interlake hits and almost a dozen Badger errors for seven runs for the eventual winners. A tie for the sixth the Interlakes added two runs without a hit and then two more came over in the seventh on four hits after the Badgers had scored once in their half of the frame. Two more Interlake runs trotted across in the eighth and a double play ended the game in the first of the ninth. With one down Harmon fled out to Deggs, who caught Rousch off second on a quick throwin.

Both hurlers were hit hard but with good support neither score would have run over seven. Jacobson walked five men, three in the fatal fifth. In this frame he forced in a run on a walk. The Interlakes pulled two double plays and the Badgers one. Horn was the bat star of the day with two triples and a single in five bats. Both triples came with men on the first driving in two scores and the second three. Witzke had two hits and a walk and scored three Interlake runs. Quell had a triple and a single and Woods three singles in four trips up.

For the losers Ashman and Jacobson each had a double at a single and Rousch had three singles. ## PLAYER MAKES ASSIST, PUTOUT AT TWO BASES

In a recent game at Boston with the Chicago White Sox, First Baseman Phil Todd of the home team figured in one of the most unusual plays I have ever seen on the ball field. Todd started most of the action at first base and somehow managed to get the putout, which marked the completion of the play, while covering third. With Bill Barrett on second and Bill Falk on first, a snap throw from the Boston catcher caught Falk napping. As Falk dashed for second, Barrett very properly made for third on the play. Todd immediately started the play by making a toss to Rollings at third to intercept Barrett. This was the start of a long chase after Barrett, who dodged back and forth on the base lines between second and third. It seemed as if every Boston player on the field took some part in the play. Suddenly it seemed as if Barrett had eluded most of the Red Sox and had a chance to reach third in safety, when on looking in the direction of that base, I found First Baseman Phil Todd covering it. Taking the toss, he touched out Barrett as he slid into the base. Thus Todd gets credit for an assist made from his position at first in starting the play after receiving the throw from the catcher and a putout while covering third as the completion of the play. I doubt if there has ever been a play just like it in the majors.

TUNNEY WILL NOT COME TO CHICAGO FOR WHILE

Chicago—(AP)—Jack Dempsey expects to start swinging, hooks and jabs in a Chicago training camp before August ends, but Gene Tunney may stay away from Chicago until a fortnight before their championship fight at Soldier Field Sept. 22. "Gene has the finest camp in America at Speculator, N. Y.," his manager, Billy Gibson, said Thursday. "and if the rules of the Illinois Boxing commission permitted it, he would stay right there until the time for the fight."

"However, we want to come here soon because it's the people here who are going to patronize the fight, for the most part. Wherever Tunney trains, his camp will be open to the press free of charge. Dempsey's manager, Leo Flynn, is expected to arrive soon to look over the places he has discussed with Tex Rickard in New York. The Lincoln Fields race course is Flynn's probable choice.

FOREIGN NET STARS START BIG INVASION

New York—(AP)—The greatest tide of invading tennis skill that has menaced America in more than a decade starts rolling in Friday. It's first evidence will be the attempt of the British women's team, led by Kitty McKane Godfree, to win back the Wightman cup in the team matches with the home forces, led by Helen Wills, at Forest Hills Friday and Saturday. The second feminine challenge to the native defense comes in this National Women's championships, which start at Forest Hills, the week of Aug. 22. The crest of the tide will be reached in September, when France's great team is expected to make a sensational bid to win the coveted Davis cup from the American veterans, "Big Bill" Tilden and "Little Bill" Johnston, at Philadelphia. The climax will be the battle for individual honors at Forest Hills, with Tilden seeking to regain the crown that Cochet knocked off and LaCoste picked up in last year's American championships.

Standing at prospects, the United States appears to have a better chance of repelling the women's invasion than it has the men's. This is chiefly for the reason that in Miss Wills, America has the star generally recognized here and abroad as the successor to the world title that Suzanne Lenglen held for so many years.

not very encouraging for the 1932 games, scheduled for Los Angeles. The Olympic committee here acted summarily after a vain effort to induce M. Poincare to authorize the treasury to advance sufficient funds to enable the preparatory work to be started in the Senate, which rose for the summer holidays without sanctioning the credit of 2,000,000 francs voted by the chamber.

The Olympic credit will again be considered in Parliament in November, and in the meantime several Paris newspapers have started a public campaign for the required funds. If the French Olympic committee meets with all this trouble in sending a team to such a nearby city as Amsterdam, what will happen when the question of financing a team for the Los Angeles games comes up? Many sportsmen believe that unless the present state of affairs is improved, France will not be represented at Los Angeles.

This is likewise true of several other European countries. The expense involved in sending adequate teams half-way around the world will keep these countries out of competition, and the United States cannot be expected to send teams to Europe if the European countries do not reciprocate.

The French Olympic committee will probably be persuaded to compete at Amsterdam if the money is collected, but there exists now a strong feeling against the games in principle. For some years, England has had an even stronger sentiment against the games. The British, generally, would prefer international competitions between two countries only at a time.

If the opposition to the Olympic games idea grows in Europe, the Los Angeles meeting will surely be the first to suffer.

WISCONSIN SENDS OUT 70,000 BLANKS

All Applications for Football Games Next Fall in Mail at Same Time

Madison—A truck load of mail bags were carted from the Wisconsin athletic ticket office to the post office Wednesday and 70,000 football application blanks are now in the mails. The force of 15 civil service employees completed the tedious task of folding, stuffing and sealing on Saturday last. All of the order blanks were placed in the post office at the same time, assuring all Badgers a fair opportunity in making their reservations. The general public will now be supplied with applications upon request. Thousands of blanks will be mailed during the next two weeks to the newspapers and civic clubs of the state.

Provisions have been made by business manager George Levis for receiving the filled orders and checks, which will be coming back in great quantities this month. All orders will be preserved, unopened, until Sept. 1, when they will be drawn by lottery. The same consideration is given to all returned during the month of August except the paid up members in the alumni association, life members of the Memorial Union and season ticket purchasers, who receive preference.

TILDEN, LACOSTE MAY NOT CLASH IN MAY

Southampton, N. Y. —(AP)—With the quarter finals round reached in the Meadow Clubs invitation tennis tournament William T. Tilden and Rene LaCoste, considered as likely finalists in the singles, have intimations that they may not come together in the star preliminary to the Davis cup matches. LaCoste and Tilden are on opposite sides of the draw and have come through to the round of eight without mishap. Tilden, however, is undecided whether to continue into the final.

should he reach that stage. Reports persisted that LaCoste intended to vacate his position but the little French ace, who beat Tilden for the hard court championship of France, said he fully expected to stay in the running unless fatigue forced him out. Tilden was to meet Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., national intercollegiate champion, in the first match of the quarter finals Thursday.

TAX REVISION PROBLEM UP TO NEXT CONGRESS

Administration Heads Are Opposed to Excessive Reductions

LEADERS GIRD FOR FIGHT

Ways and Means Committee Will Study Situation Before Legislature Meets

(Copyright, 1927, by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—Arguments which will be used by administration leaders against what they consider excessive demands for federal tax reductions were set forth directly in an address delivered Wednesday at Charlottesville by Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury. Indications accumulate that revenue revision in the next congress is shaping up for a major controversy.

Unless congress is called into extra session, the ways and means committee will not meet until the latter part of October to begin its studies and hearings in connection with changes in the revenue act. In the meanwhile, however, experts appointed by the joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation are gathering statistics and opinions bearing particularly on administrative features of the law.

EXPECT CLASH
The clash of legislative views will come between those who believe that the last surplus shown by the treasury at the close of the fiscal year, last June 30, may be expected to continue in the main, contending that this should be translated into reductions in the tax burden, and those who point out that some of the sources of revenue received in that period are disappearing rapidly and that a tax cut should be of moderate proportions, the surplus, if any, to be used for debt reduction. This latter school of thought prefers to term the expected tax bill next winter a revenue revision measure rather than a tax reduction bill.

Speaking before the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia, Mr. Mills emphasized the growing burden of state and local taxation in the face of reduction in federal taxes, quoting figures to illustrate the point.

But the under-secretary made "one important reservation" to the prospects for continuation of a satisfactory condition in federal taxation, this being the proviso that federal aid for states be withheld from new fields of activity. Averaging $75,000,000 annually for roads, Uncle Sam is spending around altogether $110,000,000 a year now for aid to states in various projects.

HOLD REDUCTIONS DOWN
It was in his paragraphs on debt reduction and financing to obtain lower rates of interest that the under-secretary sounded his arguments which are to be used in the fight to keep tax reduction next winter within what the administration considers reasonable bounds, although Mr. Mills made no direct allusion to the fact he was sounding such arguments. In the last six fiscal years, he pointed out, the federal debt has been reduced $5,846,000,000, saving in interest $2,000,000 a year, while refinancing operations already have cut the interest on the balance of the debt by $5,000,000 a year—these operations to be extended this fall.

In the forthcoming conflict over the new revenue bill, it may be expected that strong stress will be laid on figures such as these, showing that the cost of government has been cut $260,000,000 a year through reduction in interest payments. This was accomplished not only through sinking fund operations but by application of the surplus to debt retirement automatically. Debt reduction, it will be emphasized, is really tax reduction, for otherwise the tax burden would have to be maintained higher.

CAL POINTS AT LOSSES
Speaking before the business organization of the government on the eve of his departure for the Black Hills, President Coolidge pointed out that of the treasury surplus, in the then closing year, $315,000,000 was made up of capital stock tax, back income taxes, railroad receipts and other items which are constantly decreasing and which shortly will disappear. There is some uneasiness on the part of those advocating a heavy tax cut next winter over the prospects of unusually large expenditures by congress. Flood control and relief, farm legislation, the anticipated demands of the larger navy men, all are being viewed with a degree of apprehension as to the effects of sizeably increased appropriations on the possibilities of large taxes.

MAN KILLED WHEN TRUCK IS HIT BY LOCOMOTIVE
Racine—(AP)—Ray Jones, 31, Ives Grove, was instantly killed at Milwaukee crossing of the main line of the St. Paul road, a short distance north of Sturtevant late Friday. He was driving a heavy truck loaded with road material. There was considerable damage to the front end of the passenger train locomotive which struck the heavy truck a distance of 25 feet.

HERE'S REASON WHY MOONSHINE BUSINESS IS GOOD IN MARYLAND

Benton, M. D.—(AP)—Because 18 convicted bootleggers lodged in jail here "aren't like other criminals," sheriff William H. Jackson permits them to fish in a river close by, loiter through long afternoons on its bank and play baseball in the "jail yard," an unwalled plot behind the lockup. The sheriff said he also has taken "several of the boys" for a ride at night so they could get some air.

"I believe in treating the boys fair and in return they do not cause me a bit of trouble," he said. "They are locked in their cells at night and then I let them out in the jail yard. The boys can fish in the river if they feel like it, or sometimes they play pinch or baseball, just as they feel like doing. None of them ever made an attempt to escape."

AGED MAN FINDS WAY OUT OF WOODS AFTER 3 DAYS

Ashland—(AP)—Nick Klein, 75, lost since noon Monday, found his way out of the brush near Butternut, in which he had been wandering at 5:30 Thursday afternoon.

Weakened by lack of food the aged man showed no other ill effects of his exposure of more than three days and nights. While in the woods he had made a lean-to of ferns each night, and had covered himself with ferns. Although a doctor was called immediately to aid him he refused his assistance and would not allow help even in undressing Thursday night. Posses had sought him, using bloodhounds.

DECISION UPHELD IN FOREST COUNTY CASE

Ashland—(AP)—Holding that none of the exceptions taken by W. A. Westcott, in his plea for abatement of findings of the Forest-co grand jury were prejudicial to the defendant's interests Judge G. N. Ritzdorf, who heard the plea at Cranston, in an opinion received by attorneys Friday, overruled the plea and upheld the indictments.

The Westcott case the judge said Friday was a test case and trial on all of the more than 50 indictments has been postponed until after the decision in this matter.

Westcott, the judge said, was a former municipal court judge and was indicted with more than 50 others by a grand jury called in Forest-co last spring.

Coolidge Statement Just Clever Politics, Bob Says

Madison—(AP)—The statement of President Coolidge "I do not choose to run for president in 1928," is a "clever piece of political maneuvering" in the opinion of Robert M. La Follette, senior senator from Wisconsin.

"Since the announcement has been made," Senator La Follette said "many interpretations have been placed upon his carefully selected words. The president's most intimate friends evidently think the announcement is pure political bombast. William M. Butler, ex-senator from Massachusetts and chairman of the Republican National committee, the president's closest political advisor, says that Mr. Coolidge will take the nomination if it is handed to him."

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, regarded by many as the president's favorite cabinet officer does not accept "I do not choose" as final, and wires from California that the president should be renominated and reelected.

"The great army of federal job holders, the party henchmen and the bankers, have taken their cue from Chairman Butler and the campaign is on to create a 'demand' for Coolidge which will be irresistible."

AVOIDS OPPOSITION

"The statement is also a significant indication that the president does not care to resist a frontal attack which

DELAY START OF AIR RACE ACROSS OCEAN

Doubt of Competency and Qualifications of Planes and Pilots Causes Change

Airport, Oakland, Cal.—(AP)—The start of the James Dole $35,000 prize airmail derby from here to Hawaii Friday was postponed until next Tuesday noon by agreement among 9 of the 11 entries already here.

The agreement was reached shortly after midnight, but after a day of mulled planning during which the original starting date was conditionally postponed two weeks, then declared on again, and finally set back until next Tuesday when the pilots took a hand in the matter. The starting time originally had been set for noon Friday.

Disaster having struck twice against the entries in two days, the subject of qualification and competency of pilots, navigators and planes continued to be the foremost subject in flight circles Friday.

The latest entry to be removed from the air derby is the twin motored triplane Spirit of Los Angeles, which crashed into San Francisco bay Thursday while trying to land on the starting field. Captain James L. Griffin, the pilot, Ted Lundgren, navigator and Lawrence Weill, a passenger, escaped uninjured, and were dragged out of the water by attaches at the field. The plane was wrecked.

The accident to the Spirit of Los Angeles and the deaths near San Diego, Wednesday of Lieutenant George W. D. Covell and R. S. Waggener, of the navy, while testing their monoplane, served to heighten the talk of qualifications and safety precautions. The Tuesday starting agreement was made in order to permit all signers to pass federal tests.

COMMITTEE ASKED DELAY
Postponement followed a suggestion Thursday from the Dole starting committee here to the Honolulu committee controlling race that the derby be postponed but the latter body refused to sanction the delay. The fliers would have the advantage of a full moon by getting underway at noon Friday, the Honolulu committee maintained.

While the new agreement leaves the fliers pledged to delay until Tuesday the local Dole committee neither approved or disapproved the plan however as federal inspectors must certify the name of every approved starter to the Dole committee.

he would have to meet as an avowed candidate for the nomination.

"It seems quite plain that the first advantage which has been gained is to take the president out of range of the opposition's guns. The second advantage is to take the edge off from the third term issue. By the simple device of a statement that he does not choose to be a candidate it is argued by his supporters that Mr. Coolidge is not abusing the power of his office to force his renomination and reelection in violation of the unbroken precedent that no man shall serve more than two terms as president.

"In the meantime, of course, the federal patronage machine will continue to function as before gathering in delegates who will demand Coolidge on every ballot. No further effort will be needed to get the delegates from the solid south. These delegates are bought and sold with federal patronage and the transactions are largely completed."

PROBE SHOOTING OF TWO ST. PAUL WOMEN

Seek Husbands of Slain Women; Try to Connect Mystery Deaths, Gang Wars

St. Paul—(AP)—Police Friday delved further into gang war conspiracies in an effort to solve the slayings of two sisters whose deaths brought unsolved killings here to 11 during the past 18 months.

The husbands of the two women, Mrs. Ruth Barrett, 32, and Mrs. Lillian Kooser, 35, were sought by police. Both men have police records. The women were found shot to death in the Barrett home Thursday.

Mrs. Barrett's husband, James Barrett, alias O'Brien, was engaged in an automobile finance business here. Police are investigating the possibility that he too may have been slain. His automobile was found burned on a county road near here and he has been missing since.

Kooser is charged with grand larceny in connection with a jewelry store robbery at Blue Earth, Minn. He has been at liberty on bail and is believed to be somewhere in Canada.

Police learned that one of the women was a friend of two women who were slain here five weeks ago in what was believed to have been a bootleg gang feud.

Governor Hears County Motor Cops Sell "Immunity Cards"; Orders Probe

FORT ATKINSON GIRL IS MISS WISCONSIN

Milwaukee—(AP)—A blue-eyed brown-haired girl from Fort Atkinson was designated Thursday night at Miss Wisconsin to seek national honors at the Atlantic City bathing beauty contest in September.

Miss June Hillyer, 17, is the miss who won the honors from a large field of feminine pulchritude sent by many cities of Wisconsin for the state beauty contest that was a feature of the Eagle's convention.

Miss Hillyer won the honors by a 2 to 1 vote of the judges. One vote was cast for Miss La Crosse.

The young woman is five feet seven inches tall weighs 128 pounds. She is a true bathing queen, likes swimming and spends much of her time in the water. She is fond of tennis and interested in out door sports. A graduate of high school, she has a leaning toward art. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hillyer.

Leaders Here Indorse City Advertising

Led by Mayor A. C. Rule, a large number of prominent Appleton civic and industrial leaders have given their unqualified indorsement to Appleton Community Builders and their plan to advertise the city of Appleton to its own people.

"A mighty fine thing," "Appleton people should know more about their own city," "A sure way to build up civic pride," are among the comments of men after the plan was explained to them. Everywhere there was praise for the plan and a desire to cooperate in the work.

"A most commendable civic spirit is being manifested by Appleton Community Builders who are sponsoring and financing this campaign to sell Appleton to its own people," Mayor Rule said. "It is an indication that the Community Builders themselves are thorough and on their own feet."

It is known that the plan has been determined that everyone else living here will have the opportunity of knowing better why Appleton is one of the best towns in the whole United States.

"A few years ago when a great portion of the United States was passing through a period of business depression the Fox river valley and Appleton in particular were bright spots on the economic map of the country because statistics showed that business here was more nearly normal than in any other part of the union. Now there must be a reason for this uniform and consistent prosperity and it is the purpose of the Community Builders, as I understand it, to point out these reasons. If they do nothing else than show our people why our community is able to pass through periods of general depression without feeling a pinch the work will be thoroughly justified for it will bind our people just that much closer to our city."

But it is the purpose of the Community Builders to do more than point out just the economic advantages of Appleton. We have here educational, cultural and recreational advantages which few other cities enjoy but many of us do not enjoy them to the utmost because we are unfamiliar with what is at our doorstep. The Community Builders will point these peculiar advantages out to us so we may make wider use of them.

The work which they are doing is highly commendable and is deserving the sympathy and support of every true Appletonian."

Sacco Continues Hunger Strike Despite Reprieve

Boston—(AP)—Warden William Hendry of the state prison took occasion Friday to say emphatically that Nicola Sacco, who started the twenty-seventh day of his hunger strike by refusing his breakfast, was not in a state of collapse. It was explained at the prison that so long as Sacco was able to walk the prison physician, Dr. Joseph McLaughlin, would not consider attempting forcible feeding.

Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who with Sacco is awaiting the outcome of the last legal moves by their counsel to prevent their execution now set for the early morning of Aug. 23, broke his intermittent fast after he received word of his latest reprieve. Under the physician's advice he is gradually working back toward a normal diet and this morning he had some beef tea and bread with his coffee.

The men were distinctly more cheerful as word came that their counsel had passed the last legal barrier to presentation of their contentions for a new trial to the state supreme court.

Together with Celestino Madieros who because of his identification with the case also was reprieved, the two radicals had been removed to freshly prepared cells in a part of the prison remote from the death house, known as hangman's house.

ANOTHER PARK BILL IS VETOED BY ZIMMERMAN

Bill Appropriating $300,000 for Northern Lakes Park Meets Governor's Disapproval

BULLETIN
Madison—(AP)—Governor Fred R. Zimmerman this afternoon vetoed both the Normal School appropriations bill and the board of control appropriations measure.

Madison—(AP)—Governor Fred R. Zimmerman Friday vetoed the bill passed by the legislature, which would have appropriated $300,000 for the purchase of the Northern Lakes Park. The money for purchase of the Pico-co park would have been raised through a surtax. The bill was the third for purchase of parks vetoed by Governor Zimmerman who has approved only one park bill.

"In his veto message the governor suggested, 'it would be better to have the present conservation commission locate desirable park areas so the state will then know what it is buying.'"

Senator Goodland's bill authorizing a higher indemnity for all tubercular cattle condemned as a result of a retest also was vetoed, because "it would be difficult to apply the law."

The bill "in view of the fact that two-thirds of the state has completed its area testing, would result in unfair discrimination against those areas which responded promptly to the state policy of eradicating the bovine tuberculosis," according to Gov. Zimmerman.

The bill providing a definite sum for mothers' pensions also was killed. This measure does not remove the state aid, however.

PARKS BILL DISFAVOR
Park bills have had hard going in the legislature and with the governor all but one failing by the wayside.

The Daggett bill which would have appropriated $50,000 for the purchase of the Kettle-Moraine region in southeastern Wisconsin met defeat when the two houses of the legislature were unable to agree on certain amendments. The bill had been

COOLIDGE HAS MANY OFFICIAL VISITORS

Secretary of Labor Davis and Budget Director Lord Expected Friday

Rapid City, S. D.—(AP)—The steady stream of official callers which has been coming into the Black hills this week continued again Friday with Secretary Davis of the labor department on the engagement list of President Coolidge.

Director Lord of the budget, also was expected late Friday and Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal farm loan board was another visitor on the president's list.

Secretary Davis is the third cabinet member to come here this week. Secretaries Wilbur and Work having preceded him. While he took of from his home in the Black hills this week continuing again Friday with Secretary Davis of the labor department on the engagement list of President Coolidge.

Director Lord brings with him the tentative estimate for next year's budget for submission to President Coolidge. On this budget will hinge to some extent the prospective tax reduction in sight for next year. Some consideration is also expected to be given at this conference on the prospect of relief which the federal government will extend to the Mississippi river flood sufferers.

SENATE STOPS ADJOURNMENT TO MAKE PROBE

Carroll Says He Was Assured Bill Would Be Signed if $50,000 Was Put Up

DEMAND INVESTIGATION

Senator Declares He Will Reveal Names and "Other Information" on Stand

Madison—(AP)—Startling charges revealing to the "appearance of a slush fund" were made on the floor of the state senate Friday bringing an abrupt halt to the proposed sine die adjournment.

Senator Carroll, Glidden, author of the Northern Lakes park bill which was vetoed by Governor Zimmerman early Friday said he had been "assured Thursday that if the fellows would put up $50,000 the park bill would be signed."

"I wonder what it cost to have the bill vetoed?" Senator Carroll remarked. When queried by Senator Goodland, Racine, the Glidden representative said "he did not care to mention any names unless he was placed on the witness stand" at which time he would "give the names and further interesting information."

Senator Goodland immediately demanded that an investigation be made and if the charges could be verified to punish any person who might have attempted to use or have been influenced by bribes, no matter what position he held."

The senate then recessed until 11 o'clock when they will meet, in a committee of the whole.

All thoughts of a sine die adjournment have been discarded in view of the charges.

CARROLL TELLS STORY
Immediately after the senate recessed Friday afternoon Senator Carroll under oath took the stand.

"About noon yesterday," Governor Zimmerman came out of his office," Senator Carroll said, "slapped me on the shoulder and said: 'I'm going to sign your park bill. Is there $50,000 in it for us?'"

C. C. Dorsey, close friend of the governor was the only other man there. Senator Schumann asked him if he thought the governor would sign bills on that basis.

Senator Carroll answered: "I don't know anything about that. I do know he evidently didn't get the $50,000 cause he didn't sign the bill."

Senator Carroll admitted under questioning by Senator Daggett that the governor might have been joking about it, but that he, (Carroll), took it seriously enough to tell him that there was no slush fund in the park proposition."

WORLD IS READY FOR WAR, REPORT SHOWS

400 Per Cent More in Military Training in U. S. Since 1912

Toronto, Ont.—(AP)—With the exception of France, military preparedness is generally on a larger scale throughout the world than in pre-war times, according to a "military preparedness" report presented to the World Federation of Education associations in session here. In the United States it asserts, there has been an increase of 400 per cent since 1912 in the number undergoing military training.

The report is part of the findings of committees that have been studying the plan for bringing about world peace with which Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford university, won a $25,000 prize offered by Raphael Herman of Washington, D. C.

"Military training," says the report, "confronts the youths and young men of the United States today on a scale never reached before, and it is rapidly being extended under the encouragement of the war department. It is the objective to improve the military preparedness of the United States. It is difficult to believe that there is any other reason for its inclusion in the work of the schools."

Embodied in the report is a resolution proposing that the World Federation of Education associations strive to eliminate systematic and technical military training to youths under 18 in civil educational institutions suggesting instead, physical training, sports and similar activities.

WOMEN GET IN FIGHT OVER PROPERTY LINE

Misunderstanding and dispute over the location of a property line Friday resulted in a warrant being sworn out by Mrs. Lizzy Thilly, 1531 S. Oneida-st., against her neighbor, Mrs. Mathilda Hanneman, accusing Mrs. Hanneman of using abusive language.

Mrs. Hanneman, who lives at 1525 S. Oneida-st., furnished bond of $50 to appear in municipal court August 19.

COP STOPS MOTORIST, FINDS BROTHER HE HAS NOT SEEN FOR YEARS

Webster, Mass.—(AP)—Two brothers who have not seen each other in years are reunited Friday but they haven't gotten over the shock of the strange way in which they met.

"You must think you are on a speedway or going to a fine. It's against the law to speed in this town," was the greeting given Peter Satti when he arrived here to visit his brother.

Satti explained he was on his way to see his brother. "Old stuff," commented the cop but when he asked the name of the brother being sought, found that it was his own.

TWO KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR RACINE

Fast Mail Train Leaves Track at Switch and Tears Up Road Blocking All Traffic

Racine—(AP)—The engineer and fireman of the fast south bound mail train on the St. Paul road were killed and buried under their locomotive at 5:30 o'clock Friday morning when it left the rails a short distance south of the Sturtevant station. The engine ploughed through the gravel roadbed for a considerable distance after leaving the rails and then turned over on its side and slid along until it crossed in front of a freight train on a siding, just touching the pilot of the locomotive of that train.

The killed:

L. H. Brock, Milwaukee, engineer of the mail train.

T. M. Weber, Milwaukee, fireman of the mail train.

C. M. Elliott is the conductor of the mail train and he, as well as the men in the mail cars escaped injury.

The mail train locomotive partly buried itself in the cinders and twisted rails and ties. The bodies of both men were buried under the cab and a section crew was set to digging them out from under the engine cab. Coroner Kisor ordered them removed to Racine as soon as recovered.

About 100 feet north of where the engine lay a shoe and another shoe, torn into bits, was also found.

The foot is believed to be that of one of the enginemen.

All trains are being transferred over the Northwestern road as the St. Paul line is completely blocked.

Telephone calls notifying the Post-Crescent that flowers will be available Saturday morning for collection by the Post-Crescent Flower Cars will be received at this office until about 3:15 tomorrow morning and the cars will leave on their routes a few minutes later. The flowers are to be taken to St. Elizabeth hospital and Riverview sanatorium for distribution to the patients.

As has been explained many times before, the flowers are primarily for the sick whose friends and relatives are unable to do much toward brightening their rooms. Doctor and hospital bills require so much money that often little is left to buy flowers with which to lighten the distressing hours of the bed-ridden. The Post-Crescent inaugurated the Flower Car movement to serve them.

But the Post-Crescent is unable to do this alone. Without the cooperation of its generous readers there would be no flower cars. Thus far the response to the appeal for the sick has met with splendid response and there is no reason that there will be less response from now until the flower season ends.

Those who have flowers they can give are invited to call 543 anytime before 8:15 tomorrow morning and leave their names and addresses with the telephone operator. Flower Cars will stop at their homes sometime during the morning. If the flowers are tied in bunches and lightly wrapped in paper it will facilitate handling and minimize the danger of damage in transit.

POSTPONE SEATING OF DE VALERA AND PARTY

Dublin, Ireland—(AP)—The life of the cosgrave government of the Irish Free state has been prolonged at least until next Tuesday. Postponement of the crisis expected to result from the seating of Eamon DeValera and the 44 members of his party in the Dail Eireann was seen in the announcement in the Dail Friday afternoon that a vote of confidence on motion of Tom Johnson, parliamentary labor leader would be taken Tuesday.

Counting the Fianna Fail votes, the combined opposition in the Dail will number 77, as against a possible 67 for the government.

With the impending defeat of the government and a change of ministry generally scheduled there is much talk about composition of the next cabinet. Bellet is expressed in some quarters that Mr. Johnson, prospective successor of Mr. Cosgrave, will endeavor to conciliate the business community by appointing one or more business men who are not members of the dail, to cabinet posts.

1,000 TURKISH RAILMEN STRIKE FOR MORE WAGES

Adana, Turkey—(AP)—More than 1,000 striking railway men of the Anatolian railroad tried to thwart the government's determination to run a train to Aleppo Thursday by calmly jolting on the track in front of the engine. A few revolver shots from the police however made them rise and run and the train puffed out of the station. About 1,000 railway men went on strike Wednesday for higher wages, it being the first large strike in the Turkish republic.

WHITE MAN LOST FOR FORTY YEARS FOUND LIVING AS INDIAN

Bonduel Couple Sure Oneida Man Is Their Son Who Disappeared in 1888

A Milwaukee newspaper Friday morning printed a strange story of a "pale-face Indian" who was found by his parents after they had mourned him as dead for about forty years.

The man, now 50 years old, is living on the Oneida reservation, thirteen miles from Seymour, Outagamie county. He speaks the language of his adopted people and his English is the broken English of a reservation Indian.

He is married. His wife is a Chipewewa squaw, and he has reared eight children; five of them are married women living in Milwaukee.

The boy who was lost was Gustave Famp. The white man who lives on the Oneida reservation farm has an Indian name, and his pale-face name is Orland Denny.

PARENTS IN SHAWANO CO.—The parents are living in Bonduel, Shawano co., passing the sunset of life in retirement, while a son, Elmer Famp, operates their farm at the town of Waukesha.

It is at the town of Waukesha that the story begins. Years ago, back in 1888, Mr. and Mrs. William Famp were sturdy pioneers who had penetrated the wilderness and were carving out a clearing in which they would make a farm and wrest a living from the virgin soil.

They had four small children at that time. Gustave, 10 years old, wandered into the woods, picking blueberries. At night he had not returned. That was on July 4, 1888.

At that night and for many days the family searched, and their neighbors and friendly Indians joined in the search, but nothing was found—except a small cart which Famp had made for little Gustave, and which Gustave had trailed behind him into the woods.

BELIEVED VICTIM OF WOLVES—The hunt at length was abandoned in the belief that wolves had found the boy and had eaten him.

Then, a week ago, young Indians came from the Oneida reservation to work for Ole Morgan at Morgan Siding. They saw John Famp of Morgan Siding, a brother of the boy who has been lost forty years ago, and one of the Indians greeted him in the tribal dialect.

"But you aren't Orland Denny," the Indian exclaimed, looking closer. "I thought at first that you were. You look exactly like him." The story was unfolded then. John Famp learned of the man, who is white, but who lives among the Indians as one of them, and has a farm on the reservation. Like a legend the story was told that a wandering band of Indians had found him years ago, lost in the woods, a sick, hungry, exhausted little boy, and had taken him with them to their reservation.

PARENTS VISIT RESERVATION—A day or two ago the aged parents accompanied by sons and daughters, drove to the reservation. They were struck by the family resemblance of the paleface Indian.

Bearing out this resemblance were scars on his face and hand which were strikingly reminiscent of marks borne by the boy who was lost—on his nose a scar like that little Gustave had from falling against a stove, and a partly crushed finger, like Gustave had from pounding his finger with a hammer while driving a nail.

The paleface Indian himself, in his limited English, could give little information. Besides, he had been a very sickly boy and his memory is not clear as to his early boyhood.

The family, feeling sure the man must be the lost Gustave, a making further investigations. The Indian couple who raised him are dead, but they expect to find other aged Indians on the reservation who may remember.

They expect to call soon on the reservation agent and have him arrange a meeting with these old Indians, one aged squaw in particular.

And then, to make sure, they may have a chemical analysis of blood samples of the paleface Indian and of his parents, seeking in a recently discovered scientific process to establish whether the corpses bear a similarity such as is believed to exist in the blood of parents and son.

The reservation is about twenty-five miles across country from the old homestead at Waukesha from which 10-year-old Gustave disappeared. Twenty-five miles, in those early days, was a great distance, and it was across a wilderness of marsh and woodland.

The other sons and daughters of the Famp family are Mrs. Fred Waechel, Mrs. Edward Olson, and Herman Famp of Shawano, and Robert and Frank Famp, Bonduel.

SENIOR SWIMMER ENTERS Y. M. C. A. STATE MEET

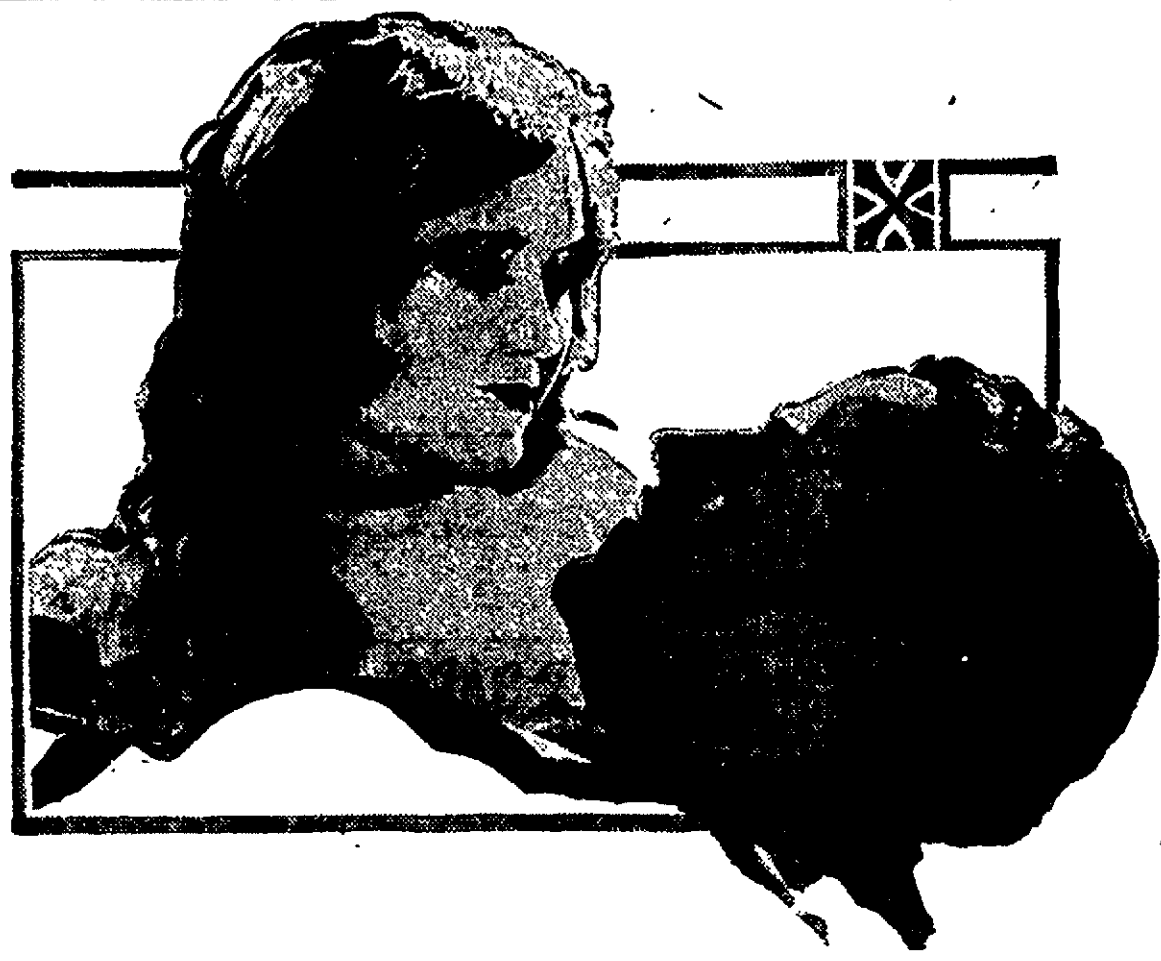

The first senior entry from Appleton in the state swimming championships sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., was received Thursday by A. P. Jensen, local physical director. The meet will be held late in August at Appleton Lake, a state association boys' camp. Two new junior swimmers were added to the Appleton list, bringing the present total of local entrants to five.

The senior swimmer is George Hiechler, who will compete in the 100 yard free style, 50-yard back stroke and fancy diving. The new juniors are George Baldwin in the 40 and 100 yard free styles and Mark Catlin, Jr., in the 100-yard free style and fancy diving. Previous entrants were Earl Gainer and James Neller, both juniors. At least one more senior and two more juniors expect to enter from Appleton, but they have not completed their registration, Mr. Jensen said.

All Around Wisconsin

The old historic Dousman hotel at Prairie du Chien was put under the hammer Thursday afternoon and $1000 was all that was bid. Only two bidders were present, L. Cornelius and Mike Doran, and Mr. Cornelius made the high bid.

E. C. Amann, cashier of the Crawford County bank, as administrator of the estate of the late Joseph Zimmerman, offered the hotel for sale to close up the estate.

The Dousman hotel, containing 50 rooms was built in 1860 on the Milwaukee road right of way at a cost of $40,000. The sale is subject to confirmation by the county judge.

In order to retain E. R. Burgess as judge of the municipal and juvenile courts at Racine, and to prevent his acceptance as full time city attorney here, members of the county board are proposing to increase his salary from $4,500 to $6,000 a year, effective Jan. 1, 1928.

The plan to increase the salary was proposed at a meeting of the county board Wednesday.

TEAR GAS BULLETS AND GRENADES ADDED TO POLICE EQUIPMENT

Enforcement Officers in Better Position to Quell Unruly Prisoners

Tear gas bullets and hand grenades were added Thursday to the equipment of the Appleton police department. George T. Prim, chief of police, announced. The bullets are of .38 calibre and fit the bore of revolvers carried by officers and patrolmen.

"This tear gas equipment is utterly harmless as far as lasting effects are concerned, but will totally incapacitate either man or beast for a few minutes," Chief Prim declared.

"When a gas cartridge is fired it drives a man or group in the vicinity of use of the eyes by causing excessive functioning of the tear ducts, filling the eyes to such an extent that it is impossible to see through them. At the same time, the gas induces a choking sensation which makes effective resistance police impossible."

"Gas cartridges will be particularly effective where a dog becomes vicious or mad, in a home or other building. Instead of being compelled to shoot the brute in the dwelling, causing damage by bleeding, an officer may fire a gas cartridge and carry the animal outside to kill him. Except at very close range, when powder may burn the person hit, these bullets can do no permanent damage."

The grenades are intended for use in large gatherings where disturbances occur. The gas is released by means of a piston which is held in place by a pin before the grenade is used. When needed the pin is removed and the piston pushed into the grenade, causing the gas to issue from the receptacle. Four seconds elapse before it becomes effective, allowing the officer time to hurl the grenade and get away.

A small amount of gas powder also is in possession of the police to be used in case of disturbances in the jail cells. The demonstrator and salesman illustrated its use by dipping into it the lit end of a cigarette and depositing the cigarette in a cell which rapidly was filled with the gas. He also discharged a cartridge in the rear of the cell room and defied three members of the force to walk to the opposite end of the room. They returned after having covered about half the distance.

Sheriff Otto Zuchke also has ordered a supply of cartridges and grenades for use of county officers, subject, however, to the approval of the county clerk. Both sheriff and police authorities agree that the tear gas ammunition is a mighty fine thing for the officials, but mighty bad for law-breakers.

MAKE ANOTHER TRAFFIC COUNT HERE ON SUNDAY

Employees of the county highway commission will take a census of traffic at four places in Outagamie co on Sunday. The traffic count will be taken at the junction of highways 47 and 55 north of Black Creek; on U. S. highway 41 at Little Chute; junction of highways 54 and 76 at Shiocton; and on highway 26 at Hortonville.

Those supporting the increase pointed out that it would be only a gentleman's agreement at this time, and at the November meeting the increase in salary would be voted, as it was feared that the judge would accept the position of city attorney before November unless his salary as judge is increased.

John Mallo, 51, Rice Lake, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to one year at the Milwaukee house of correction for selling moonshine by Judge H. S. Crompton in county court at Rice Lake. Because of Mallo's age, part of the prison sentence will be commuted to probation.

For the first time in the history of the upper Mississippi, the war department and the conservation department of the federal government will hold a joint hearing at Prairie du Chien Saturday.

The war department has heretofore held to the undisputed control of the Mississippi river, though the conservation department has made many pleas for recognition of wild life in the Wisconsin.

The principal activities of the last 20 years have been to concentrate all possible water to a single, narrow, deep channel for the benefit of navigation entirely, and all pleas to preserve the spawning grounds for the many varieties of game fish that propagate here and wild fowl that nest in this region have been largely ignored.

The Marinette fire department joined with the Peshtigo department today in fighting a fire at the Peshtigo Paper company plant at Peshtigo. Combined efforts of the two departments kept the blaze from spreading beyond the third floor. Damage, however, was estimated at $25,000. The plant will not shut down, officials announced.

MOTORCOPS EQUIP CYCLES WITH sirens TO CLEAR HIGHWAYS

Motorists, Take care! If you hear a wail like the cry of a lost soul, as you drive peacefully along an Outagamie co road, collect your scattered thoughts and drive over to the right side of the road as quickly as you can.

For that wail will mean that a county motorcycle officer is coming up behind you and coming fast, and that he wants to get by. Motorcycle officers Friday equipped their vehicles with shiny new, middle-plated electric sirens which will be used in place of horns to warn motorists to clear the roads and let them by. The sirens are furnished by the county highway commission.

Ervin Hoffman to Take Over Building Occupied by Aaron Furniture Store

Purchase of the Aaron Furniture store building and real estate at 421 W. College-ave by Ervin Hoffman, proprietor of the Puritan bakery, 428 W. College-ave, was announced Thursday by Mr. Hoffman. The amount involved in the transfer was not made public.

While Mr. Hoffman has not announced his plans definitely, he indicated that he may build an addition to the bakery, doubling the size of his present establishment. Each of the two lots is 24 by 124 feet in size. The improvement will cost between $20,000 and $40,000, he estimated, stating, however, that it is not certain that the addition will be erected in the near future.

Definite decision regarding the proposed addition probably will be announced within the next thirty days, Mr. Hoffman said. If the improvement is made the entire building will be used as a bakery and new equipment will be added, making possible a large extension of the wholesale and retail business of the establishment.

THIRTY-NINE YEARS of tube-building experience has proved to Dunlop that "cheap tubes" do not pay.

That is why Dunlop tubes are made casing shaped. It costs a little more than to build them on a straight pole, as cheap tubes are built.

But a casing-shaped Dunlop tube is strong everywhere. The outside edge is not weakened by excess stretch. The side next to the rim has no wrinkles to crack with age and blow out. A Dunlop tube protects your casing, because it fits. And your casing is worth ten times the cost of the tube.

We strongly recommend a Dunlop tube for every casing

Doubtful Salvage

OH, to be sure, they can be straightened out—after a fashion. And for all their kinks and weaknesses, maybe they'd still pass under the name of nails.

But—would you trust your house to be built by a contractor employing such "economies"?

Trick refining processes, offered as smart evidence of progress, try to batter the scrub ends and scraggly dregs of crude oil into what can possibly be called gasoline. But it's dull, weakened stuff—no more suited to satisfactory driving than dubiously salvaged nails.

It is fuels produced by such methods that have put into business the hundreds of fly-by-nights, irresponsible and unknowns who seem to be making the gas business so "active." With gaudy pumps and price signs beckoning you at every corner, it's easy to create the impression that gasoline should be a casual, indifferent purchase, picked up wherever it seems nearest or handiest to drive in.

Wadhams 370

—the Year-Round Gasoline

bids for your business from a different basis. It starts with a fundamental feeling of responsibility extending far beyond the passing fill of your tank or today's clink of the cash register.

Because it wants your business tomorrow, it believes that this can only be earned by the delivery of the utmost in mileage, power, speed and acceleration today, and in protecting your motor from the certain damage of kerosenish fuel salvaged from kerosenish materials.

No crooked nail economies no trick processes of straightening can enter such a program. 370 is the clear quill—true gasoline and shows it in every mile you drive.

Today, every Wadhams advantage which has always commanded a premium price over ordinary gasoline comes to you without a penny's added cost. With price limited and quality unchanged, not a reason can remain for denying your motor its KNOWN superiority.

Shrewd Savers Seek Safety and 6% in Our Shares

Over 5,000 thrifty, careful men and women of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan have bought nearly three and a half million dollars worth of Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company's 6% cumulative preferred shares, at par for cash, this year.

They are getting safety for their money, with dependable cash income every three months at the rate of six per cent yearly. Most of them are savings investors. They want a business rate of income from their savings. They can't afford to speculate. They must have an investment that can be readily turned into cash in case of need, without loss. These shares meet all three of these conditions.

A good many larger investors have put substantial sums into these shares, to get a PERMANENT safe six per cent income. They think it unlikely the Company will ever call these shares for redemption at the agreed call price, $110 a share.

The remainder of the $5,000,000 issue, authorized by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission to pay for State-approved additions to the Company's income-producing public service property, will find buyers here at home within the next three or four months.

Milwaukee Electric is Wisconsin's largest public utility. It is one of the most solidly prosperous utilities in the United States. It has paid its preferred share dividends every three months for twenty-eight years. During the year ended June 30, 1927, it earned $1,020,345.32 for its preferred shareholders, nearly all residents of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. On September 1, 1927, it will mail close to 15,000 dividend checks, for more than 18,000 individual and joint owners of its preferred shares. We recommend the shares as a thoroughly safe investment for your savings or your idle money.

The shares cost $100 each, payable all cash or $10 down and $10 monthly per share. Buying either way you get 6% on every dollar invested from the day you buy them. You can buy shares at Securities Department, Public Service Building, Milwaukee; at Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company offices in Racine, Kenosha, Waukesha, Watertown, Burlington, Whitewater, South Milwaukee and Cudahy; at Wisconsin Michigan Power Company offices in Appleton and Neenah-Menasha, Wisconsin, and Iron Mountain, Michigan; at Badger Public Service Company's office in Plymouth. Visit, write or telephone our nearest office for full details of this investment. Mail orders are filled promptly by registered letter. Address:

Roger Kahn, Millionaire's Son, Ready To Quit Orchestra And Become Flier

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
New York—Roger Wolfe Kahn goes on the air every day now, usually from nine to four.

Not with his jazz band, but in plane No. 3020, which he is using until the completion of the Bellanca monoplane he has ordered.

This young son of the millionaire Otto H. Kahn has repeatedly refused to feed from the silver spoon that was his heritage and he's now winning his father, famous financier and patron of the arts, to aeronautics, just as he did to night clubs and jazz.

"Father won't fly with me. I doubt if he ever will," the 19-year-old boy confided. "But he is becoming reconciled to my flying. He's really splendid. He usually comes around to my point of view—eventually."

Young Roger is accustomed to winning over his father, for he has had much of it to do the last three years. They begin by disagreeing on about everything that comes along and end up doing it Roger's way.

First there was the matter of education. At 16, Roger decided to play the saxophone rather than go to college. He did.

CLASSICS AND JAZZ
His father is a pillar in the Metropolitan opera organization, interested purely in the classical type of music, but Roger came out strong for jazz.

"Father has never interested me in opera and he never will," he insists.

Roger organized his own jazz band, much to everyone's amazement, for he is only 19 and looked even younger. But the band could jazz and Roger could direct it. Today he has about eight bands playing in his name at different hotels in the leading cities.

Then there was the night club venture that caused considerable dissension in the Kahn home. Roger wanted to open a night club. His father disapproved. Roger opened Le Perroquet de Paris with a five-dollar cover charge. And he made it the smart place to go in spite of opposition from home and from the organized Broadway element who didn't care to have him crash into that particular game.

HAD NIGHT CLUB
Roger conducted his club a year, demonstrated that he couldn't be frozen out, then sold it to concentrate on his bands and his composing.

Then there was that little matter of fast driving. Roger likes to drive a good fast car at a 90 or 100-mile clip. His father pleaded for less speed. Finally, he provided a track on his own estate so that Roger could race at home rather than on the public highway.

"Aiplaning hasn't spoiled my taste for auto racing," Roger said. "Although it is possible to go much faster and of course there is less competition. My interest in aviation is purely that of sport. I'm interested in it as I am in golf or polo. But music will always be the real interest of my life, particularly composition."

MUSIC LED TO AIR
It was music that led Roger to aviation. He went over to Europe to study and compose his symphony and became interested in traveling by air. So he spent most of his time aloft rather than with musical instruments. Then came the Lindbergh triumphs and Roger felt the call. He hurried home, hired an instructor and can now hop off and pilot his plane with remarkable skill.

The second time he went up alone he flew over his father's Long Island estate so the family could share his thrill. Then he dipped over Broadway to get a new slant on his office. Now he is planning to enter the New York-to-Seattle flight for a $10,000 prize.

Though his family have spurned his invitations to fly, the members of his orchestra accept them with alacrity.

"I'm taking my trombone player up today," he concluded, adding his societies and climbing in behind the controls. "He doesn't have to do it, but he's crazy to go. It's a great life—it beats night life and night clubs."

BOOM FOR HOOVER BOUND TO STRIKE SEVERAL "SNAGS"

Flood Relief Director Has Made Many Enemies in Republican Ranks

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—The Hoover presidential boom is likely to strike a snag in waters which will be comparatively smooth sailing for Vice President Dawes.

On the other hand, the Dawes craft can make good headway on any stream that the Hoover boat can navigate.

In selecting a presidential candidate, the enemies a man has incurred are taken into serious consideration. If a man can be found who has no enemies worth speaking of, he has an edge on the next fellow. A glance at presidential candidates for the last 20 years will confirm that as a general statement.

Thus when two men stand head and shoulders above the other candidates, as do Hoover and Dawes, the man who has the least opposition within the party seems likely to win. And it's a fact that while some important political elements which would stand for Dawes would put up a real fight against Hoover, the elements in the Hoover strength would have little trouble in accepting Dawes.

DAWES BETTER BET
That is one of the principal reasons why, in this writing, Dawes seems the better bet.

The important anti-Hoover sentiment will be found among farmers, senators and other politicians. Among these classes of influence Dawes has been busy building up his fences. He is the strongest candidate who will appeal to all three, although any one of them might prefer someone else.

Hoover's great strength lies with the business and financial interests. He has had the aid of a matchless publicity machine and for a long time has appealed to the imagination of the ordinary man.

But is Dawes found wanting in those respects? Not at all. He is a banker himself and is tied up with big business in various ways. He has been his own publicity machine, but he is certainly as widely known as Hoover and he too has captured the imagination of the average citizen.

BOTH AFTER AVERAGE JOB
The two men are both believed to be extremely ambitious for the presidency.

With the foreign situation as it is, America's international bankers will be quite solicitous about the next president. It is predicted that the Morgan interests, for instance, will support Hoover.

But the Mellon interests and perhaps, generally speaking, the domestic financial interests are likely to line up for Dawes. Dawes is one of their own. And these interests are probably much more potent politically than the others.

Dawes seems almost to have been a Mellon protégé. Mellon had made him director of the budget and without his approval Dawes could hardly have been selected to head the experts commission which framed the Dawes plan. Then, when it came to picking a vice-presidential campaign in 1924 after Coolidge had made rather a mess of it, the Mellon crowd, headed by Secretary Dave Reed, put Dawes over.

BIG FIELD OF STARS IN WOMANS GOLF TOURNEY

Lake Geneva—(AP)—Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wisconsin's women's golf champion and Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, 1926 Badger champion, will arrive here this weekend to uphold the prestige of their state at the Women's Western tournament.

Miss Page, incidentally will have her own prestige at stake, having won the western crown last year as well as the state championship at Milwaukee in July.

The Madison girl and Jack Burgess, Lake Geneva country club professional, are slated to play Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Lake Geneva and Laurie Ayton, Evanson Country club "pro" in an exhibition match Sunday at the Hillmore Country club.

Opposing Miss Page will be one of the greatest fields ever to compete in the women's western. Virginia Van Wie, Chicago's youthful prodigy; Mrs. Lee Mida, Mrs. O. S. Hill, semi-finalist in the 1926 tourney, who has been playing great golf over her home course in Kansas City; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Olympic Fids, Chicago; Marie Taylor, New Orleans; Mrs. M. Burns-Horn, Chicago; Mrs. Dave Gaut, Memphis; Edith Cummings, Chicago.

Against the protest of Chairman William M. Butler.

WITH "OLD GUARD"

While using his office as president of the Senate to make himself popular with the bankers and farmers, Dawes has also achieved a "stand-in" with the Senate's Old Guard. One need not be surprised if such regulars as Senators Curtis, Watson, Reed, Smoot and Moses begin to declare for Dawes before very long. Another possibility is that Pennsylvania Republicans will send a Mellon delegate to the convention which will be delivered to Dawes.

Against the tactics of the seasoned Old Guard, the inexperienced Hoover captains are likely to run into trouble. Some of the strongest elements of changed to include the purchase of tracts along Lake Michigan and the appropriation had been boosted to $200,000.

Senator Casperson's Seven Pines park bill calling for a $200,000 appropriation for the purchase of the park of that name was vetoed by Governor Zimmerman early this week. This park, which is really an estate with large buildings, a swimming pool and other expensive equipment, was vetoed by the governor because of the "added expense of maintenance which would be necessary to preserve the beauty of the estate."

The senate has already refused to override the governor's veto.

SIGNS SMALL BILL
Governor Zimmerman, to date, has signed the smallest of the park bills. This is the measure which appropriates at $17,000 for the acquisition of the Copper Falls park near Mellon, Wis. This bill was introduced by Assemblyman Gehrmann, Ashland.

The legislature, however, did appropriate $250,000 for the reflooding of Horicon Marsh to be made into a state wild life refuge. The governor has signed this bill. The only other major conservation bill which became a law was that abolishing the present system of conservation. In its place Governor Zimmerman has appointed a six-man commission which met this week for the first time and organized the new state conservation program.

It is a common thought that Dawes will be the residuary legatee for the Lowden delegates at the convention—that Lowden and Dawes, good friends, may come to some sort of agreement before the convention. On the surface, it does not appear that any similar arrangement is likely to help the Hoover bloc in 1928.

DRIVERS TESTED ON REACTION TO "STOP" SIGNALS

Good Driver Will React to Danger and Step on Brake
in Half Second

Washington—What is your reaction time? In other words, how long does it take you to think about stopping before you begin to apply the brakes of your car? Science is trying to find out.

Your reaction time and that of the other driver may mean the difference between saying it with flowers and continuing the trip—between life and death.

Recently Uncle Sam's Bureau of Standards, where scientists make it their business to get the answers to queer but important questions, equipped a car with two revolvers attached to the running board. The firing of the guns told just how long it takes most people to begin to think about stopping.

MEASURE DISTANCE. By a unique method one revolver is discharged to signal the driver that he must stop the car as soon as possible. This shot leaves a mark on the highway as the car speeds along. The second revolver is connected with the brakes. As soon as the driver applies the brakes, it is shot off automatically. It too, leaves a red mark on the pavement.

Next the scientists measure the distance between these two marks. As they know the exact speed at which the car is traveling, they can readily figure in seconds how long it took the driver to stop his automobile.

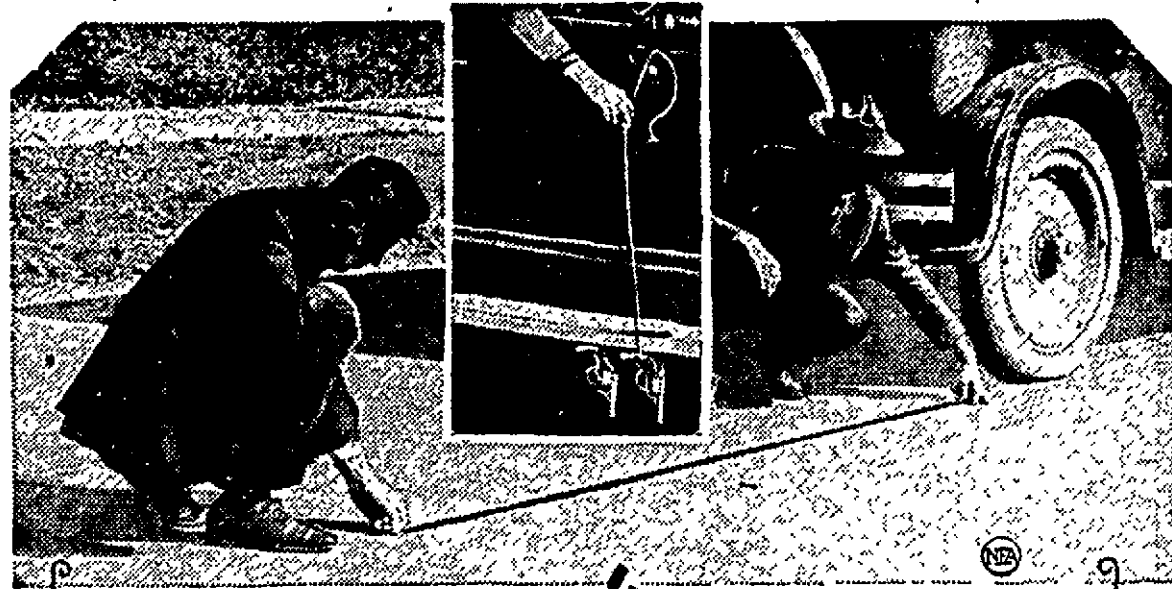

So accurate were these tests that an ordinary speedometer would not do. It was necessary to install an instrument that would be very accurate at all times.

Some fifty college and high-school students took the test. There were also a dozen expert, "fast" drivers as well as 50 soldiers and 12 officers of the Motor Transport Corps of the United States.

All drivers were tested and examined at five speeds. They were warned: HALF SECOND TO STOP. "Remember that you are to lift your foot from the accelerator and put it on the brake the moment the first shot goes off and you are to act in every way the same as though a failure to stop would bring about a serious accident."

It was discovered that it took the drivers, on the average, one-half second to hear the shot, change their

GAME BOARD PROMISES TO SAVE MARSH AT HORICON

Madison—(P)—The new six-man state conservation commission meeting here Thursday and Friday adopted a resolution late Thursday insuring the protection of the people in the case of Horicon Marsh.

foot from the accelerator to the brake and press down.

This reaction time meant, the scientists found out, that if the machine was traveling at 30 miles an hour it would take approximately 100 feet to bring the car to a complete stop.

Some of the driver, tested had reaction times as low as thirty-one hundredths of a second and others as high as 1.02 seconds. The average education and training of the drivers indicated that their intelligence was high, which would seem to indicate that many people in this country who operate automobiles would have reaction times of from 1.5 to 2 seconds.

These tests are of double value. They have provided our motor traffic engineers with reliable information. They are also the first standards which are being gathered for establishing rigid tests for the drivers of the future.

INVITE GOVERNOR AND LAWMAKERS TO HORICON

Horicon—(P)—Governor Zimmerman and members of the legislature have been invited to attend Horicon's community celebration to be held August 28.

The event will be in the nature of a harvest festival, held at the City Hall, and every civic organization has pledged its aid in making the celebration a success.

This community effort is being made as a "thank you" to the city fathers of Horicon who advanced money that made possible the construction of a large dance pavilion.

The event has a double purpose in that appreciation also will be extended

$10,000 LOSS WHEN LARGE BARN BURNS

75 Tons Hay, 13 Pigs, Silo,
Farm Machinery on E. R.
Bowerman Farm Destroyed

A large barn and silo on the farm of E. R. Bowerman and son, Shiocton, route 1, about a half mile west of the village of Leeman, were destroyed by fire early Friday morning. Origin of the fire is unknown. The loss which included between 75 and 80 tons of hay, 13 pigs, silo filler, disc, scale, corn planter and considerable other farm machinery, is estimated at $10,000. It is partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Bowerman awoke about 3 o'clock Friday morning and saw the blaze in the basement of the barn. It had already gained considerable headway. Neighbors were summoned and formed a bucket brigade which saved the farm house and grain shed. Two yearling heifers and a calf were the only animals saved from the barn.

The barn one of the largest in the region, was 36 feet wide and 72 feet long. The silo was 12 feet in diameter and 32 feet high.

PUBLIC APPROVES RESPITE

There will be general approval of the eleventh hour respite granted to Sacco and Vanzetti by Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, in conjunction with the state council. Their execution is to be delayed twelve days, in the language of the governor, "to afford the courts an opportunity to complete the consideration of the proceedings now pending and render their decision." The governor calls attention to the fact that the courts themselves have no power to grant a reprieve. The legal proceedings to which he refers include application to Judge Sanderson of the supreme court to grant writs of error and habeas corpus, on the refusal of the trial judge and himself to reopen the case. Defense counsel then asked for permission to carry a bill of exceptions to the full bench of the supreme court. Judge Sanderson announced he would rule on this application Thursday morning, but after the execution was scheduled to take place. This virtually compelled the governor and the state council to delay the execution. Judge Sanderson has now decided that an appeal from his ruling may be carried to the full bench of the supreme court. It is understood the court will be assembled early next week.

This will be the end of legal moves by defense counsel. Neither the federal courts nor the supreme court of the United States will interfere. Justice Holmes has made this fact clear in a formal statement denying a writ of habeas corpus, while Judge Anderson of the federal judiciary reached a like conclusion in denying the same writ. In anticipating a decision of the Massachusetts supreme court we must bear in mind that one member of the court is already convinced that a writ of error and with it a new trial should not be granted. The lawyers for Sacco and Vanzetti, therefore, have no easy task before them to convince the court as a whole that their application is meritorious. Should these proceedings fail the chances are the condemned murderers will be executed. Governor Fuller has shown no disposition to recommend to the state council commutation of sentence, so that this last avenue of escape is not much to be relied upon.

It is to be hoped the Massachusetts supreme court will find ground on which to grant a new trial. While the presumption must be that Sacco and Vanzetti were fairly tried and fairly convicted, still the charges of prejudice against the trial judge are substantial and seem to be generally accepted as valid. To what extent his attitude might have jeopardized the constitutional rights of the defendants no one can say, but if there is any doubt on the subject, it should be resolved in their favor. It is to be feared the supreme court may take too technical a view of its powers and duties, and may refuse to let human factors enter. We still think that even if the supreme court rules adversely Governor Fuller would be justified in commuting the sentences to life imprisonment and that clemency would not do violence to law and justice in Massachusetts. It is better that a hundred guilty should escape than that one innocent man should be punished, and the supreme penalty is irrevocable.

Whether the investigators realize it or not, the anarchist and communist demonstrations have done much to prejudice the efforts to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti. Public sentiment throughout the United States is strongly hostile to mob violence and will not submit to intimidation by radicals. If anything, their activities will quicken the demand that they be expelled from the United States so that Americans may be subjected to a minimum of annoyance at their hands.

A THIRD HOUSE?

A "House of Governors" composed of the chief executives of all the states, organized to uphold state's rights and to "play a powerful part in the non-partisan political life of the country," has been advocated by Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland to a meeting of delegates to the annual governors' conference. An organization "on a stronger and more comprehensive basis than the yearly association meeting, with a competent secretary and trained assistants and adequate facilities" is pictured as an ideal outcome of the annual conferences held by the governors.

Strong and effective state action rather than remote and uniform federal action is desired, Governor Ritchie believes. And he believes that the proposed house of governors, or a league of states, as he terms it, "could so function as to uphold state's rights and could become in effect almost the third house of the republic."

The governor is more than a little right. Half of the issues that now eventuate in federal legislation and federal bureaus could and should be handled by the states and there is at present no effective medium by which or through which the demands for progressive state action can make themselves felt. Just because so many contracts and conflicts are interstate is no good reason why the states should not work them out if they had some organ of expression or direction.

It may be that such an organization as that proposed by Governor Ritchie would have no legal standing; that ways and means of meeting expenses would have to be thought out; that it might only be able to advise and not to administer—yet it could be made a valuable organization and would be able to accomplish a real good for the country.

DOWN WITH LAP DOGS

Recently the annual convention of the National Costumers' Association was held in Kansas City, and Kansas City therefore became the temporary style headquarters of the country.

From this august body, in convention assembled, came alarming news. The news pertained to the next fad of fashion which it is said American women will indulge in.

As the convention bulletin describes it, this new fad will decree that every woman seeking to be in style will procure and carry about with her a doll whose features are to be modeled after the features of the woman herself. This doll shall have a wig, furthermore, imitating the coiffure of its mistress, and on all occasions this doll shall wear clothes of the same cut and pattern as the lady herself. Lap dogs and lap cats and lap monkeys and lap raccoons will all be dispensed with, and the doll double will come in.

This is interesting, but rather awful to contemplate, especially from the point of view of the gentleman who will foot the bills, for it will practically double the overhead on feminine upkeep. A new tea gown for the lady of the house will mean a new tea gown for the doll. A new diamond pretty or a new pearl necklace birthday present for the better-half will mean ditto for dolly.

Such prognostications as these make it look like a hard winter ahead for indulgent husbands and butter and egg men.

It is a good thing for the fashion dictators to rally now and then in other spots than New York, and the trek of the costumers to Kansas City was good for the country, beyond a doubt. It is rather surprising, though, that in practical Kansas City such fol-de-rol could be concocted.

What the country as a whole would like to see would be a style conclave in Cheyenne, Wyoming, which could assimilate horse sense and hand down a decree making it fashionable for women of leisure to have children.

HOW TO BE HAPPY WITH IVY POISONING

"Twice in a cottage small by a waterfall and all that sort of thing that I discovered ivy poisoning at about a few hours, and only a few cases required a second injection 24 hours later. This was more, but on general principles, too. But any doctor who can even bring distinct relief to the maddening, intolerable itching of ivy dermatitis within 24 hours by a simple hypodermic injection of a wee pinch of ivy poison is a mighty good doctor and we still have room, unlimited room, in the profession for such as he.

Naturally, it was right after my ultimate and for a time despondent recovery that some doctor introduced the method of treating ivy poisoning with hypodermic injections of a small dose of ivy poison. Of course this is strictly homeopathic—and if the method is half as effective as its sponsor declared it to be, I'm ready to take off my hat to the homeopathic physician who worked it out. Mind, I am NOT taking my hat off to any pathy or ism for one reason, because I don't wear any hat more, but on general principles, too. But any doctor who can even bring distinct relief to the maddening, intolerable itching of ivy dermatitis within 24 hours by a simple hypodermic injection of a wee pinch of ivy poison is a mighty good doctor and we still have room, unlimited room, in the profession for such as he.

Most of us have grown up in the belief that Napoleon at St. Helena got what was coming to him. He was a dangerous man who had to be banished to a barren island two thousand miles out into the Atlantic. There is no mistake about his being dangerous; the return from Elba proved that. And so many men, women and children, millions of them, died in the wars that Napoleon instigated that a hostile critic might say that the world was a better place for his removal. G. Wells for instance, can plausibly argue that exile was too good for him and that no harshness could be too severe.

But on the other hand, it is not fair to charge him with these deaths; he was a part of them, a part of the whole situation. Europe was in a state of anarchy and he was a man who had the ability to bring order out of chaos. He was a man who had the ability to bring order out of chaos. He was a man who had the ability to bring order out of chaos.

A NEW PICTURE OF AN OLD SCENE

It is quite safe to say that nine out of ten American and English readers will get an entirely new picture of the exile and death of Napoleon at St. Helena from reading Emil Ludwig's recent biography, "Napoleon." From an attitude of almost total ignorance they will, for the time being at least, weep round to something like sympathy.

Most of us have grown up in the belief that Napoleon at St. Helena got what was coming to him. He was a dangerous man who had to be banished to a barren island two thousand miles out into the Atlantic. There is no mistake about his being dangerous; the return from Elba proved that. ## everything he could to make life unpleasant for the distinguished exile. Before his death, six years after his exile, he had a host of admirers. A postmortem because it was his contention that the climate had shortened his life. A Corsican doctor did the work, supported by two English physicians. The Corsican held up the ivy in plain view and that his finger through the perforations. A vote was taken and as is usually the case in such things, the vote was thoroughly partisan. The English doctors voted that the climate had had no effect and the others that it had killed him. Nothing is proved either one way or the other.

The charge of persecution on the part of the English is given some color by the fact that Napoleon, after the battle of Waterloo had several days in which to escape. His friends actually urged him to go to America. It is not impossible that he could have done so. But he gave himself up to an English sea captain, Ludwig claims that the captain promised him he would be allowed to live in England. The English government looked upon him as an international criminal and treated him accordingly. Napoleon claimed to the end of his life that the whole procedure was illegal.

The fact that the story is written by a German, high minded though he may be, must be kept in mind. It is a most moving conclusion of a great epic that was lived out in real life, one of the greatest real-life epics in the world's history.

The story of Napoleon at St. Helena has always been written for most of us by Englishmen, hence by hostile critics to the main. In this book it is told by a German. While it might be expected that a German, so soon after the World War, would be hostile to a Ludwig repeatedly insists on the fact that Napoleon was an Italian. And so far as the story of the exile at St. Helena goes, the author is much more animated by hostility to the English than to the French. He is in the main a great writer who does not allow his national prejudices to obtrude themselves but his initial point of view is very probably affected by his nationality and by the tale of the German and the Englishmen.

His thesis is, or at least this is implied, that the English deliberately wished to kill off Napoleon without taking the responsibility for executing him. Not only did they exile him to an island with an unhealthy climate, according to Ludwig, but they placed him on the most unhealthy quarters made of stables converted into a home. The governor of the island, presumably under inspiration from the government in England, did everything he could to make life unpleasant for the distinguished exile. Before his death, six years after his exile, he had a host of admirers. A postmortem because it was his contention that the climate had shortened his life. A Corsican doctor did the work, supported by two English physicians. The Corsican held up the ivy in plain view and that his finger through the perforations. A vote was taken and as is usually the case in such things, the vote was thoroughly partisan. The English doctors voted that the climate had had no effect and the others that it had killed him. Nothing is proved either one way or the other.

The charge of persecution on the part of the English is given some color by the fact that Napoleon, after the battle of Waterloo had several days in which to escape. His friends actually urged him to go to America. It is not impossible that he could have done so. But he gave himself up to an English sea captain, Ludwig claims that the captain promised him he would be allowed to live in England. ## See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Just about a year ago Willard Mack, who writes plays and puts the mon Broadway, did a sort of Haroun-el-Rashid. That is to say he went out among his people of the "main stem," looking them over—but particularly he wanted a certain type of young woman for a night club scene in "The Noose." So he went from place to place, and finally he saw one Ruby Stevens.

Now Ruby hadn't kidded herself a bit about the "great art" or about playing Ophelia some day. She had taken a job in the musical show and when she didn't connect with the reviews she danced in the night clubs. Mack started out by just wanting her to sit around among others in a stage car—but—

When his play opened on Broadway began to ask about a spectacular young actress by name of Barbara Stanwyck. No one had ever heard of her before and reviewers began to run through their "who's who."

The other day I noticed that Arthur Hopkins, who is one of the most discriminating and artistic of Broadway's four hundred, had signed up this Barbara Stanwyck for his next season's production, "Burlesque," and she'll play the lead.

As you may have guessed, Barbara and Ruby are one and the same. But for the accident of circumstances, Ruby would still be twinking her toes in the cabaret and Barbara would never have been born. And that's one reason why the old street will have its lure for lovely ladies. For many a year after these old hands have ceased to write.

As we've said before, Tin Pan Alley passes nothing up. Now it's a "comedy song," titled "Since Henry Ford Apologized to Me." Billy Rose, who grinds them out by the yard, takes the time.

Speaking of things to blame on people—there has been considerable chatter lately on the question of who invented the Charleston. That craze of yesteryear is now sufficiently aged to demand a historian. The Broadway-wise N.T.G., who announces radio programs and things, claims to have proof that the originator was one Lida Webb; and while the Charleston is now passe even with streeturchins it was undoubtedly the most popular rage of recent years.

As for Lida—well, she just goes dancing. So long ago I saw her, still at the Cotton Club, out in Harlem. And when I write her name down here no one will recall having heard it before, and, having heard it, few will remember it a week hence.

Of such flimsy stuff are the vogues of a season!

Q. Who said "To love her is a lib-eral education"? E. E. H.

A. In the 4th number of "The Father" Richard Steele says of Lady Elizabeth Hastings "To love her is a liberal education."

Q. How are the names Nungesser and Col pronounced? R. E.

A. As nearly as the French pronunciation may be indicated they are—noon-zess-sair and ko lo (a) in doll—i as in lead.

Q. How does the mileage of the railroads in this country compare with countries abroad? F. R.

A. The Traffic Manager, of the Pennsylvania Railroad says that our railroad mileage—over 250,000 miles—would more than girdle the earth ten times. It is greater than the total mileage of all the railways of England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Belgium, Switzerland, Argentina, Japan, Australia, and South Africa. The balance still remaining is more than twice that of China.

Q. Can exclusive rights in the title of a periodical publication be enforced in the courts? C. A. B.

A. The courts have held that the title of a publication may become a trade-mark. The United States Patent Office has granted trademark registration of such titles in a considerable number of instances. The courts grant protection in connection with trade-marks of this kind, just as in the case of trade-marks in general.

Q. Was Patrick Henry a Roman Catholic? C. R.

A. He was a member of the Church of England.

FRIENDS ALWAYS GIVE PRAISE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THEY say that love makes the world go round. There should be a collar and tie to the theorem. Praise helps some too.

It is all very well to say that a person's truest friend is the one who tells him his faults. I never believed it and I never will believe it. My true friends, the ones I like the best, trust and love, are not the ones who are stingy with praise. Quite the opposite. My best loved friends are the ones who make me feel like a million dollars when I am with them.

An artist paints a picture. He invites two friends to view it—separately. The first looks at it casually, decides it is bad and says so. Not in so many words, perhaps, but in a way that allows no mistake as to his verdict. At any rate he does not say it is good.

The second friend also views the picture and decides that it is—well, not so good. But he thinks more of his friend than he does of the picture—besides he admires everything his friend does. He knows that he himself would not attempt to paint so much as a sign post.

He does not quite prevaricate when he says, "Wonderful! Simply splendid! I wish I could do that. I certainly envy you! Some of these days I want to buy something of yours." The first friendship will wane. The latter will live. We love those who not only see that we have justice, but who go out of their way to help us get it. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. By the same token an ounce of praise is better than a pound of criticism.

It is not in human nature to care for those who criticize us—unless that criticism has the motive of love behind it. How quick we are to recognize the real thing and how equally quick the counterfeit!

The man or woman who calls attention to another's faults, either directly or indirectly, and announces that he does it because of friendship, is an ace-high hypocrite.

THAT funny crown on Clowny's head looks queer," so Scooty said. "But even so, I think that he makes quite a dandy king. Imagine sitting on a throne the Goofys say is all your own. If he gets tired of ruling, I would like to have a fling."

"Ha, ha," laughed Coppy. "Never fear that Clowny'll tire of ruling here. He's just the kind that gets real fun in doing things like that. Just watch now, 'cause ere he's through he'll tell us all just what to do. I know he'd rather wear a crown than any sort of hat."

Woe Clowny's face spread in a grin. He eyed the throne that he sat in, and then he shouted, very loud, "I'd like a bit of food," said Coppy. "That's no way to do. They'll take this job away from you, if you keep shouting out like that. It sounded very rude."

But all the Goofy Goos bowed low and one of them exclaimed, "I'll go and fetch a dandy dinner that will satisfy your crave." "That's fine," said Clowny, "bring a treat and plenty for us all to eat. Give him a lift, then, Coppy. Just remember, you're a slave."

Off went the little Goofy Goo, and Coppy trailed behind him too. The others gathered round the throne and sat by Clowny's feet. The three came back in just a while, and what they brought made Clowny smile. They carried several dandy trays of wonderful things to eat.

As several trays were served to him, wee Clowny smirked and quite in trim, wee Clowny smirked his lips and "course, his appetite increased. He ate of dishes very new, and all the others joined him, too. For 'bout an hour the fun went on. It was a gorgeous feast.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Every woman who is a wife and who has tried to recapture sweetheart days will know, without being told, that Faith's heart was pricked with pain a hundred times before that highway, so crowded with eager Sunday was over. There is a broad pile that it needs a sort of divine traffic officer, leading from romance to marriage. But it is a "one-way street," and if there is a path leading a dim, little-trod path, grass-grown from marriage back to romance, it is and winding, alone which if they find it at all—husbands and wives lose their way.

In the short space of five months Faith and Bob Hathaway had become very much married. Their honeymoon had lasted only three days, for after that blessed period of being alone, the family—Faith's family—had descended upon them, clamorous with demands, freighted with problems which had required all of Faith's patience and most of the time which should have gone to the tending romance's sacred fires.

And now that she had taken a day off in which to be nothing and nobody but Bob Hathaway's sweetheart, she found, to her amazement and grief, after the first hour of tremendous joy at being alone with him, that she did not know what to do with her day.

She had determined not to talk of the family, the house, financial troubles, the baby or of anything else which would remind Bob that she was his helpmeet and wife, and not just his sweetheart. But when she tried to find sweetheart topics to talk on, she was amazed to discover that she had nothing to say. She could not forever exclaim over the scenery—mistaken, hot roads flanked by parched fields and dusty-leaved trees. "Happy, dear!" she asked tremulously, for the fifth time that day, and immediately later herself for asking and for letting her voice betray her anxiety.

"Of course," response was a little less emphatic, was not elaborated with assurances that it was happiness enough to be alone with her. She were stretched upon a quilt

Women's Suits And Wraps For Fall And Winter Show Elaborateness Completely Out For Several Seasons; Fine Furs And Fabrics Used

RICHER fabrics and more complicated treatment of fall coats shown at recent fashion shows in Chicago and New York emphasize the dawn of a season of more elaborate dressing for women. These are five typical models:

ONE—The importance of tweed in fall sports wear is justified by this imported green and gray plaid top coat. Tricky revers, strapped cuffs, high waistline belt and raglan sleeves give it distinction. It is double-breasted for warmth and its patch pockets are built for room as well as appearance.

TWO—Luxuriously soft is this brown Alexa coat with its rich Kolinsky fur trimmings. Its shawl collar has an entirely new way of rippling down to form graceful folds reaching to the waistline. Deep fur cuffs shape to the elbows. Only a rich hat, such as the gold embroidered one shown, could fitly top such a luxurious coat.

THREE—Fall introduces long coats for suits. Here is a long-coated ensemble fashioned from brown tweed flecked with russet lights and enriched by a seal collar. Tan Jersey forms the blouse. Novelty gloves in fancy spotted, pliskin, add an unusual touch.

FOUR—Five bone buttons accentuate the diagonal closing of this smart kittens'-ear suit coat. A handsome fox lends a pelt for the collar. The skirt features side pleatings and a yoke with bone buttons fastening it on the side. Curious little geometric pieces of black and blue velvet work out a charming patch-work that which has only a black banding to relieve it.

FIVE—The epitome of formal elegance is reached when white ermine joins forces with rich sable to fashion an opera wrap. Its shawl collar stands from the neck in a dignified manner while a deep hem of sable adds a youthful note to the mode that is ever complimentary to women. It is lined with broadcote white, with a touch of gold in its weave to give it a soft gleam.

under a big tree, rather uncomfortably full of food, and drowsy with the heat. The ground, covered with heat-dried grass, was lumpy and very hard. She suddenly found herself wishing that he would not stretch his hand out languidly to press hers, as if he felt that the occasion called for demonstrations of love. If he didn't want to—so very much that he couldn't keep his hands off her—

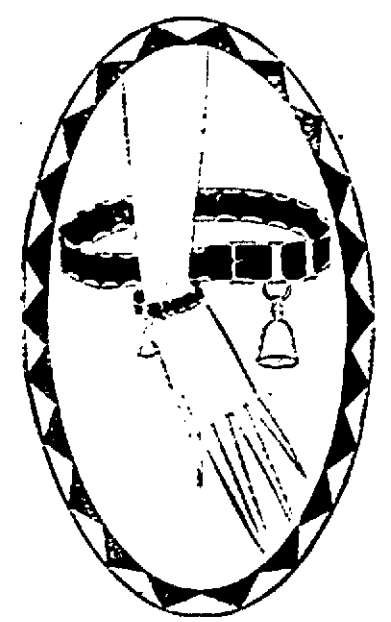

But she jerked her thoughts up sharply, returned the half-hearted pressure of his fingers ardently, even as her face was turned away to hide her tears. They had scarcely talked at all, except trivialities about the heat, the need of rain upon the crops, the unsightliness of the shrieking suburban signs. It was true that he had taken her into his arms just before lunch was spread, had murmured, "I love you, my darling Faith!" but the thrill had been lacking from his voice, from his eyes. He had turned rather too quickly after a too perfunctory embrace, to the luncheon hamper.

When she looked at him again he was asleep. She sat up then, careful not to disturb him, and for two long hours nursed her disappointment, as she faithfully fanned him with a folded newspaper, to keep the midges and the flies from his beloved face. She was glad when he awoke and suggested that they go home—

MUCH PINK KASHA IS USED IN THE MID-SUMMER COLLECTION OF PAUL POIRET. THIS COAT FOR SPORT AND TRAVEL IS OF PINK KASHA WITH A DEEP BORDER OF SHADED GRAY. IT IS MORE PRACTICAL THAN IT SOUNDS AND VERY EASY TO WEAR WITH ITS GRACEFUL SCARF-COLLAR.

YELLOW AND BROWN DOMINATE COLORS IN FRENCH STYLE SHOWS

Paris—(P)—The "yellow peril," which has threatened for several months, is expected to become a certainty this fall, dressmakers forecast show.

Yellow will be one of the smartest evening shades of the season, designers believe, although most of them are still waiting for the public verdict before launching more than a few yellow models.

Yellow is one of the prettiest shades for velvet, one dressmaker says. His house shows a fragile evening dress in pale saffron yellow and several models of banana yellows. Chanel is showing several yellow taffeta frocks.

No matter what the innovations, however, white continues to be important among fall and winter colors. The prevalence of brown and the steady popularity of black, with which beige combines successfully, may be responsible for the long reign beige has had.

At least one of the dressmakers houses shows beige almost exclusively for daytime and sport wear. There is hardly an important collection which does not recognize the steady vogue of natural and light tan tones.

One new shade for autumn is a gray-olive tint which one dressmaker calls Lava Green. This house uses it largely as a substitute for beige. Toning more to green than to gray, the new tint is one of several soft shades of green in vogue.

For evening, all-moment green is still in evidence and a shade of green that is almost black is used by some designers for street costumes.

A rich shade of dark brown which Paris calls tobacco leaf is evident in the winter collections of several dress-making houses. It combines well with lemon yellow. One of the pretty models of a house well known for its winter sport clothes has borders of tobacco leaf brown on citrus colored kasha dresses. There is a tobacco leaf brown coat to wear with the dress.

PARIS SHOWS LOWLY PELTS IN NEW HUES

Paris—(P)—Furriers seem determined to present furs in any but their natural colors.

Even the lowly animals, ordinarily uncamouflaged and inexpensive, have been so treated for the winter season that their pelts have an unfamiliar look and prices are astonishing.

Moleskin, one of the comparatively inexpensive furs in France, is a victim of camouflage this fall. The designers at one house dye moleskins the beige tints of mink and work the skins in light and dark stripes so that the effect is much like that of mink, and the price also.

Never afraid to paint the lily, Parisian furriers offer tinted real ermine for fall. Long coats and short jackets of tinted ermine are being shown in one of the most exclusive fur houses.

One of the prettiest versions of tinted ermine is soft beige color, the shade of summer ermine reproduced in the expensive winter variety. Some of these coats are worked in horizontal stripes and are lined with satin stripes sewed together to imitate the coloring of the ermine.

Metal stitching is seen on many linings of the best furs this season.

Blue and purple tints are found in a new kind of gray squirrel which a Paris fur dealer claims has been especially bred for his house. Even in a season of trick furs the fur differs from a dyed skin in that fur hairs are interspersed evenly throughout the pelt. The house sponsoring the new fur calls it blue squirrel.

Pancakes, made larger than usual and rolled up with fresh applesauce or other sauce in them, make a fine supper dessert.

MOULDY WEATHER

Bread-boxes and cake-boxes can be kept sweeter in hot, damp weather that encourages mould, if they are lined with brown paper.

POPULAR SCREENS

Three-fold screens are coming into popularity again. The smartest ones are neutral colored, with quaint prints decorating them.

EGG STAINS

Silver spoons or forks, used for eating eggs, should be rubbed with salt before washing, as egg stains will not come off with water.

FUR STORAGE

If you have not stored your furs be sure they have turpentine-soaked newspapers wrapped around them during summer months.

MOOSE WOMEN HOLD PICNIC AT WAVERLY

About 30 Women of Mooseheart legion and their children attended the picnic Thursday afternoon at Waverly beach. Cards were played in the afternoon and prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. R. Willarson and Mrs. Mary Gehring and at schafkopf by Mrs. M. Gaertner of Neenah and Mrs. Anton Fredricks of Appleton.

A picnic supper was served at 5:30 to about 40 persons, including the members and families. The evening was spent in dancing at the beach pavilion.

DINNER FOR KINSMANS AT RIVERVIEW

Dr. Kinsman, formerly professor of economics at Lawrence college, is now an American university in Washington, D. C.

DEFER TRIAL OF CASE UNTIL ATTORNEY RETURNS

Action in the case of Fred Neuman of Appleton, now out on bond on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was adjourned by Judge Theodore Berg until the return of Stanley A. Staidl, assistant district attorney, who is now attending the reserve flying officers' training school at Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich.

Neuman was arrested on the complaint of Mike Wagner, who alleges that Neuman sold him a small gas tank and a large oxygen tank, the property of the Linde Air Product Company of Milwaukee. Neuman claimed, Wagner alleges, that the tanks belonged to a wedding outfit which he sold to Wagner. The tanks were valued at about $40, the complaint states.

Mrs. Mary Carroll, Milwaukee, is a guest at the home of Mrs. K. McGillan, N. Superior-st.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Party cloudy; probably showers to-night or Saturday; slightly warmer Saturday in north and extreme east portion.

WEATHER CONDITION
The pressure remains flat throughout the country this morning, with local showery areas over wide scattered sections. The principal weather controls as shown by this morning's weather map are a slight "high" over the upper lake region, and a widespread "low" over the far west and northwest, although the "low" is slowly spreading its influence eastward, with local showers and high temperatures over the plains states and central valleys. The local "high" over this section still would appear to be strong enough to ward the showers off from this section tonight. Temperatures will be moderately warm, however.

KAUKAUNA IS STARTING POINT FOR APIARY TOUR

The beekeepers have scheduled a business session at Wausau, August 16, in connection with the meeting of the Marathon county beekeepers.

INDIANS HOLD POW-WOW AT NORTHERN CARNIVAL

Superior.—(P)—An Indian pow wow by Indians from Odanah, Lac du Flambeau reservation and from Yellow River will be a feature of the second annual water carnival to be held at Solon Springs Sunday Aug. 14.

The Indians will give an interpretation of a harvest dance in which they thank the Great Spirit for the abundant crop of berries they are now harvesting.

All other activities during the carnival will be of an aquatic nature. High powered speed boats are expected to thrill the carnival goers by racing at more than 35 miles per hour.

Married 72 Years, Pair Still Find Joy In Love

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Deadrick, photographed on their 72nd wedding anniversary.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Six years before the opening of the Civil War a Tennessee girl named Mary Adeline fell in love with a suitor named A. V. Deadrick.

Deadrick, son of the chief justice of Tennessee's supreme court, was just 21. But Mary Adeline was only 14—too young for romance, her parents decided. So she was forbidden to go through with the marriage that she and Deadrick planned.

But the young people of today didn't invent the practice of defying parental wishes. Accordingly, Mary Adeline crept out of the house one night and eloped with the young man, despite her 14 years. And her parents forgave her afterward.

"May you children have many years of happy married life," they said. The wish has been fulfilled as few wishes are. For Mr. and Mrs. Deadrick just celebrated their 72nd wedding anniversary—celebrated it surrounded by six children and nearly three-score grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Deadrick is 94; Mrs. Deadrick will be 87 this fall. The two are still active, spending much time conducting a summer resort hotel in the picturesque Unaka mountains near here.

BEAR AND FORBEAR

Here are their rules for a successful marriage:
"The most important thing to be considered after the honeymoon is to bear and forbear with each other's different opinions."

"Never do anything which you would be ashamed to have the other know about."

"When troubles come up, face them with a smile."

"Work both to the same aim in life. Let each do his or her part in the best way possible."

"Practice self-denial."

There are the rules. But there is a shine in the eyes of these two old people that hints that rules, after all, are simply rules; that the chief thing is something that can hardly be expressed, that springs from the heart and makes all the rest follow as a matter of course. You imagine that if they spoke further they would add: "And the greatest of these is love."

WOMAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ARSON

New London Resident Accused of Setting Fire to House to Collect Insurance

Margaret Hicks of New London is being held in the Outagamie-co jail on a charge of arson. She was unable to furnish $1,500 appearance bond demanded by Theodore Berg, judge of municipal court.

The woman was arrested Thursday morning by Deputy Sheriff Otto Wickert in Waupaca-co and was brought to Appleton Thursday afternoon. In the complaint sworn out by W. E. Finnegan, state fire marshal, she is accused of setting fire on July 26 to a dwelling which she owned and later attempting to collect insurance money from the Orient Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn.

She will be given a preliminary hearing on Sept. 2.

BAND OFF TO BRILLION AFTER RETURN FROM CAMP

The 120th Field Artillery band will play its first program after returning from the two-week encampment at Camp Sparta, within six hours after its arrival here. The band arrives Saturday afternoon and in the evening it is scheduled to play for a community picnic at Brillion, which starts in the afternoon. When the band arrives here it probably will parade from the depot to the band rooms before disbanding.

EAGLES MURMUR OVER LACK OF ROAD SIGNS

Delegates to the Eagles' convention who motored to Milwaukee to attend the meeting Thursday were greatly disgruntled by the insufficiency of roadside warning signs when they tried to drive out of that city. Many streets were being repaired at the time and several Appleton drivers found themselves at the end of "dead end" streets, having seen no signs to indicate that the street was not a through street.

PRESIDENT'S WAY BOTHERS MEMBERS OF BOTH PARTIES

Coolidge Didn't Say He Would and He Didn't Say that He Would Not

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The net result of President Coolidge's remarkable announcement at Rapid City has been to throw a whole crop of political experts into utmost confusion.

The president didn't say that he wasn't a candidate to succeed himself. If he had, there might be a little less confusion. He said:

"I do not choose to run for president in 1928."

That meant something, but it might mean anything, and everyone in Washington whose opinion was worth seeking suggested a different explanation.

If one man's guess is as good as another's, then the suggestion is presented herewith that the president meant to say in effect:

"The president will not participate in any dog fight. If his kennel can't lick the other kennels, he is not going to step in and dictate the result. One reason is that he doesn't care to risk being chewed up and the other reason is that such a course would be regarded as poor sportsmanship."

CAREFULLY WORDED

So carefully worded a statement as the one Mr. Coolidge actually gave and the fact that he refused to amplify it in any way are strong indications that the president hardly meant that he was definitely refusing re-election. If he had meant that, there was little to restrain him from saying just that. Your correspondent, having observed the president on numerous occasions, once suggested to one who knew Coolidge well that the president was a nervous man.

"Not that," replied this prominent person. "But he never seems at ease. One gets the impression that he isn't sure of himself. He is very easily embarrassed by conditions immediately affecting himself, although he has found from experience that a policy of waiting and doing nothing is the safest when it comes to issues which are his official rather than his personal concern."

SHOWDOWN IMMINENT

Did the situation in which Coolidge recently found himself finally become intolerable to him? Is he the sort of man who must have full and whole-hearted support of his party or none at all? Did he feel that the continued "third term" discussion, the dissatisfaction of the west and the flood areas, and the obvious fact that many important men in his own party would be glad to get rid of him—that all these things placed in an uncertain position against which he ought to rebel and demand a showdown?

If so, the Coolidge dignity has been maintained and the showdown is imminent.

Either a majority of the party leaders will break or they will stand by the president. At this writing it is probable that most of them are completely flabbergasted. They actually have been hoping with all their hearts that Coolidge would decline to run for re-election, but the way in which he did so could hardly inspire a cautious politician with his eye on the feed box to let out an immediate whoop for another candidate. At this writing they continue to express divergent opinions as to just what the president means.

STRENGTHENS POSITION

It will be much easier for politicians on the fence to express regret at the Coolidge "withdrawal" and go on their ways rejoicing, if the president's stroke may actually strengthen his position. It is much harder to shoot at a candidate who insists that the office must seek the man, and if Coolidge is not nominated, the disappointment will be less embarrassing than the crushing rebuff of going after a nomination openly and failing to get it.

It is unlikely that Coolidge acted without advice. It may even be that he received strong hints from the powerful forces behind the Republican party that there were stronger candidates than he and that if the party were to win in 1928 it must be sure its standard-bearer could hold the great electoral vote of New York against a candidate like Al Smith. There have been rumors that the forces referred to had decided as much several months ago.

WISCONSIN CITIES PAY MAYORS LITTLE

Only Two Executives Receive
$5,000 or More Per Year for Services

Madison—(P)—There may be a number of $5,000 a year men acting as mayors in Wisconsin cities but few of them receive that amount in actual salary. The University of Wisconsin Extension division has announced. Salaries in this state range from nothing in seven cities to $9,500 the annual salary of Kenosha's city manager.

Included among the salaries of mayors are the figures for city managers, of which there are three besides Kenosha's. The salary at Janesville is $7,200, at Two Rivers $5,500 and Rhinelander $4,000.

Among mayors not city managers, Milwaukee receives the highest salary, $6,500 a year. Only one other chief city executive in the state, the mayor of Superior, falls in the $5,000 class. The mayor of Oshkosh is paid $4,000 a year. West Allis $2,500 and of Eau Claire and Fond du Lac $2,500. Green Bay pays its mayor $2,000 a year.

Salaries paid the mayors of 15 other cities are above $1,000 annually. They are: La Crosse and Wausau, $2,400; Madison, $2,000; Antigo, Appleton, and Cudahy, $1,500; Chippewa Falls and Racine, $1,500; Marinette, Menominee, and Stevens Point, $1,200; Wausau, Port Washington, Beaver Dam and De Soto, $1,000.

Sixteen cities pay their mayors on a "per meeting" basis from $1 to $19 for each meeting.

AMERICANS AGAIN ARE WELCOMED TO BAVARIAN CAPITAL

Feeling of Wartime Subsidies; Americans Are Made to Feel at Home

BY MILTON BRONNER
Munich—It isn't always the most significant news that is cabled to the United States from Europe. A review by President Hindenburg, a speech by Herr Stresemann, a hot debate in the Reichstag, a clash between monarchists and Communists—these all may be interesting and important, but they are not nearly so significant and symptomatic of Germany today as something that took place recently in this fascinating capital of royalist Bavaria.

A modest advertisement appeared in the papers to the effect that a German-American society of Munich was going to celebrate at Loewenbrau Keller American Independence Day. Every American living in Munich and every American visiting in Munich proceeded to buy himself or herself a ticket, doled up and set forth for the Keller.

Upon our entry we saw every where the beloved Stars and Stripes mingled with the colors of the German republic. Three hundred Americans of German birth, come back to visit their little old state of Hesse-Darmstadt, were already there in possession of front seats. There were hundreds of Germans there, too.

The chairman of the meeting was a New York citizen of German birth. When he called the meeting to order, he said it was the custom in our country to open patriotic meetings with the playing of our national anthem. At his signal, a splendid Bavarian military band burst forth into the strains of "Star Spangled Banner." The mighty assemblage, thousands of them, all rose and cheered. Yes, cheered the American anthem a little over eight years after we put the kibosh on their victorious war.

DRINK PROHIBITION TOAST
The chairman aroused a gale of laughter by announcing we would now drink to our country in our national beverage. He raised a huge stein of—cold water!

There followed the playing of "Deutschland Uber Alles" and the toast to this was drunk in the Munich beverage par excellence—dark beer.

All during the evening other patriotic American and German tunes were played and sung and applauded with equal fervor and impartiality. I venture to call this significant and symptomatic. We heard a good deal during the war about German "hymns of hate." The Germans are certainly singing no hymns of hate against Americans now. We are the popular foreigners who visit Germany. Nowhere do people lay themselves out to be more pleasant to the visitor than here.

GERMANS APPRECIATIVE
The Germans are clever and they are long sighted. They know we were the first to extend them a hand after they were beaten. They know the war ended for us on Armistice Day and that we took nothing from them. They know our money has flowed in to their business organizations.

But money or no money, generosity or no generosity, I can't quite imagine the Germans getting together with the French on Bastille Day or with the English on their great national holiday and applauding either English or French national airs. No, not yet.

WISCONSIN'S NEED IS "ONE MOUNTAIN"

Coolidge Went West and Now
Gene Tunney Refuses to Train in State

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin needs a mountain.

That, in the opinion of a number of well meaning persons, is all that the Badger state lacks as a training camp. The argument is advanced that hundreds of thousands of tourists visit this state every year but the fact that there are no Black Hills or Adirondacks has allowed two prominent personages to politely ignore the state.

When President Calvin Coolidge came to Wisconsin this summer—to pass on through and then seek retirement and seclusion in the Dakota hills, members of the state real estate association suggested trading a few of Wisconsin's 10,000 lakes for a mountain conveniently located.

CHAMPION DECLINES
To add to the slight, Champion Gene Tunney, king of the heavy-weight boxers has been turning down a dozen invitations a day requesting him to establish his training camp, in preparation for the Dempsey bout, somewhere within the borders of the state. Mr. Tunney has retired to the Adirondack mountains where he and Bill Gibson, manager, are penning polite refusals.

Lake Geneva has offered all that civic pride can boast of with the added inducement that its army of millionaire residents can well afford to watch the champion perform. Delavan with neighborly rivalry is conducting a questionnaire for the purpose of finding out if the good folk care to see the champion pound sandbags and sparring partners.

MADISON REFUSED
Madison, following the cue of Lake Geneva, and backed up by the fact that the capital city has four lakes to Geneva's one, proffered hospitable advances. Madison, it seemed from the tenor of the note of thanks and refusal, is "not far enough in the woods." Gibson wired Wausau that he may visit that city on his way to Chicago at the end of the week. Wausau offered Rothschild park as a training camp.

Rockford, Ill., 18 miles from the Wisconsin line has high hopes of landing Mr. Tunney and his retinue which would include not only his trainers, sparring partners, but approximately 150 newspaper men. Rival cities, however, have pointed out that this Illinois city has "no mountains—not even a very big Indian mound."

Twenty-two hundred women fill important executive positions with banks.

ALEXANDER BEATS BUCS TO INCREASE LEAD OF OLD MATES

Root Hurls Chicago To Victory Over Redmen As Cardinals Stop Pirates

Charlie Takes 21st Game to Give Cubs 4 1/2 Lead; Face Three Threats

While the Cubs appeared to be serenely lodged on the National League pinnacle Friday on a margin of four and one half games, the pennant path was by no means smooth for ahead loomed a triple threat of the Pirates, Cardinals and Giants.

The Cardinals shuffled through to a 2 to 1 victory over the Pirates, the veteran Alexander getting the breaks in a hurrying duel with Aldridge.

MAX TIE FOR SECOND
Pittsburg's current series at St. Louis figures as crucial for the club as the road champions had an opportunity to go into a tie for the runner up honors by coming out in front of Pittsburg again Friday.

The Braves tagged the Phils with a 5-4 setback and Brooklyn went under in an interborough feud with the Giants 2 to 2, fast support helping Virgil Barnes to wrest a victory from Dazzy Vance.

Charlie Root turned in his twenty-first victory of the year as the Cubs blanked the Reds, 2-0.

The Yanks went eleven innings before yielding to the Senators 3-2, and at that point the game away with a wild heave into the grand stands. Babe Ruth went hitless.

Other Athletics shut out the Red Sox in the opener of a double header, 4-0, Boston, behind Pitcher Harries blanked Philadelphia, 2-0, in the second game of the double.

Chicago subdued the White Sox, 2-1 in a ten-inning affair, and Gibson held the Browns to seven hits while his Detroit mates walked off with a 6-2 decision.

THREE NEW COACHES AT VALLEY SCHOOLS

Marinette, Kaukauna, Sheboygan Have New Mentors for 1927-28

At least three new coaches will make their appearance in the Fox River valley when high school athletics open for another nine months this fall, and two of the men will appear at Valley conference schools. There also are possibilities of a fourth new mentor at a Valley school, for football duties only. New coaches already engaged are Harry "Pat" McAndrews, former Oshkosh Normal and University of Wisconsin football and track star, at Kaukauna high, and C. E. Southard, Decatur, Ill., former captain of the James Milliken University eleven, at Marinette.

McAndrews succeeds Tiger Bill Smith, Lawrence college three-sport star, who goes to West Division, Milwaukee. In his years at Kaukauna Smith developed some of the best athletic teams ever at the Kawtown school. His basketball and football squads gave Appleton plenty of competition and two years ago his gridmen trounced Appleton at Appleton, 12-0, for the first time in years.

Southard succeeds the one and only Tom Johnson, who brought more Valley and state grid titles to Marinette than any other former mentor there. Under Johnson, Marinette won more grid titles in seven years than any other state school and even played Scott high of Toledo a national title game when that team was regarded as the best in the country.

COACH NOT ANNOUNCED

Another new Valley coach will be at Sheboygan, but up to Thursday it had not been announced just who it will be, though the grid season is but three weeks away. It is thought that the school board has the selection made but is not willing to announce it yet. In a pinch, former coach Iversen, now assistant principal at the high school, could coach another winning grid squad.

PERHAPS MANITOWOC?

The other possibility is at Manitowoc, where Director of Athletics John, also has been coaching football these many years. Last year he turned over his track duties to a special coach Johnson, and rumors have it that football will go the same way. The rumors also have a former Lawrence all-state end and tackle, who has been coaching a small high school out west the last few years for the job. Lawrence and Appleton grid fans will remember the husky Jake Stoll of Shanon, a fighting lineman and a bootsman with a gilded toe, and he is the man of the rumors, but as far as can be ascertained they're nothing but rumors.

In looking over the other Valley coaches next year, every man from 1925-27 is back. Joe Shields will start his second season here after a first year of great success, started with third in football, the second in basketball and crowned with first in track and field competition. This record gave Appleton the Valley all-around title.

Fond du Lac will have Fruth, the man who has developed the most conference cage titles of any valley mentor and a goodly share of state championship quints, for caging and Baker as his old grid job. Oshkosh has its three-man staff of Schneider for grid, caging and Christensen for track, assisted by Abrahamson. Christy also aids in football and basketball.

The Bay will see two old timers of Valley athletics. Murph White still will handle all sports at West and Chet Witte at East. Chet may be handicapped somewhat in his work, however, by the skull fracture received last spring, which was decidedly serious for a time. One of his track boys hit him in the back of the head with a shot on a windy heaven.

Buffalo—Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, won on a foul from Cuddy Demarco, Pittsburgh (10).

Nek Vink—Dave Shade, California, defeated Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky. (10).

UZZUDUN LOSES TO DELANEY ON FOUL

Jack Has Best of Spaniard for 7 Rounds Before Ref. Halts Scrap

New York—(AP)—The Spanish menace to American heavyweight supremacy had drifted over the fistic horizon Friday, temporarily at least, on the wings of an unsatisfactory and disputed battle as the Dempsey-Sparkey fight.

Founded but not greatly damaged by every clout known to fisticuffs, the title threat of Paulino Uzzudun, wood-chopper of the Pyrenees, faded when Jack Delaney's right hand was lifted in victory on a foul after one minute and fifty seconds of fighting in the seventh of a 15-round fight at the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

Thrilled by the referee for low punching, Paulino was waved to his corner after a fourth left hook landed below the belt. The result stunned the spectators who had seen nothing untoward in the milling and left in its wake a controversy of "foul or no foul" that rivalled the sudden termination of the battle between Dempsey and Sparkey in the same ring and in the same round only three weeks ago.

While the fracas lasted there was no question of supremacy. Returning to heavyweight ranks six months after his defeat by Jimmy Malone, Delaney sparred Paulino at will. But hard and straight as the punches flew Paulino refused to go down.

DECIDE 1927 CITY PLAY

TITLE IN FRIDAY GAME

The Sixth ward playground softball team squeezed out a one-run victory Thursday evening in the playoff series for the city playground championship, by beating the First Ward squad, 6-5, in a game that was exciting and hard-fought to the final out. The win tied the three-game series at one all and the championship battle will be called at 6:30 sharp Friday evening at Brandt park.

Dame and Reetz formed the winning battery and Lutz and Batters worked for the losers. The First Ward had taken the opening game Wednesday evening. The first warders copied the first half of the playground league play and the Sixth warders just beat them out for the second-half title, necessitating the three-game playoff.

RIVERVIEW GOLFERS IN CLUB QUALIFYING PLAY

Play for the club championship will keep golfers of Riverview Country club busy on Saturday. The qualifying round was to have been played last Saturday but because of the state tourney at Butte des Morts it was postponed for a week. All golfers of the club are eligible for the 18 holes of medal play. The low eight scores will play in Class A, the next lowest eight in Class B, and the third lowest in Class C. One round must be played each succeeding week with match play without handicaps being used.

CAM-SCHULTZ MEN TO PLAY AT LOCKS PARK

The strong Cameron and Schultz ball club of Appleton will visit the Locks Sunday afternoon to battle the Locks ball players as an associate attraction for their Catholic church picnic. The Locks lineup included: J. Stein, 2 B; Harkey, R. F. Oudenhoven, L. F. Fitzgerald, C. F. A. Stein, Lom, S. J. Wildenberg, C. Seiber, C. F. W. Wildenberg, 3 B; B. Wildenberg, P; O. Gossen, R. F. Van Zanden, C. F.

THREE EVENTS AT BUTTE DES MORTS SATURDAY, SUNDAY

Interclub Match With Green Bay, Club Championship, Junior Event, Carded

Three golf contests in one will be staged Saturday afternoon and Sunday at the Butte des Morts Country club course when 25 local linksmen will face a team from the Fox River Valley Country Club, Green Bay, in an interclub match and the qualifying rounds of two annual tournaments will be started. The tourneys are the club championship, the most important battle for the adult members each year, and the junior championship, the big scrap for the youthful members.

The interclub match will be held only Saturday afternoon, but the other two events will take place Saturday afternoon, Sunday morning and Sunday afternoon. Green Bay will be represented by 25 players, lead by W. F. Kerwin and A. C. Witteborg, both championship flight qualifiers in the state tourney held here last year. The handicap system of scoring will be used, giving a player a point for each nine holes won and an extra point for winning both nine-hole matches. The men will be paired as evenly as possible, according to ability. The local club has not lost an interclub match this year but now face the hardest foe.

The qualifying round for the club championship can be played as a part of the interclub match Saturday with the scores made in that event counting as qualifying marks, or it may be played Sunday. After the qualifiers are chosen, the 16 low men will meet at match play for the title. The event is the last of the 1927 season.

MANY JUNIOR PRIZES

The junior championship qualifying round for junior club members also may be played as part of the interclub match Saturday or must be played on Sunday. The low 16 players will enter the title round, the next 16 Flight A, and the next 16 Flight B and so on until every entry in the meet is placed in a flight. Beside prizes for the winner and runner up in the title flight, prizes will be awarded for low gross score in each flight.

APPLETON SQUAD TO PLAY MILWAUKEEANS

Don A. C., Leaders of Cream City Major AA Loop, Here on Aug. 27-28

Appleton baseball fans will "almost" return to the days of every-day ball in two weeks when the local Fox River Valley League nine plays three games in four days, starting Saturday, Aug. 27. On that day and Sunday, an open date for Appleton in the loop, the fast Don A. C. club squad of Milwaukee will play here and on Tuesday the Bloomer girls will visit Brandt park. C. O. Baetz, business manager of the club, was all set to sign Stormy Kromer's Milwaukee Lake Shore team, which beat Green Bay, for the dates but he switched to the Dons. This team now leads the Major A. A. league in Milwaukee by a good margin and is said to be one of the best teams in the city. Charlie Stock, who formerly managed the Milwaukee Red Sox of the old Lake Shore league and Stock's Colts, runs the Don squad. He was mentioned prominently for the Brewer manager job before Jack Lellivelt took it over.

The Dons have a lineup of stars at the various positions and their hurling staff contains a pair of southpaws and a right-hand flinger of high calibre.

FREEDOM INCREASES LEAD IN WOLF LOOP

Standings: W. L. Pct.
Freedom, M. C. 8 4 .666
Black Creek 6 5 .545
Manawa 6 5 .545
Shiocton 4 8 .333

LAST SUNDAY GAMES

Freedom 10, Manawa 6.
Black Creek 11-4 Shiocton 3-3.

NEXT SUNDAY GAMES

Black Creek at Shiocton.
Freedom at Manawa.

Freedom increased its lead in the race for the Wolf River League banner to a game and a half last Sunday when it whipped the second-place Manawa squad, 10-6, at Freedom. Before the game Manawa was a half-game from the winners and by a win would have taken the loop lead from the Freedomites for the first time in over a month. The teams battle again Sunday at Manawa and a victory for the home team again will place it just a half-game to the rear of the leaders.

A loss will give Freedom a 2 1/2 game lead and will just about give it the loop banner unless it incurs a bad slump when it hits the tail-end squads. Marceske and Strutz formed the winning battery and Roman and Roman worked for the Manawa squad. In the other games of the loop last Sunday, Black Creek pulled into the race by dropping the tail-end Shiocton squad twice, 11-3 and 4-2. The double win tied the Creokers with Manawa, a game and a half from the top. Black Creek invades Shiocton for a return game Sunday and can go into second by a win, providing Freedom beats Manawa again. If Manawa beats Freedom and the Creokers win Manawa and Black Creek will be tied for second, both a half-game to Freedom's rear.

In the double bill Wall and Pohlman worked both games for the Creok crew and Krahm and Krahm for Shiocton. Each battle was seven innings in length.

MAJOR CLUBS WONDER WHO'LL GET MR. SISLER

In what club's lineup will George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns be next season?

The player, generally considered the greatest first baseman of all time, will be placed in the market this fall. Who will prove to be the highest bidder? When Owner Phil Ball announced that only four members of the present club would be retained, he let it be known, while not naming the players, that Sisler wasn't in the list. Connie Mack was once eager to secure the services of Sisler, but the poor luck that he has had with many of his veterans this season may cause him to act cautiously.

While George Sisler isn't the peerless first-sacker he was five years ago, he is far from through. New surroundings no doubt would help. It could not be expected that he would feel perfectly at home in St. Louis after having once managed that club.

A half dozen teams in the majors could use him to decided advantage, so fans can look for some spirited bidding.

It is baseball history that a playing manager who is deposed, seldom is a success in the role of mere player on the same club.

KIMBERLY PLANS TO USE C. POCAN

Protested Hurler of K-C Squad Will Attempt to Stop Green Bay Men

Kimberly—Clarence "Squaw" Pocan will be on hand Saturday to try his hand on the mound against the Green Bay Fox River Valley League team which has hammered the other pitchers of the Kimberly staff and has hopes of hammering Pocan and leaving the village with its fourth consecutive win against the Papermakers.

Rumors have been floating about that Pocan is not an eligible player but at the recent league meeting the question was brought up and a few arguments pro and con were passed but nothing definite settled.

However, as Pocan is a home town boy and at the services of the home team whenever called, it does not seem likely that it will be possible for opposing managers to declare him an ineligible player. With this in mind the Kimberly rooters will be on hand to see Pocan in his fifth league start this season and have high hopes for him to come through with his first straight victory.

Green Bay, however, is staking all on the Kimberly game Saturday. Should the Bay lose this start the penult will be a step nearer Kimberly and Green Bay will almost be out of the race, three full games behind the Kimberly team and with but eight games to be played. However, if the

NEENAH EXPECTS WIN OVER APPLETON SUNDAY

Neenah—Since its brilliant showing two weeks ago when it defeated Green Bay and showed local fandom that it can play real baseball, the odds favor Art Larsen's Neenah Valley league team to defeat Appleton here Sunday.

Larsen has strengthened the weak departments, especially around third, and the new combination has proven very satisfactory. Betteke has been holding down the third sack in great style. The pitching staff has also been strengthened. Nixon is Larsen's first pitching choice almost anytime to toe the slab. The outfield is as good as any in the circuit.

NEW WIRE WORKS BALL SQUAD DESIRES GAMES

The newly-organized Appleton Wire Works baseball team is looking for a game for Sunday afternoon but as yet has been unable to book a battle. Managers who have open dates for Sunday are requested to call Walter Wolf at 313.

Green Sox should win from Kimberly the Papermakers lead would be cut to one game and Green Bay would be within striking distance.

The Green Bay game Saturday will be the only league affair for Kimberly this week. The schedule calls for a bye on Sunday and as the Green Bay Sunday date at Kimberly comes in Oct. the schedule was changed to make it a Saturday game. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

MITCHELL, DUNDEE "WRESTLING" BOUT CALLED BY COMISH

Welter Champ, Milwaukee Boy, Clinch for 6 Rounds and Ref Stops Go

Milwaukee—(AP)—After both men had been warned several times by the referee while a crowd of 5,000 approved, the schedule ten-round bout between Joe Dundee, Baltimore, welterweight champion, and Pinky Mitchell, Milwaukee, was stopped in the sixth round Thursday afternoon.

The match was declared "no contest" and the purses of the two were ordered held up by the Wisconsin State Boxing commission.

From the opening of the fight until the beginning of the third round, it resembled closely a wrestling match. Mitchell and Dundee both resorting to clinching at practically opportunity. The hoots of the crowd and the warnings of Referee Jaeger brought some action in the third round, however, and Dundee shot several right and left crosses to Mitchell's head, the latter retaliating with stiff jolts.

Dundee in the fourth and fifth rounds apparently showed a willingness as a result of the crowd's protest, but Mitchell continued to hang on. The fight was stopped in the fifth while a final was given, and when the wrestling exhibition continued in the sixth, the two men were waved to their corners.

Cheers greeted the action of the

KIMBERLY INTER-CO TEAM PLAYS LEADERS

Special to Post-Crescent

Kimberly—Kimberly's entry in the Inter-County League will meet Little Chute in a loop battle Sunday afternoon on the local diamond. Rivalry has been especially keen this season, and all three games played between the two squads have been close. Little Chute won the first contest 17-16, Kimberly the second, 5-4, and the third, 6-5.

Little Chute is at present tied with DePere for the league top, both teams having won ten and lost three games.

Kimberly holds third place with seven wins and the same number of defeats. The game is expected to be one of the best of the season, as a loss for Little Chute will mean loss of first position, and as Kimberly has set them back for two of their four defeats and will put up a hard fight to repeat.

The likely lineup of the team for Sunday's games: Wellhouse, C. "Doc" Pocan, P. Du Pont, 1b; Courchane, 2b; Gossens or Williams, 3b; Verbeten, ss; Ritten, lf; Koll, cf; Du Chane, rf; Vandervelden and De Wildt.

New Coaches Here

John W. Hancock and Ray Dauber, former Iowa stars, will be in charge of football at Mississippi A. and M. this year.

referee and as the champion and Mitchell walked from the ring they were booed loudly. Members of the boxing commission occupied ringside and were instrumental in bringing the bout to an end.

"Warfield's advice decided me on Luckies"

At the Fairfield Country Club Hugh Beaumont explains to Miss Ethel Burnside how he came to prefer Lucky Strikes.

The Noted Actor, David Warfield, writes:

"Among other things, when young actors come to me for advice, I always say, 'Take care of your voice, cultivate it—and watch your smoking.' Usually they eye the cigarette in my hand with some suspicion. And then, I offer them a Lucky Strike—a cigarette I smoke freely, and have yet to feel the slightest effect on my throat. I've been told that toasting does that for this cigarette. When I smoke 'Luckies' my throat is beautifully clear and unirritated."

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

The third day the boy was taken to a specialist at Waupaca, completely paralyzed where an x-ray revealed the seat of injury, an adjustment was given and the boy immediately regained control of his head. In a few hours the paralyzed condition left and he was playing with his playmates.

Building Model Glider Is Easy And Is First Step Toward Constructing Miniature Airplane

(Here is the second of a series of articles, especially prepared for the Post-Crescent by the Playground and Recreation Association of America, telling how to build and fly model airplanes. These articles will appear daily.)

Before men flew in motorized airplanes they flew in gliders. Wilbur and Orville Wright spent years experimenting with engineless gliders before they began to use motors.

The builder of model airplanes will do well to follow this example. By building a glider and watching it in flight he will learn much that will be useful to him later on. Accordingly, today's article tells how to build a practical model glider.

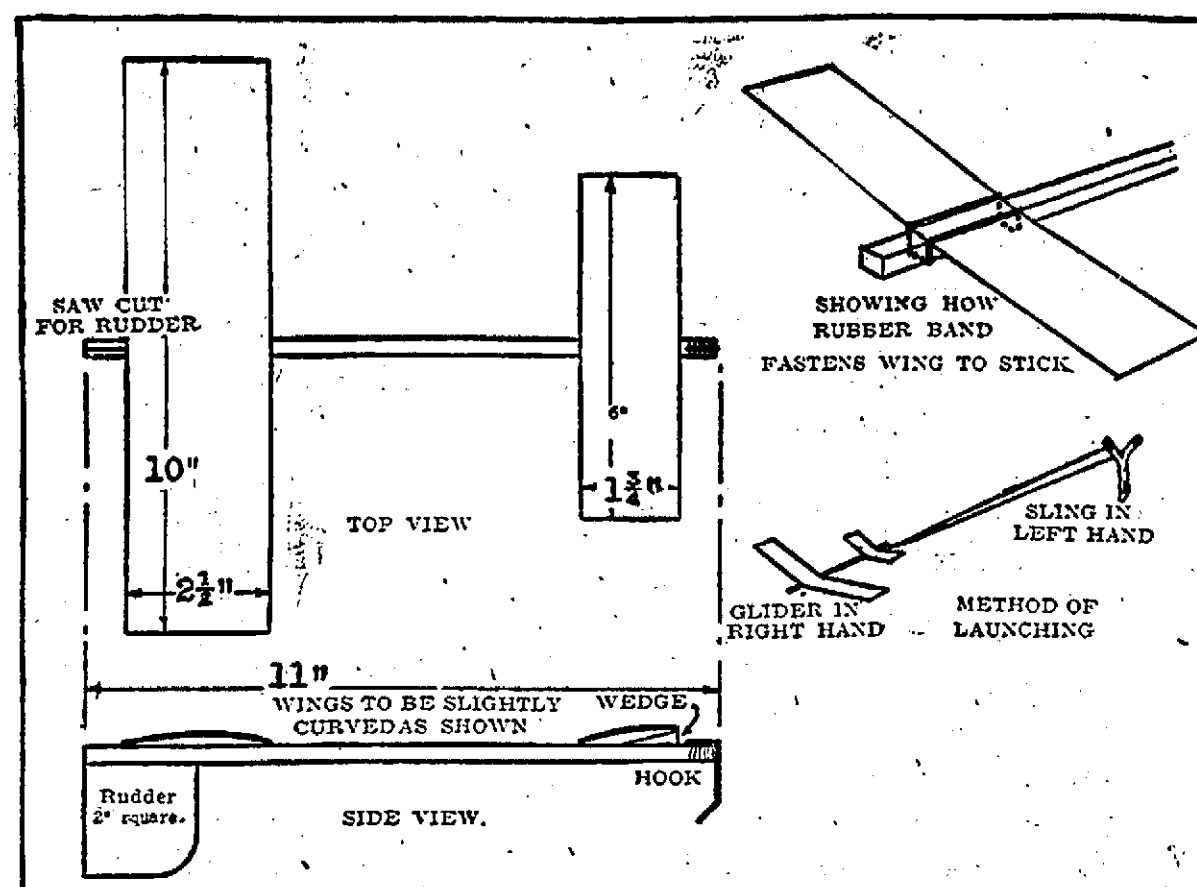

A glider, as everyone knows, is an airplane that coasts on the air. It has no engine; it stays aloft as a soaring bird does, moving forward many feet while it is descending one. The length of the glide it can make depends on the speed and height with which it is launched and on the construction of the plane.

SMALL PLANE IN FRONT
Since a glider is designed to coast slowly forward and down, it has less lifting surface—in other words, a smaller plane—in front than behind. Construction of such a glider is simple.

First of all, get a piece of wood one foot long and a quarter of an inch square. This wood should be straight as possible. Get in addition a piece of stiff, thin cardboard—wood veneer is better but harder to get—measuring 10 inches by 5 inches. The only other things you will need are a couple of small rubber bands and a piece of small stiff wire about two inches long.

Cut the wings from your piece of cardboard. The front wing is the smaller; it should be six inches by one and three-quarters inches. The other wing must be ten by two and one-half inches. Out of the remaining cardboard cut a piece just two inches square, rounding off one corner. This is the rudder.

Then take your 12-inch stick. Cut an inch off one end and cut this piece in half diagonally, so as to make a thin wedge an inch long. Take the 11-inch piece and with a fine saw make a cut two inches long in one end. Glue your rudder into this slot, as shown in the accompanying diagram. Take the little piece of wire and bend it into a hook, lashing it firmly to the other end of the stick as shown in the illustration. Your plane is now ready for its wings. Attach them as follows:

Put the wings on the stick as shown in the top view, with the big wing at the end where the rudder is. Fasten them to the stick with the rubber bands—the cut at the upper right-hand corner shows how this is done. Under the forward end of the smaller wing put the little wedge. Your glider is now ready to fly. To launch it another device is needed, much like an old-fashioned sling shot. If possible, get the crotch of a small branch or tree; or whittle one out of a side of a cigar box, so that it is shaped like a letter V. To the ends of the prongs on the V bind the ends of a strip of rubber one foot long. This can be made by linking rubber bands together or by cutting a strip from an old inner tube.

HOW TO LAUNCH IT
The plane is launched as shown in the illustration. Hold the crotch in the left hand, loop the hook over the rubber band, draw the plane back and let it go. With a little practice you will find it easy to send the glider on long flights. Do not try to give the plane too hard a start. It is better to let it take the air easily, so that it floats gently instead of darting swiftly. You may need to adjust your plane by moving one or the other of the wings slightly. A few practice flights will show you the best position for them. When you have built your glider you are ready to start on regular planes with motors. The next article will tell you how to make propellers.

PITTSBURG COURSE HAS "GOLFING CAT"

Feline Follows Players Around Until She Has Put in a Full Day

Pittsburg, Pa.—Few cats, if any, care very much about golf.

Indeed, your average cat can scarcely tell a midiron from a barbed wire fence.

But the Stanton Heights Golf club here has a cat that is different.

This cat, appropriately named Niblick, joined the club about a year ago. An emaciated stray, one day, took a good look around and decided to stake out a claim. She has been there ever since.

And, by this time, she has become an enthusiastic golfer. In fact, she does her 54 holes regularly, every day.

No matter how early in the morning the first group tees off at the first hole, Niblick is on hand to watch. She squats attentively until all the members of the party have their drives; then she strolls down the fairway, pausing beside each golfer while he swings. When the green is reached she sits down quietly and watches the players putt.

GOOD SPECTATOR
She stays by the ship, too. Never will she approach the green until the ball has been struck there. Nor will she go on to the next tee until the last putt has been sunk.

After 18 holes she goes to the clubhouse for breakfast. Then comes recreation—for golf is, to Niblick, a highly serious business, not a sport.

Niblick goes to the practice green for her fun. There she plays a quiet game of her own invention—keeping the balls out of the cups. Like a goal tender in a game of hockey she mounts guard, batting the balls sideways with her paws when they roll toward the cup. She narrowly missed being murdered when she started this diversion, but now the players have gotten into the spirit of the game and enjoy it as much as she does.

RATHER "CHOOSY"
In the afternoon she does another 18 holes. This time she is more particular. She won't go around with just anybody; the golfer who has Niblick for company on his afternoon round can rest assured that he is pretty good. Often she will start out with a foursome only to desert it when she discovers its real ineptitude; on such occasions she waits at the second or third green for the next group to come along and show her some real golf.

Then, in the evening, she does another 18 holes. This is more in a spirit of fun, and she will follow a dub as cheerfully as a champion.

After her 54 holes are completed Niblick vanishes. Off across the fairway she scampers, to tee herself in the rough and doubtless to hunt field mice. Where she spends her nights no one knows.

But always she is on deck first thing in the morning, waiting to tee off with the first golfers.

FORMER TITLIST WINS HONORS IN CHI MEET

Chicago—(AP)—Scoring seven threes on the first nine of his afternoon round, Robert A. Gardner, an amateur golfer who once was a national open champion, won low gross honors at the fifteenth annual club relations tournament of the Chicago district Thursday.

Gardner scored 3's on the first six holes, then two 2's and another 3 on the ninth for a total of $1.40 under par. His total for the 36 holes was 132.

AG ENROLLMENT AT UNIVERSITY DROPS

President Glenn Frank Is Worried Over "Urbanism vs Ruralism"

Madison—(AP)—Although the total enrollment at the University of Wisconsin has been increasing steadily during the past two decades, enrollments in the college of agriculture have fallen off at an alarming rate since 1914, the university registrar's office announced today.

Empty class rooms in the new agricultural buildings during recent school sessions have been mute testimony of the dilemma. Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university, spoke of at the 1927 graduation exercises—the problem of "urbanism vs. ruralism."

865 FARMERS
Since 1914, when 1,750 students were enrolled in agricultural courses, the enrollment has dwindled steadily, until this last term, when there were only 865 "farmers."

During these years the home economics department dropped off $3 in enrollment. The two-year agricultural course has decreased 700 per cent. There were more students taking the dairy course in 1890 than there are now, and only one-third as many are taking courses in this work relating to Wisconsin's greatest industry, as were enrolled in 1914.

ENROLLMENT MOUNTS
"There is a great, fundamental economic cause underlying this trend in enrollment figures," President Frank said. "Young people are getting away from agriculture. They see that farmers are not getting a square deal in the distribution of this nation's wealth. Therefore they go into something else. Urbanism vs. ruralism is the dilemma which is facing Western civilization."

12 MEN PLAY FINALS IN HORSESHOE MEET

FRENCH NET INVASION STARTS WITH TOURNEY

Southampton, N. Y. — (AP) — The semi-final round in the Meadow Club's annual invitation tournament this year has become the opening skirmish in the French invasion of United States turf courts. Big Bill Tilden battles Jacques Brugnon and George Lott, the sensational Chicago youngster, pits his chopstroke against Rene LaCoste, conqueror of Tilden twice in the last year.

The round, scheduled for decision Friday, is seen as having some bearing on the probable outcome of the Davis Cup matches in September, especially if the final Saturday brings together Tilden and LaCoste, who last year won big Bill's own United States championship and beat him in the international duel.

JACK LOCKWILL IN THE WOODS

The vindictive man, smarting with the remembrance of his discomfort when he had attempted to shoot the bear, had sneaked back to the boys' camp, alone. "I knew they lied when they told us which way he went!" he shouted. "Now where's your old man and that dratted bear? You better tell me in a hurry!" Bam! dropped the cans and began to fight, tooth and nail.

Jack Lockwill reached them, on the jump, and tore the struggling girl from the man's hands. With a blow, he sent Frye reeling against the trees.

Recoiling, Frye struck at the boy with his right hand. Jack ducked under, stepped forward, and hurled the man down, with a backheel trip and a chin thrust.

Then McNally and Darling arrived on the scene. "Give it to him!" roared Tom, ready to jump on the man, who, more than a little dazed, was sitting up. "No!" cried Jack, restraining McNally. "There are three of us, and guess I can handle the lumbering lout alone." "Now I will have the law on the pack of ye!" snarled Frye, scrambling up and backing away. "I'll get a warrant!"

Lou and Babe are cheapening the market. Now if one of the boys will kindly belt a grandstand over a home-run—that will be NEWS.

Tex went clean out to Chicago to arrange for his fight. Nothing like patronizing the wholesalers.

U. S. promises a sweeping investigation of ticket gouging for the next heavy fight. Poor Gene Tunney's in Dutch already. He's training at Speculator.

Heien Willis deserves credit for her cleanup of Spring and Summer tennis tournaments. We hope no one will be uncouth enough to remind her Suzanne Lenglen was not entered.

NEARBY
TOWNSARRANGE DETAILS FOR BIG GATHERING OF VALLEY FARMERS

Parade, Contests and Games
Will Keep Hundreds of Visitors Interested

Kaukauna—Charles Grode of the town of Kaukauna has charge of races and athletic contests at the farmer picnic to be held at LaFollette park, on Sunday, Aug. 14. He has chosen William Smith, local playground supervisor; P. R. Maginnis, Y. M. C. A. secretary; and Gilbert St. Mitchell, municipal swimming instructor, as officials for the races and games.

A feature will be a tug-of-war between members of the Kaukauna Livestock Shipping-association and the Neenah Livestock Shipping association. There will be other tug-of-war between the various grange locals. Games for children include a bicycle race, foot race, boy's foot race, girl's foot race and three-legged race, fat men and lean men also will race.

Women are particularly interested in the pillow contest. In this contest the women are arranged in teams of ten each and the game is to take the pillow casing off the pillow and replace and toss it to the next member of the team who must be standing ten yards away. Members of the winning team will be given prizes. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of every contest.

R. A. Amundson, county agent was in the city Wednesday afternoon arranging for the line of march for the parade. He was favorably impressed with the arrangements being made for the picnic. Mr. Amundson commented upon the natural amphitheater in the park.

SOFTBALL GAME ALMOST BREAKS UP IN FIGHT

Kaukauna—One of the most bitterly contested games of this season of softball at Kaukauna was played Thursday evening at the municipal playground when the electricians defeated Andrews Oils 4 to 2. Rivalry between the teams was so keen that the game was constantly interrupted by wrangling and at the conclusion of the game a near-riot started when a member of the Oil team said he would protest the game because of a decision made in an early inning.

For three innings neither side scored. Minkebege and Merles pitched good ball with wonderful support. In the fourth round the Oils scored three runs and the Electricians men, in their half of the fourth scored two runs and two more in the fifth inning, just enough to win the game.

OFFICIALS PLEASED WITH RAILROAD SHOPS

Kaukauna—H. T. Bentley, general superintendent of motive power for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, and E. B. Hull, superintendent of motive power and machinery for the same road, inspected the company's shops here Wednesday afternoon. Before leaving for Antigo the officials commented upon the good work being done by the Kaukauna employees of the railroad and expressed themselves as being entirely satisfied with progress in Kaukauna.

"MOVIE" INVENTOR
SOLD HIS PATENT
FOR $5,500 CASH

When Exhibiting Pictures, Would Lure Crowd Inside and Then Collect.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—"So I took the $5,500 and went out with my girl and we had a whale of a good time."

Thus ends the story of the birth of the motion picture industry as told by its acknowledged father, who sold the patent for less than the weekly salary now received by some movie stars.

This man is C. Francis Jenkins, the Washington inventor who, after learning to fly at the age of 50, has announced a series of inventions which threaten to make operation of airplanes safer than automobiles.

Chief among these, for instance, is a launching device which Jenkins asserts will do away with the need for long runways at landing fields, and will enable planes to leave the ground in very restricted space.

LIKE ROLLER COASTER
It consists in a short runway that looks like a section of a roller coaster. The upper end is 32 feet high; the plane to be launched is pulled to the top by cable and waits there, its landing wheels in guard rail channels and its tail skid in another channel. Its motors are started and it is let go; the force of gravity, plus the pull of the propellers, sends it down the runway at a terrific speed.

At the bottom of the runway the guard rails pull the tail skid down abruptly, heading the ship up into the air. The plane's speed, Jenkins says, is now twice the required lifting speed, and it shoots aloft quickly and easily. This runway, he predicts, will obviate the need for big airports and long runways and will enable cities building airports to save thousands of dollars.

But to get back to moving pictures—about which Jenkins loves to reminisce:

Jenkins invented the motion picture projector and so became the first man to throw movies onto a screen. Being a pioneer, he had to invent the first movie camera and other equipment at the same time. Today his first projector very similar to all those now used in theatres, is displayed at the National Museum in a case devoted to his early work. Others have tested his claims to priority, but museums, institutes and historians have upheld him.

How the first movie was shown on

RIOTER JAILED

Because she led thousands of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers on a turbulent parade through downtown streets of Chicago, Aurora D'Angelo, 18-year-old school girl, has been jailed. The parade ended in a near-riot.

a silk handkerchief, how no one could be persuaded to see the first public exhibition, how the future of movies was unanimously regarded as no future at all and how Jenkins finally sold his patents for $5,500 was told to this writer by Jenkins himself.

"I doubt if any pioneer inventor knows just how his big idea first struck him," said the stubby little genius who turns out inventions much as Henry Ford turns out flivvers. "It just sneaks up on him. The first thing you know you've got a crazy idea and begin to play with it."

"It was between 1890 and 1893 that I began to play with the movie idea. I got the idea of making a rapid succession of exposures of the same object, speeding it up in a magic lantern. For want of anything else, I called the result a 'device for recording in the reproducing motion.'"

At about this time, Jenkins explains, Edison was working on his "Kinetoscope," in which one could see movies by gazing down into a box. The Jenkins invention was called a "phantoscope."

"Every motion picture machine is a magic lantern equipment to change pictures fast," continued Jenkins. "What I produced was the little mechanism which changed the pictures."

"I had to make a new little camera to take pictures rapidly and had to make my own film by splitting regular kodak film into three strips and sticking them together with collodion to make a long strip which I turned to today. I even had to invent a new developing device for such a long strip of film."

MADE HIS CAMERA
"The first pictures I ever projected were made on a silk handkerchief, stuck against the wall, in 1892."

"It was long about this time that Edison had said that his kinetoscope would never amount to much because one couldn't project the pictures. The whole key to successful motion pictures lies in the achievement of making a projector which would show separate and distinct pictures on the screen."

"After I had made my projecting machine—the one now in the museum—I began giving private exhibitions to my boss (I was then secretary to Sumner T. Kimball, head of the Life Saving Service), my girl and her relatives."

HAD NO AUDIENCE
"The pictures were mostly of athletes and dancing girls in action. Later I made the waves at Atlantic City, and Niagara Falls—in nearly broke me, getting to Niagara Falls."

"Then someone introduced me to a young man who had come and invited me to make three copies of my projecting machine and took it to Atlanta."

"There we built the first motion picture theatre in history, at the end of the midway at the Cotton States Exposition, in 1895."

"This was the first time anyone ever charged admission to the things. We charged 25 cents, but we couldn't get anyone to come in. It was impossible to explain to people just what we had."

"Finally, more or less in desperation, we opened the doors and invited everyone to come in and rest. Many were tired after reaching the end of the midway and they came. With a fairly good crowd inside, we closed the door and ran a show."

BEGAN MAKING MONEY
"Some of our feature pictures were as much as 100 feet long!"

"When the show was over, our speller came out and made a speech, the burden of which was: 'Ladies and gentlemen, the gentlemen who have brought to you these wonderful pictures did not come here for their health. It cost them money to come here. If anyone has received a quarter's worth of entertainment, they may leave the quarter at the door.'

"People actually left quarters and we began to make money."

"Then one night the place burned down."

"The other fellow got all the money and I got the experience."

OLD STUFF
HE: Would you mind telling me your age?

SHE (ingenuously): Not at all, I'm eighteen.

HE: Times what?—Tit-Bits.

Fish scales are now valuable, being used in the manufacture of imitation pearls. A Heathsville, Virginia, fisherman recently sold $100 worth of herring scales from one day's fishing.

GERMAN STUDENTS SPEND

GERMAN STUDENTS SPEND

Berlin.—(P)—Eighty boys and girls of high school age, all from families of modest means, have left for France to spend the vacation as guests of French families having boys or girls of the same age. In return, eighty French boys and girls will come to these German families five weeks later for a stay of equal length.

The project for this novel exchange of students was managed by the League for Human Rights, an international pacifist organization. The League feels that if Frenchmen and Germans of the generation now growing up learn to know each better, the talk about the "traditional France-German enmity" will be bound to die out.

Both the German and the French governments showed their sympathy for the scheme by granting free visas and greatly reduced railway fares. Teachers accompanied the students as far as Paris, where the German embassy took them in charge and saw to it that they reached their final destination safely.

FEW CHILDREN IN SCHOOLS OF CITY ARE OVERWEIGHT

Over 1,000 Pupils Found to Be of Less Than Average Weight

Nearly 12 per cent of the grade school children weighed and measured by the city school nurses last year were underweight 10 per cent or more, according to the annual report made by Miss Mary E. Orblson and Miss Jane Barclay, school nurses. Less than 3 per cent were 20 per cent or more overweight. There were 8,702 children weighed and measured, and of these 7,423 were normal weight, 1,015 were underweight, and 248 were overweight. Eighty children were below their normal grade for their ages. Only 148 of the 2,856 pupils enrolled in the public and parochial grade schools were not examined by physicians in the health program adopted this spring whereby local doctors were to give free physical examinations to the children in the schools. Those not examined were those whose parents objected, or those not attending school the days the physicians were there. Defective teeth were most common in children. In dental examinations made at the beginning of the year by local dentists 1,316 children had defects and 109 of these were corrected in the free dental clinic sponsored by the Kiwanis club and the board of education.

Tonsils came second in importance with 975 children with tonsillar defects. Of these 35 were corrected. There were 238 found with nasal breathing, 327 with defects of vision, 244 defective thyroid glands and 240 defective cervical glands. One hundred fifty-seven children had defective posture and 128 were malnourished. Defects of the eyes were found in 115 cases and five were corrected. Other defects found were: 82 skin, including rash, sores, etc.; 15 pediculosis and all were corrected; 74 heart; and seven lungs.

There were 160 cases of measles and 76 whooping cough reported by the nurses. Chicken pox was found in 48 cases, scarlet fever, 12; influenza 22, one case of mumps and 12 cases of pneumonia. Instruction was given for the correction of 255 defects and defective skin conditions were found in 24 cases. One case of tuberculosis was found and one of syphilis. Two cases of mental deficiency were located. There were 74 undiagnosed cases, and 133 cases reported where pupils were not ill. There was one orthopedic, 13 other surgical, and seven other medical cases. Thirty-one children were accompanied to the hospital or clinic.

Fourteen schools were visited and 317 school visits made. Complete inspection was given to 1,445 children and 3,931 had partial inspections. Two hundred fifty individual conferences were held. One hundred pupils were examined by the dentist and 72 were excluded from school. Notices were sent to 3,089 parents. Classroom talks were given on 130 occasions. There were three group talks to parents with 120 parents attending.

First aid was given to 118 persons and 38 temperatures were taken. Five cases of anemia were found and four of hernia.

Teachers' health was apparently good in 88 cases and fair in 13. Their interest in health was good in 87 cases and fair in seven. In school sanitation, heating was good in 11 cases, fair in two and poor in one; lighting was good in nine and fair in five; ventilation was good in seven, fair in one and poor in

NEW LONDON STREET TO COST TWENTY MILLION

London —(AP)—A stretch of road through the heart of London to the dock district is to be built at a cost of $20,000,000.

The new road will be known as the Victoria Dockroad. It will be carried for a considerable distance on arches, thus doing away with traffic delay now caused by swing bridges and grade crossings. Nearly 700 houses must be torn down to make way for the road. The Government will pay 75 per cent of the cost, and the London County Council 25 per cent.

There were 108 office interviews held, 962 phone calls made, 19 items given to newspapers, and 72 letters and pamphlets sent. Forty-five interviews not elsewhere specified were held. Three health centers or clinics were attended and four such visits made. One hundred seventy six persons attended the dental clinic. Two health committee meetings were attended, three parents teachers associations attended, three nurses meetings and three other sessions. ## INTEREST IN HORSES IS REVIVED IN STATE

Many Equine Entrants Received by Officials of Seymour Fair

"Hold your elephants—the horses are coming!" So many horses will be shown at the coming Seymour Fair, August 22 to 25, that fair officials are thinking seriously of adopting the above slogan to advertise the show.

For, contrary to general belief, a revival of interest in horse raising is taking place everywhere. Saddle, harness and draft horses are becoming more popular every day as will be evidenced by the entry at the show. Horses vary in size from little shetland ponies, weighing a couple of hundred pounds, to a big draft horse, weighing 2,000 pounds or more, will be entered in the horse show. According to Superintendent Findlay A. Shephard, there is a keen demand for draft horses today. To encourage the breeding of bigger and better draft horses in this locality the fair management is offering liberal premiums for the more popular breeds, including Percherons, Clydesdales, Belgians, Roadsters, Work and Grade Drafts.

"The automobile, truck and tractor can do many things efficiently and economically," says Mr. Shephard, "but the horse is the only machine that the farmer can rely on to do all kinds of work. A stable of breed mares will not only do all or much of the work on the farm but more than pay their way with colts raised by them. From the time a colt is three years old, it will pay its way with the work it will do. If sold, the greater part of the sale price may be considered profit."

Entries in the horse department will close August 20.

BRITISH CABBIES NEVER TOO OLD FOR BUSINESS

London —(AP)—Taxi-drivers of New York are infants compared to their colleagues of London.

Cabbies 50 and 60 years old are the rule rather than the exception here, between a taxi-driver in which the Earl and Countess of Wharnclyffe were riding, and an omnibus. Testimony The other day there was a collision showed that the cab-driver was 72 years old, and had been driving in London for 50 years. When the motorcar came in he was one of the first to adopt the new mode of transportation.
